Montreal Man Perfects Temper Process'

In the near future Canada may be the centre of the influstrial world because of Ernest Tremblay, (above), Montreal inventor, who has discovered a special process for tempering steel, copper, aluminum and iron. Sceptics of the first hour are now reported raving about the invention, which can' temper steel all the way through, but which has been found best when only tempered a hundredth of an inch thick. Tremblay is shown (above) carving an axle with a nail tempered with the new process. The nail was as sharp after the experiment as when it started. Several offers for the process are reported to have been turned down by the Montreal man, who is now fulfilling several industrial

Recently I was given a subscription to your paper. I enjoy it and although Acton district is not at all familiar to me. I read with interest all the events in "Neighborhood News."

One suggestion I would like to make is: Why don't you run a Woman's Column? It could be called Home Chats -Home-lovers, or a dozen other good names. Women who keep house love With the change in curriculum the a corner of their own in a paper-not Board was not faced with a building to exchange receipts in, but to chat and expenditure. As yet there was nothing exchange ideas and tell some of their official on the subject. Mr. McDonald own little experiences, that may help expressed regret that no more school some one else. I know that's true, for reports were to be published in THE PREE for years I have been writing to a morning paper and have so many good page take.
