Now Get Your History and Settle This One

Once in a while we are accosted by persons who take a little pleasure out of these simple puzzles. Small youngsters will try to squeeze the answer from us in time to submit it to the editor. Big oldsters supply us with words which they want put into puzzle form, so we said to an older, "Give us a word and perhaps we will use it this week." He gave us a word, and it may be here—then again it may not be here.

"We were trying to get the date of the landing of Chris' Columbus this week, and the persons we enquired from whispered, 'He wants it for 'The Puz' Puzzle.'" They even asked the teachers at school and all they learnt was that it was "Some time this week." If it had not been for the radio, or the Toronto Star, we would not be able to use Christopher in this week's puzzle—even if we wanted to. Now, everybody should know that it was October 12th, 1492.

Then again, we remember that Sir Robert Borden organized a Union Cabinet some years ago, on October 12th.

There are lots of historical anniversaries during this week, and we will choose one of them. If you can pick it out and win that half dollar. You will find this puzzle to contain the day of the month (somewhere between the 9th and 16th) and the event which happened. October will be omitted.

If we tell you any more, it won't be a puzzle at all.

My first is in Bunny and also in rabbit, My second in probe, but never in stab it; My third is in ear and also in head, My fourth not in food, but always in bread.

My fifth is in water, but never in tea, My sixth not in river, yet formed in sea;

My seventh is in arc, but isn't in is, My eighth in a question, but not in a query.

My ninth is in lease, but never in yes, My tenth in a phrase, but not in a text, My eleventh is in row, so of course in a tier.

My twelfth in a prophet, but not in a seer.

My next you will find in a plate—not a dial,

My fourteenth in desire, but not in a wish;

The next letter comes with every event, And the next in a hole, but not in a dent.

For the next you must look at me straight in the eye, And the eighteenth is found not in race, but in vie;

Then the next, of course will be found in nineteen,

And the twentieth letter in notice is seen.

The last but one is in short, but not long.

While the last is in hymn, And this ends our song.

HE KNEW

Said one man to another: "I thought you said that when you married you would be master in your own house, or know the reason why."

"I did."

"Well?"

"I know the reason why."

GOOD WORK!

A Negro mammy had a family of well-behaved boys. One day her mistress asked:

"Gally, how do you raise your boys so well?"

"Ah 'il tell you, missus," answered Gally. "Ah raises dem wid a barrel stove and Ah raises 'em frequent!"

THE GURNEY-RAE WEDDING AT WINGHAM SATURDAY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Rae, in Wingham, was the setting for a pretty wedding at noon Saturday, when their daughter, Miss Mary Ella Rae, was married to Mr. William Wallace Gurney, son of W. H. Gurney and the late Mrs. Gurney, Wingham. Rev. Kenneth MacLean officiated, and Miss Sara McLean was soloist, with Miss Kate King, of Sarnia, as accompanist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white georgette over satin, made with shirred bodice, full skirt, and long fitted sleeves, pointed at the wrists. Her flowers were a shower of Better Times roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Betty Rae in a gown of myrtle green velvet with gold accessories, and bouquet of Brainerd roses.

Mr. Bruce Fox, of Guelph, was groomsmen.

A reception was held after the ceremony, with Mrs. Rae receiving in a gown of asier velvet, with corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. R. E.
