Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swackhamer and family appreciate very much the kindnesses shown in so many ways by friends here and elsewhere during the illness of Mrs. Swackhamer. These wishes and kindly deeds have been very helpful along the road to recovery.

The Puzzle Poem for the Week

By W. COLLES

My first you'll find right in the moon, but no part of a star.

My second always in beyond but never in afar.

My third is in the sun and stars, my fourth in heavens is found.

My fifth is never in a flat, but in the earth, that's round.

My sixth is always in advance, but never in retire.

My seventh you see in every blaze, yet never in a fire.

My eighth is in a telescope, as also is my next.

My tenth is in a sermon, but never in the text.

My last you find in every day, why whole a house or tower.

Where you can view the heavens and wonder at their power.

THE CANNY SCOT

A Scotsman and an Englishman were fishing. It was arranged that the first man to land a fish should stand the other a drink.

After a few minutes the Scot pointed out triumphantly that his companion had something on his line. The Englishman drew it in. It was a miserable three-inch specimen.

The Scot swallowed his drink, and said:

"Well, I think I'll bait ma hook now."

Acton Takes Georgetown but Lose to Oakville

throw to the plate; R. Brush singled, scoring Dumarche. With the bases loaded, Poolitt struck out. A nasty accident happened about this time. W. Ritchie caught a hot one on the bare hand and broke his entire finger. He seems to have a lot of tough luck, that being the third time he was hit while receiving. Ward went in to catch and Kemshead took his place at second. Gordon scored on a wild pitch and Lamb fled to Bryden in left field, 3 runs; 4 hits.

Eighth Inning—McMenemy walked; Toat grounded to Gordon; I. Ritchie struck out; Bryden walked; Kemshead was hit by Gordon, and, with the bases filled, Gordon struck out Smith. A peculiar incident happened in this inning. After Gordon hit Kemshead, Mooney walked over to Gordon and got the ball. He pulled the hidden ball on Bryden and the side retired and the Georgetown fielders came on the field. Toat and Umpire Peterson argued for awhile and the umpire called Acton back to the field. The ball had not gone back in play, so Bryden was safe at second. However, as stated above, Gordon struck out Smith, to hold Georgetown still scoreless, 0 runs; 0 hits.

Mooney struck out; Molozzo fled to McMenemy; and Anderson fled to McMenemy, 0 runs; 0 hits.

Ninth Inning—McNally singled; Chapman reached first when Mooney let a hot one go through him; Ward grounded to Toat; Gordon, Mooney and Kirk got out. Toat reached first on Dumarche's error, and McNally and Chapman scored; L. Ritchie walked and Bryden grounded to Gordon, 2 runs; 1 hit.

COMMENTS
Acton had four errors to Georgetown's three. Dumarche shouldered the blame for Acton, along with Mooney and Guthrie, while Toat was the big and only offender for Georgetown.

The accident to Bill Ritchie was very unfortunate and we regret it had to happen here in Acton. Nobody was to blame and we sincerely hope Bill isn't laid up too long.

It might be interesting to know in the last two ball games Acton have held the opposition scoreless for 13 consecutive innings.

Gordon tried hard for a no hit, no run game, but just couldn't do it. Smith, the big hitter for Georgetown in the last Acton encounter, was struck out twice by Gordon on Saturday, once with three men on.

The Acton infield have shown decided improvement, despite the three errors on Saturday.

Next trip, Oakville Wednesday (last) night. The starting pitcher has not been announced, but we presume Cripps will get the call.

The crowd Saturday was better but still not large enough for a winning team.

Terry handled the boys from the bench and kept them constantly on their toes.

OAKVILLE 3 — ACTON 1

Acton nine went down to defeat in a close contest when they journeyed to Oakville last night. The Oakville club has been strengthened and Gibb, a new pitcher, seemed a bit of a puzzle to the Acton batters. A few bad breaks went against the Acton boys, that contributed to their defeat. Don Ryder, of the local southpaw staff, went the route and he pitched good enough ball to have a win. The win put Oakville into the running again and they now have a good strong team on the field. Acton's lone tally was a home run by Norm Morton in the first inning. "Hits were fairly evenly divided at 5 for Oakville and 4 for Acton.

HEADS INVESTIGATION

Heading the public investigation into the disaster of the submarine, Theta, that sank in Liverpool Bay with a loss of 99 lives, is Sir Alfred Townsend Bucknill, above, Judge of the High Court of Justice, whose appointment was made by Premier Chamberlain in the House of Commons.

But Acton had three errors against those for the Oakville squad.

YEAR AFTER YEAR

The Waterloo Band Festival grows larger and larger. Come and hear, among other things, the biggest competition of Bugle and Trumpet Bands ever held in Canada. See and hear over fifty bands on parade, and most colorful and effective fireworks display so far presented. Don't forget the date, Saturday, June 24th, at Waterloo Park, Waterloo, Ont.

The Royal Visit as Seen on a Niagara Falls Visit

There was much disappointment in Acton on June 16th, after the Royal train had passed and the King and Queen did not appear, and many citizens journeyed to other towns that same day and were rewarded by seeing Their Majesties, at Chelph and Kitchener. A large number travelled next day to Hamilton, and Niagara Falls.

We had arranged some days before to go to Niagara, having been invited to help in the work of lining the route. So, early on the morning of the 17th, we hopped into a car with Mr. and Mrs. Jones, of the "Y," Mrs. M. Ryder and our own lady. That was at 5:30 a.m. At Hamilton we visited the rock gardens and drove around the city, admiring the decorations. Then on through St. Catharines to the Welland Canal and lingered there long enough to see an ocean freighter from Norway being put through the locks on her way to Lake Ontario. Arriving at Niagara the ladies were welcomed at the home of Mr. Jones' parents and the men went on to the office of the Chief of Police, to register for whatever work there was to do. Here we were given tickets for the ladies, which gave them a seat in a reserved area. Next we went to the Mayor's office at the City Hall, and Mr. Jones was chosen by the Mayor to drive his car for the remainder of the day.

After lunch, at the Jones', we reported at the City Hall for duty, and were put into a platoon of firemen. We did not feel very much at home among the fire fighters, so slipped away to the Legion headquarters, where, as usual, we stood better and, perhaps, in better accord. There was, very thorough organization here, no mix up such as experienced in Toronto. There were no wrong commands being barked at us. Those in command of the veterans knew their duties. The bugler sounded the "Fall in," the color party was selected and marched to the head of the column. Then the commands, "Number 1 Move to the right in four!" Form Forward! Right! Quick march!"

And so as in other days, some 25 years ago, though we knew not where, we were going, we were on our way. We were marched to Victoria Park, where the reception ceremonies were carried out. Enjoyed the crowds, especially the children who were there in tens of thousands, admired the ceremonial parade of the Royal Air Force and were well rewarded with a close up view of Their Majesties. Further orders were then issued that the Legion was required for duty at the station, when the Royal train would leave for the United States at 10:30 p.m. Not being as young as we used to be, we decided to be absent from this parade, and watched the parade of cars from a position at the curb. Supporter, quite late, at our heels, the Joneses, to whom our hearty thanks. It was nearly one a.m. when we left the Falls, arriving home about 3:30 a.m., entirely satisfied with the experience of the day, and of the to-morrow we had nothing to worry about not being as young as we used to be. W. C.

JUST REPETITION

Young Man: "Why do you keep repeating that?"
Very Old Man: "Because I like to hear it talk. The parrot is the only creature gifted with the power of speech that is content to repeat just what it hears without trying to make a long story of it."

INDEPENDENT

Old Lady: "I shouldn't cry—like that, my boy."
Small Boy: "Cry as you pally well please, this is my way."

King and President, Queen and First Lady Ride in Triumph Together

A warm sun, cheering throngs and airplanes crowning overhead formed a glorious setting for the arrival of King George and Queen Elizabeth in Washington, capital of Canada's great friendly neighbor and once a colony of another King George. The King and President Roosevelt in one car and the Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt in another are seen here as they drove from the Union Station to the White House, the "first ladies" sharing a parasol to ward off the rays of the hot sun.
