ALL ON HAND

The manager of a well-known touring company wired to the proprietor of a theatre in a small town where his company was to appear:

"Would like to hold rehearsal at your theatre to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock. Have your stage manager, stage carpenter, property man, chief electrician and all stage hands present promptly at that hour."

Three hours later he received the following reply: "All right. He will be there."

KNEW HIM

Husband (arriving home late)—Can't you guess where I've been? Wife—I can, but tell me your story.

WEARING THEM DOWN

"Here, have you paid your rates, Bill?" "No, and I'm glad I didn't." "How's that?" "Oh, I got a form to-day, which said, 'Final application,' so it looks as though they are giving it up as a bad job."

DEBATE ENDED

Doctor (who bought a new car)—Look here, that car you just sold me acts like a mule.

Indignant Dealer—Say, listen, doctor, there's not a better car on the market. The trouble is you can't drive a car. I can sell a car, but it's a cinch that I can't sell you brains!

Doctor—Quite so, quite so! You can't sell what you haven't got, can you?
