KIND WORD FOR STATESMEN

The job of managing this country grows harder every year. For one thing, the number of people who have to be managed keeps on increasing. It has become the fashion to speak of our population as more or less stagnant because immigrants no longer enter at the 1913 rate of 400,000 a year. Yet to-day there are fifty per cent. more Canadians than at the start of the last war. In that respect, Mr. King's job has been fifty per cent. more difficult than was Sir Robert Borden's.

Laurier's white plume is a snowy mountain peak of our history. His 1890 cabinet of all the talents remains a model for current ministries. Yet there were less than five million people in Canada when the Liberals then took office. And the budget was about the same as the one which now worries Mayor Ralph Day, of Toronto.

It is no reflection upon statesmen of other days that they operated with fewer taxpayers. It is certainly no reflection upon them that they spent less money. MacDonald and Laurier and the others faced grave problems in the Canada of their times. But no easy comparison can be made with the problems of this Canada in this year of 1940. — The Printed Word.

Bray Chicks Every Season Since 1928—'Great Results'

"OUR Chicks have been bought from Bray's every year since 1928, and we have had great results, writes Mrs. R. M. Scrambler, R. R. 5, Dunville, Ontario. "They are easy to raise and full of vitality from the first day. They develop into nice large birds, and certainly know how to lay the eggs, especially when the prices are highest in the Fall. We know they are real money-makers. Our egg buyer remarks about so many large eggs every week of the year round."

"We start off with the right kind of chicks and know that results will come later. Bray birds are like me busy all the time!"

Mrs. James O'Connor, R.R. Milton, Ont., has been buying Bray chicks for 7 straight years, and her order is in for 1940. Last Spring she started 1,100 Bray chicks—so you can see that poultry isn't just a small sideline with her, but a real business. "What I like about them," Mrs. O'Connor tells us, "is the way they keep the nests busy."

"We've been buying Bray chicks for 7 years," Mrs. G. E. Appleyard of Georgetown, Ont., says, "and we've never had any trouble yet." Mrs. Appleyard put 209 Bray chicks under her brooder last Spring, and her total has through the whole starting and growing period was just 8—one less than her "extras."

Mrs. J. C. Switzer, R.R. 1, Norval, Ont., has been buying Bray chicks for 8 years. "Last year's lot," she tells us, "were laying before they were 5 months old and laid lots of good big eggs all Fall and Winter. I made good money out of my cockerles, too."

When people who depend on poultry for a good part of their living buy chicks from the same hatchery year after year, like this, you can just "bet your bottom dollar" that the chicks from that hatchery must have been doing a real job for them. If you're in poultry to make money, we believe you can't do better than take a tip from those experienced poultry people who buy Bray chicks this year. Yes—we can give you early delivery.
