Open all that... The maple syrup season is about over. May, the month of spring flowers, is less than a week. Daylight Saving Time on Monday. Don't be late on the job. Daylight Saving commences on Sunday night, at midnight in Acton. The County grader made a good job of the gravel roadways about town during the week. Gardening operations have been started by many and potatoes and early vegetables planted. Trout fishing season opens on Saturday. The gardens are liable to get some spading this week. Dogs lose their freedom next week for the summer, and some of them have had a lot of freedom lately. Pupils of Acton School will have a half holiday to-morrow while a number attend the County Music Festival. A change of bus and train timetables becomes effective on Sunday. Consult the agents before making a trip. Building permits in Burlington to the end of March totalled $60,000. Twenty-five new houses have been erected. Eleanor Beatty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beatty, suffered an injury to her foot when she fell on a stairway at Acton Public School on Monday. Nearly 800 motor vehicle markers have been issued in Acton to date by Mr. J. K. Gardner. The new depot has been a great convenience to a wide district.

The Column Y. A group of young men met at the Y. on Monday evening to discuss and lay plans for Track and Field activities for the coming month. Organization with a definite club was deferred until a few workous have taken place, with the first one scheduled for next Monday evening, in the Park at 7:00 p.m. Those who were unable to attend the meeting are invited to be on hand at that time and begin training. An invitation is also extended to any men in town who have had any experience in Track and Field activity to turn out and lend a helping hand.

Plans for the Big Carnival on May 11th are taking shape rapidly, and enthusiasm among the boys is gaining momentum each day. Another added attraction will be horseback riding for kiddies and older folk, and of course the ladies will have an opportunity to have their future foretold by a great mass mind.

THERE ARE OTHERS. "Can you type?" "Well, I use the Columbus system." "What's that?" "I discover a key then land on it."

Proclamation! re Daylight Saving Time. Whereas a number of major industries in the Municipality will adopt Daylight Saving Time during the present summer, and whereas in order to avoid confusion which would necessarily result through there being two systems of time in force in the Municipality, notice is hereby given that the Council of the Corporation of Acton has decided by by-law to adopt Daylight Saving Time for Acton, commencing at midnight on Sunday, April 28, 1940. Mon., September 2, 1940 AT MIDNIGHT. Citizens are requested to comply with this by-law and adopt this time from the dates specified. J. B. CHALMERS, Reeve. Dated at Acton, April 3rd, 1940.

WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIPYARD. Now Employing 20,000 Hands. The greatest shipyard in the world, in Northern Ireland, is now working to capacity and employing over 20,000 people. Few outside the British Isles realize the great part Northern Ireland is playing in Britain's wartime industry, including the production of "peaceful" goods for export all over the world. The famous Irish linen industry, for example, is now manufacturing solely for overseas customers. Mention of shipbuilding is usually associated with thoughts of Tyneside, Merseyside and Clydeside (which produced the "Queen Mary") yet much of Britain's mercantile prestige was born on an Irish mudbank, in Belfast Lough. Ships have been built at Belfast since 1636, and the world's greatest yards is now Harland and Wolff's, at Queen's Island. The word "island" was used because the earliest-shipyards were little more than a waterbound patch of mud. After 200 yards of minor developments, Edward James Harland, a very determined Briton, arrived in 1858 and began large-scale expansion works. Harland's difficulties in reclaiming land and carving a harbor and extending shipyards from the mudbanks were so great that he was advised to give it up. "I have mounted a restive horse and I will ride it into the stable," was his reply, and his faith in himself and in the inherited skill of the Ulstermen working under him was justified. Although passenger and merchant shipping is Belfast's specialty, it has also turned its hands to work successfully for the Admiralty, whose confidence it enjoys today.

PROGRESS IN WOOD SEASONING. Development of dry-kilns with automatic control of temperature, humidity and air circulation has radically changed lumber seasoning practices, according to the Forest Products Laboratories of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. Certain species of wood can now be dried in kilns and put to exacting uses a few days after being sawn, while other species, more difficult to dry, may be made ready for fabrication in a matter of weeks. Formerly timber was piled in a yard for several months and sometimes for years. If it was required for exacting uses - such as for furniture it was held in a building for a further long period before being finally used. The use of these highly efficient dry-kilns also eliminates to a large extent losses through checking, cupping, staining and other seasoning defects which formerly were sometimes responsible for reducing the value of wood by as much as twenty-five per cent.
