If elected he would take his duties seriously and carry on the good work, and if not elected, it was quite all right.

Mr. J. M. McDonald, nominated for the School Board, pointed out that in the depression years the School Board had made the biggest reductions in savings to the ratepayers. This should be considered now, when the school wil require, and should receive more attention. Improvements had been withheld. but could not be delayed much longer Mr. McDonald drew attention to the assets and liabilities of the school and the splendid condition these were in. During his service on the Board he had worked for harmony and felt that was the way to accomplish the most. He felt ratepayers generally should be proud of the school and its records.
