Obituary

BESSIE To Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bessey of Orton, on Thursday, March 6th, at the St. Joseph's Hospital in Orton.
HANSEN At 7400th Street, Acton, and Mrs. Gordon Hansen (nee Ruby Murray), the gift of a daughter on Friday, March 7th, 1941, to Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Carl.

Weekly War Commentary

The Balkan war, by the Nazis is on in full swing. As on previous occasions it is a mixture of reality, threat, intimidation, blackmail and propaganda, backed up by the presence of armed masses along the frontiers of the nations being wooed. Any time now this wooing may be converted into a forced wedding and what is going on, the Nazis, in this sixth week of the war, are hitting rather to the west, casting unenviable words and making sheep's eyes at the British Dominion.

Baptist Folk Honor Pastor Prior to Removal

The young people's meeting on Monday evening in the Baptist church was made the occasion for members of the congregation to bid farewell and spend a social time with Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Baxter, who leave next week for the new charge at Thorold. Mr. Baxter has been pastor here for nearly six years.

Odds and Ends

Put it down in your diary that on March 11th we had one of the biggest snow storms of the winter. Tuesday's storm made another attack necessary to clear the street and plow out the highways and byways. Good progress is being made in the extensive alterations being carried on at the residence of Mr. Geo. Mason on Lake Avenue.

Obituary

MRS. JAMES SANGSTER On Friday of last week, there passed away at her home, Main Street, Acton, a highly respected resident in this town, Mrs. James Sangster. Mrs. Sangster and her husband came from the Old Land, Aberdeen, Scotland, seven years ago. She worked in the Beardsmore tannery until last August when by a large circle of friends, she was met with an accident which caused her death. Her unexpected death proved too much for her invalid wife and she finally passed away last week. She will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends for whom she always had a smile for a glad welcome, also a fly cup of tea, as she termed it herself, when they came to see her. Since her husband passed away she has been tenderly cared for by Mrs. Ritchie who did everything possible to comfort her in her loneliness.

Weekly War Commentary

The Nazi press suggests candidly that Portugal does well to throw in her lot with the "new order" in Europe, the strong-arm Axis order. Portugal, traditional friend and ally of Britain, offers the last strip of continental coast still available. She knows that if it goes, the Nazis will control a stretch of coast from the Arctic to Africa. Trying to be persuasive, the Nazi press has suggested that Portugal gets "practically no good out of her big colonial possessions and can import only for her own use and for transshipment to British harbors, as a result of the British blockade. Things would be much brighter and better for Portugal if she joined the powerful Axis, the Nazi propagandists suggest.
