Girl Guide News

A catastrophe of great magnitude was averted last Saturday when at the crucial moment, a diplomatic representative of the Acton Girl Guides persuaded the rain clouds to fold up their smoky tent and camp elsewhere...

Pursuing more familiar trails, we arrived at our camping grounds, after a series of interesting discoveries which have been duly entered in the Log Book. The following sharpshooters were awarded smiles of merit: Jean Lawson for spying on Monarch Butterflies; Maurine O'Rourke for surprising the first robin; Barbara Nelson for discovering tulip plants and clover leaf with symbol 'V'; Mabel Harris the first small dandelion; Esther Taylor, lady's slipper.

At the end of a lovely spring afternoon, we stood in horseshoe formation around a log and sang. Then our company scots, but very satisfied returned to camp just at sunset.

PLANNING NOW FOR THE 1941 FAIR AT ACTON Last Thursday evening the Acton Fair and associated committees in charge of the various branches of the 1941 fair...

NEW YORK, (CP) — If you want to look prettier than you are, be careful what you put around your neck. 'Neckwear' is a prosaic word, but a magic one of dress. Primitive tribes knew the witchery of frills under the chin. Lacking ruffles they wore tiger tails neckties. In the same cause you can choose a number of more civilized neckline flatterers.

Recent visitors with the Wrights include Mr. and Mrs. E. Wright and two daughters and Mrs. Beach of Toronto on Saturday and Mrs. Wm. and Grant Wright of Erin on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Hall, Mass. Foots Hall, Mr. Wm. Hall and Master Alec, opened their cottage here over the weekend.

Refresments were served at the close.
