An interesting souvenir from England was recently received by Mr. John Albery. It is a piece of a parachute used in a German raid near the southeast coast of England. The souvenir is on view in The Free Press window.

One of the most startling statistics in contrast that will ever come your way will be an Acton souvenir from Birmingham, England, and an underground railway shaft set by the Germans in the Canadian National Exhibition.

OF ESPECIAL INTEREST TO MEN 19 TO 45 YEARS OF AGE

Officials of the National War Services Department report gratifying and ready response from young Canadians being called for military training under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

They state, however, that while many men have volunteered to join the military forces, a number of them have not done so. They are, therefore, appealing to the men who have not yet volunteered to do so.

Young men in this area, liable for military training, are urged to contact their local military training officer for further information regarding their obligations of all at all times. For the purpose of military training, the District Registrar for this district, whose name and address are given below, has compiled a list of the names of other members of the Board.

The Litter Box

June 10-41

Dear Mr. Dills: Just a line to let you know I am still receiving your wonderful paper and believe me I sure look forward to getting it.

I am doing a bit of Duty Corporal work tonight so I find time to catch up in some of my writing. Our Captain thought I was good enough so he made me a Lt. Col. or as we call our selves over here glorified privates, but never mind it is the first step up the ladder and not-tripping to be made a full corporal soon.

Tonight is my third time as Corporal of the guards and there is sure plenty of work attached to it. We must see that our guards are properly dressed, changed at the right hour, visit them every hour, see that they get their midnight lunch and many other small things that take-up your time.

Worst of all, the ladder and not-tripping to be made a full corporal soon. Tonight is my third time as Corporal of the guards and there is sure plenty of work attached to it.

We are getting terrible weather just now, rain nearly every day, this old island must be getting pretty well water logged by now.

On May 16 three bus loads of us left here for Birmingham, stopping at the new Shakespeare memorial in Stratford for tea and sandwiches. We also visited the Ann Hathaway Cottage, Shakespeare's birthplace, the Warwick castle, Kenilworth Castle and many other famous places.

We had dinner in the Warwick Council chambers and shook hands with the Mayor of Stratford on average. We finally landed in Birmingham where we were met by our host and hostess. After spending a couple of days looking over the city we left for back home arriving here at midnight Sunday. This trip I must add, was organized by the Salvation Army.

Well I must close for now, thank you once again for your paper. I remain, I. Cpl. Purdy.

22 Locomotives From Britain

Shipped Safely Through Mediterranean To Turkey

Britain's locomotive works are still keeping overseas railways supplied with equipment despite the fact that they are also turning out vast quantities of such war equipment as tanks, torpedoes, shells, bombs, gun mountings and carriages, and even mooring buoys and anchors.

Twenty-seven locomotives, having a total value of over £200,000, were shipped from Britain in the first three months of this year to Turkey, Egypt, Iraq, South Africa and the Straits Settlements.

Shipments are still going on and despite war hazards in the Mediterranean, further deliveries have been made to Turkey since the end of the first quarter, making a total of 22 this year.

Where new locomotives cannot be supplied Britain is sending boilers for re-equipping existing engines. A total of 38 was exported during the March quarter, to India, South Africa, Peru and Uruguay. These have an average value of £2,000 each.

Britain's locomotive works now employ over 10,000 hands, including many women.

Particulars regarding these loans may be received from Mr. C. F. Leatherland, Municipal Clerk.

Houses for Acton?

The Municipal Clerk has received word from the Dominion Housing Commission that loans for the erection of homes in Acton are still available.

Those who have steady employment and are desirous of owning a home should make enquiry at once regarding the means of owning a new modern home and avoiding the uncertainty of occupancy and rental rates. There is no assurance as to how long these loans will be available.
