Local Health Bulletin

School holidays are over and the children are again back at their studies, and in most cases glad to be back at classes and organized and supervised play. Mothers, have had some of their responsibility shifted to the shoulders of the teachers, and the Board of Health will assume the responsibility of giving the pupils any necessary treatment for immunization against diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and smallpox; just as was carried out last year.

Last fall there were 53 pupils given inoculations for Diphtheria, 164 for Scarlet Fever, 84 for Whooping Cough, 164 for Smallpox. It is not likely that the numbers will be nearly as large this term, and most attention will have to be given to the Primary Grade.

The school medical history cards are being issued this week and the necessary data being filled in, following which a survey will be made by the M.O.H. and the permission cards then given to the pupils to take home to the parents. These permission cards will indicate to the parents the immunization treatments that should be given the individual pupil, and the parents will sign the card, indicating their willingness to have the treatment administered at school, at no cost to the family.

It is very gratifying to announce that we have not had a single case of any of the above mentioned diseases in any of the children of school age in the past year. Surely this speaks well for the measures that have been taken so far—I would strongly urge that parents of new families in town to take advantage of the opportunity to have their children immunized, if they have not been done elsewhere. E. J. Nelson—M.O.H.

Hornby Plow Boys Report On Trip To Pacific Coast

"We came back with a clearer understanding of the bond of friendship which exists between Canadians and Americans, and of how that bond has been strengthened by the present war in Europe, as a common danger draws the two nations even closer together." Thus did Gordon McGavin of Winton, Ontario, sum up his recent tour throughout the United States and Canada. Mr. McGavin, who is vice-president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association conducted John B. Lister, 1940 Gold Medal Winner, and Harold Pickett, Silver Medal winner of the 1940 International Plowing Match, on the tour of Western Canada, British Columbia and the Middle-Western States as planned by the Salsola Tea Company.

The returning travellers were frank in saying that they had learned a great deal on the trip. They learned of all of the affinity of Americans for Canadians. As farmers they learned of new farming methods, both in Canada and the United States, and brought home with them ideas which they can adapt in their own farming to the benefit of their own farms.

Mr. Lister, for instance, was deeply interested in a simple method of irrigation which he saw working in the United States. Taking an ordinary walking plow, shallow furrows are laid throughout pasture fields and these furrows are flooded either from a natural stream or by a pressure system. The results of the irrigation can be seen clearly in the fact that three head of cows are grazed on one acre of pasture, where it is irrigated. One cow is grazed on three acres here. During a year such as this one, when rainfall is scarce, the plan would be quite useful.

In British Columbia, Gordon McGavin learned how the cull apples from the orchards are combined to form what they call apple-alfalfa silage. The silage has a high feeding value, and the world's high production cow can give partial credit to it for helping her win the title. Mr. McGavin points out that in many parts of Ontario, where cull apples go to waste, farmers would be well advised to investigate this new form of feeding.

As practical farmers, the three men agreed in the past winter of the sweep rake which was being used at several places in Indiana. The rake, a device of poles mounted on the back of a small tractor or old car, enables the operator to bunch the hay up on it and then drive into the barn. Here the hay can be dumped on slings and hauled up into the mow and the operator can go away at high speed to the field for another load. Quite inexpensively to construct, the sweep rake makes haying a great deal easier. During present times when labor is so scarce the sweep rake would answer haying problems on Ontario farms.

These are but a few examples of the ideas gathered by the trio of travellers on the Salsola Tea tour. They brought home with them, literally dozens of pamphlets and literature to serve as reminders of the ideas in which they were interested.

The trip had its pleasure as well. The three men will never forget their trip across the Canadian prairies, Banff and the never to be forgotten scenic grandeur of the Canadian Rockies. Places that had lived for them only in books or in the words of returning travellers became realities as they headed westward. They learned why British Columbia, with her fertile soil and moderate temperature, has been called "Canada's Garden."

They saw cowboys, sheep-herders and miners in the "copper" town of Butte, Montana. They were pleased with the happy cowboys and amazed at the silent, almost surly sheep-herders. Butte was a nice, almost wild city filled with the unexpected. In town they sat in on a conference with farmers and answered questions about Canada and her methods of agriculture.

Every minute of the trip was an education. Travelling over 8,500 miles they had the opportunity of contrasting farming methods in all parts. They were unanimous in saying that farmers of one province know too little about the problems of farmers in the next province, and likewise Canadian farmers know too little about American farmers. "I would like to see a group of farmers from the East travel to the West, and likewise Western farmers come East," declared Gordon McGavin. "We complain about Western farmers when actually we have no idea of their problems. Meeting each other and talking over common problems could bring about a better feeling between the two. Likewise Canadian farmers should visit the United States and American farmers should come back to Canada. In this way a proper balance between agriculture in the two countries can be effected."

65 Young Men At First Retreat Camp Brebeuf

Selecting Camp Brebeuf near Rockwood, the C.Y.O.'s of Hamilton Diocese held their first annual retreat. Rev. Fr. McBride, Diocesan Director of the C.Y.O. was in charge of the retreat. Rev. Fr. Paullter assisted with accommodations at the camp.

About 65 young Catholic men came from all parts of the diocese—Hamilton, Brantford, Guelph, Kitchener, Preston, and other centres. They arrived last Saturday evening for the three day retreat which extended over the week-end holiday.

Rev. Fr. Hennessy, S. J., from the Jesuit Novitiate of Guelph was Retreat Master. Father Hennessy began on Saturday evening conducting many excellent conferences, coming to the point which dealt with the problems of youth. He stressed the importance of living a true Christian life. The spiritual climax of the retreat was Monday morning with every retreatist receiving Holy Communion. The day was divided with the Spiritual activities far overshadowing the recreational.

The retreat was closed with a very interesting program. Mr. Bernard Cox, acted as master of ceremonies, had his summer campers stage several boxing bouts which were well received by the people present, these were followed by songs, and community singing. His Excellency, Bishop Ryan of Hamilton, expressed his surprise and at the same time his pleasure in finding so many young Catholic men making the retreat. He briefly told the history of Camp Brebeuf, which had made such an ideal place for the retreat. He praised the work of Fr. Hennessy in conducting such a successful retreat. "I am positive," he said, "that Fr. Hennessy helped to better the lives of you young men who made the retreat." He went on to say—"You retreatists will remember these days every moment of your lives." He expressed his thought that young men who made the retreat were of an age to pick their place in life, and hoped that God would give some the vocation for the priesthood.

His Excellency expressed his wish that the retreatists would co-operate with their parish priests in all they may ask of them. He hoped that the young men would be ambassadors of what Father Hennessy taught them and expressed his wish that they would carry along with them everything they gathered during these three days, and put them in practice, and thus they would live as true C.Y.O. members should.

Father McBride, Diocesan Director of the C.Y.O. thanked the young men who made the Retreat. He felt sure that the Retreat would grow from year to year.

Father Hennessy was called upon to say a few words. He was greeted by tremendous applause. He thanked the young men for their attention during the conferences. The retreat, inaugurated this year, will be an annual activity of the C. Y. O. Club known as the "St. John Bosco Young-Men's Club" was formed with Mr. J. P. Piropano of Guelph, president; Gerald Duffy, of Hamilton, 1st vice-president; Mr. B. Barron, Brantford, 2nd vice-president; Mr. Wm. Crawford, Hamilton, 3rd vice-president; Mr. John Bennett of Guelph, secretary and Mr. Sebastian Englet of Kitchener, treasurer. This club will meet monthly to discuss ideas and activities.

ERIN

Wm. Henderson has a flock of leg-horn pullets four months and ten days old, started laying. This sounds like a record.

Neighbors and friends of the Ospringe and Erin communities assembled in Erin Town Hall last Thursday evening to spend a social evening with the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sunter.

Over 75 farmers gathered at the farm of W. Gibsh at Carleton Place to assist in the raising of his new barn, which will replace a structure destroyed by fire some years ago. The new barn which is 64 x 68, was purchased from a farm in the Shandam area and was dismantled there early this summer. Advocate.
