Weekly War Commentary

Specially Written for The Acton Free Press by BY H. M. PETERS Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Shah Abdol-Carim Iranian authorities are learning that Britain means business in the Middle East. Reports September 16 told of the abdication of the Shah as pressure was exerted to force the Iranian government to expel or deliver to the Allies all Axis sympathizers.

British and Russian troops were reported marching on Teheran, Iranian capital, from which the Shah fled. It was stated by an authoritative source that occupation of Teheran had been pending for several days.

Ugale Rejected. Growing activity on the Egyptian frontier is taken as an indication that heavy fighting will develop in that theatre of war when cooler weather comes next month. Allied forces in North Africa are said to exceed 500,000 men and despite splendid work by the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force, in and over the Mediterranean, it is believed Axis forces in Cyrenaica have been strongly reinforced during the summer.

Two Axis armored columns made reconnaissance raids over the Egyptian border Sept. 15 but were routed with heavy losses in men and machines when they met British mechanized patrols.

On Eastern Front German and Russian communiques this week told of terrific fighting at one point or another on the Eastern Front and as each claimed big victories the task of presenting a true general picture has been made difficult. The Nazis evidently are making strenuous efforts to take Leningrad. They claim to have annihilated or crushed a total of 18 Russian divisions south of Lake Ilmen but make no mention of their own losses which must have been tremendous. On the other hand the Soviet Army newspaper declared the Germans were routed in a gigantic night battle of tanks for "an important point on the approaches to Leningrad."

There was little news concerning the fighting in the centre of the front, but further south, defenders of Odessa, aided by sailors of the Black Sea fleet, were reported to have smashed renewed German and Rumanian efforts to penetrate the port's defences. The Russians also announced the sinking of eight German ships, including five troopships, when a landing attempt on the Baltic Island of Oesel was repulsed.

Cairo Bombed. Cairo, a city held sacred by the Moslem world, was bombed by Axis aircraft Sept. 16, 39 persons being killed and 93 wounded. It was the first time the Egyptian capital has suffered from enemy raids, although Alexandria and points in the Suez Canal zone have been attacked several times.

The bombing has resulted in a demand being made in Britain for an attack on Rome by way of retaliation. As long ago as April 18 a warning, direct from Prime Minister Churchill's residence in London, informed the Axis that if either Athens or Cairo were bombed, reprisals would be carried out against Rome.

Three Swedish destroyers blew up while at anchor in a Swedish port and first reports said at least 31 men were killed. The blast, which could not be accounted for, started on one ship and sank all three, one after the other.

Canadian Press Staff Writer The urgency in Russia's position lies in the fact that she has lost a large number of industrial cities and towns with a consequent reduction in her munitions output.

It is to meet the situation that Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt this 16th week of war are dispatching to Moscow economic missions headed by two outstanding men, Lord Beveridge the British Minister of Supply, and W. Averell Harriman, the United States Lease-Lend expeditor.

Unquestionably, Russia has prepared for this attack by Hitler for many years and is equipped a number of factories far in the interior. How many there are, what their output is, to what extent they can replace the lost factories, these rank among the most closely-guarded secrets of the war.

But no matter how efficient they are, the loss Russia has suffered is large. Mr. Churchill has told parliament Britain would have to forego a portion of its supplies from the United States so that it can be diverted to Russia. He also has announced that hundreds of British fighter planes are being rushed to the eastern battlefield, presumably to be flown by Russia's own aviators.

Ruins for Hitler It has been estimated that more than half Russia's aluminum output, for example, was clustered around the great Dnieper Dam the pride of the first five-year plan which Stalin unhesitatingly ordered destroyed late in August when it could no longer be defended. This development—dam factories, unalleviable stores—were all utterly smashed, in accordance

Hungry Italians Revived Winston

LONDON. (CP) Seventy thousand Italian prisoners of war encamped near the Suez Canal who decided to "bury" Prime Minister Churchill soon regretted their joke. They made an effigy of the prime minister, fixed a coffin out of scraps of wood and then held a funeral.

Lunch time arrived and the Italians found there was no lunch. "The same thing happened at tea time. A delegation interpellated the commandant and demanded to know why they were being starved.

The commandant said he was sorry but as the men who gave him orders to feed them were "dazed and buried" he could do nothing about it. Mr. Churchill was speedily resurrected.
