Acton Votes 13 to 1 "Yes" County Says it by 10 to 1

Government is Freed of its Pledges by Overwhelming Vote on Monday When Every Province Except Quebec Answers Request—Local Vote Showed Acton and Halton Wanted a Free Hand for Victory.

Acton and Halton County joined with all other parts of Ontario and seven other provinces of the Dominion in releasing the Dominion Government from any former pledges and urging that every effort be made to assure victory for the Allies. Provincial and Dominion summaries and results will be found in national news. In Acton 983 voters out of a possible 1377 went to the polls on Monday to express their opinions. 900 of them voted "Yes," while only 70 voted "No" and an unlucky thirteen spoiled their ballots. If means 13 to 1 were in favor of releasing the government from its pledge or almost 93 per cent. There were over 73 per cent. of the voters who showed willingness to express an opinion and voted.

In Halton county the vote was 10,158 "Yes" and 1,012 "No" or 10 to 1 in favor of relieving the government from its pledges. It made a total majority of 9,146 yes votes. Almost 91 per cent. of those who voted marked their ballots "Yes." There was about 62 per cent. of the voters of Halton County polled on Monday. The vote was smaller than in the last Dominion election. At that time 14,082 ballots were cast while on Monday 11,170 ballots were placed in the boxes.

In Acton members of all political parties joined in an effort to obtain as large a "Yes" vote as possible. The committee room adjoining Wild's Bakery was a busy spot all day and the results achieved are shown in the vote secured.

The following is the complete result of the vote in Acton and Halton County by municipalities and by wards.

Weekly War Commentary

Specially Written for The Acton Free Press by BY GUY RHODES Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain is fulfilling her pledge to strike ever-increasing blows at the sources from which flow the sinews of war for Germany, and the sinews of the military machine, and the sinews of the air offensive against the Nazis' war factories in Germany and occupied France grows in intensity. Weather conditions alone interfere with the Royal Air Force's round-the-clock drive against targets across the English Channel. Given clear skies, hundreds of bombers take off daily for sweeps that carry them as far as the Baltic Sea.

The Ruhr Valley, great industrial area and chiefly important from a military standpoint because of the great Krupp armament works at Essen, received a terrific pounding at the opening of the aerial offensive. Other attacks were made on the naval bases at Kiel and Wilhelmshaven where Germany continues to build and repair warships only with the greatest difficulty.

Bombers have flown as far as Augsburg for an attack on a plant that manufactures submarine Diesel engines and south to Italian armament plants at Genoa and Turin.

Canadians In It

Last week planes with loaded bomb racks swept across to the Baltic Sea to Rostock. On two successive nights the flyers, many of whom received their training in Canada, smashed at the port where Germany builds her Heinkel planes and concentrates supplies for shipment to the Russian front. Some of the most telling blows have been scored on French war factories. Earlier in the month at St. Maifford works in the Paris area were reported to have deprived Hitler of potential output of 20,000 trucks, tanks and armored vehicles. Huge orders are said to have been placed with French factories. But completion of these is being hampered by sabotage, the "go-slow" tactic.

New Regulation Now Effective in Renting Houses

Effective today it is illegal to rent any building or part thereof without a written agreement being made on a governmental form, one copy of which must be kept by the tenant, one copy by the landlord, and one copy must be filed with the Regional Rentals Office, Northern Ontario Building, Toronto, within ten days. A copy of this new rental form may be seen on application to Clerk C. E. Leatherland, who to-day received this information from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. This ruling does not apply to boarding or lodging houses or renting accommodation for less than a month.

Council Endorses Campaign Recruiting Reserve Army

Seaman Herb Dron Tells About Port In Australia

Sydney, N.S.W., Australia. Mr. A. Dills, Editor and Publisher, The Acton Free Press.

Dear Sir: We are having quite a visit in Sydney, which is a very nice city, especially for a sea port. We are having practically eight inside the famous Sydney Harbour Bridge, the second largest bridge in the world. I was informed that it would take 80 men six years to paint the bridge from end to end. I have a match box cover giving full details of the bridge but as it is not at hand, I am unable to tell you much about it.

In Sydney, as yet they have no blackout, but they have what they call a "brown out," which is what you would call a partial blackout. I believe that Sydney has one of the finest and largest natural harbours in the world, and it is really a very clean city. They have a population of about one and a half million. They have underground trains running through and around the city, electric cars, also street cars, trams as they call them, double-decked buses, all kinds of taxis and a large fleet of ferries.

Sydney seems more like Canada, or the States than any other city I have been in. In fact they use customs, money, etc., of both America and England. The English, they call them Pommies, and the girls, they call them Sheilas, and their accent is somewhat similar to the English. They have their customs and habits, operated by their women's Auxiliary Services, for the men of the services, including the Merchant Navy. They also have their naval cadets, and one place, known as the "Royal Naval House" situated in the centre of the city, and only men of the navy are allowed in. Soldiers and air force are not allowed in at all, except aviators belonging to the Fleet Air Arm, and no one is allowed in unless in uniform. That is the first strictly enforced organization I have come across in my travels.

Most of the cadets in Sydney, which is operated by the Women's Auxiliary Forces, serve meals and lunches free of charge to all men of all services. They will accept no money from them. And although I have visited many different organizations for service men, such as Y.M.C.A., S.A., N.A.A.F.I., and other societies, but this is the first place I have come across any place that served any free meals. In Cape Town, South Africa, they would in spite you to their homes for a visit or a week-end or would send their arrangements to you, and you would arrange free bus fares for service men. Their main effort was to do their best to see that all men of all services enjoyed their stay in Cape Town. While in Sydney I would say their main effort was to see that the service men are kept well fed. Of course they have their free concerts and dances and all kinds of recreation for men of the service.

I have never been any place yet where both the civilian and military population has so much respect for service men as they do here. I have heard different men stop me on the street and tell me how much they enjoyed the salaries and how much they were appreciated by them. One evening while I was in one of the parks a civilian walked up to me and started a conversation. He said "I have a brother serving in the A.I.F. at the moment and he is doing very well. I have a letter in it for him." The other evening I met a naval man to take my hat off to him, and I always have signed "God all these bits of press and report soon publicly are very much appreciated. I am glad to be a member of His Majesty's Royal Canadian Navy and to know that my little efforts in this battle for freedom is understood and appreciated and this is the first country in the world where I have ever seen a soldier offer praise or ever show appreciation for naval ratings. But the navy certainly has taken good care of our various military and air forces, in fact I have never yet done ours is on the sea, others are on land and in the air, and although at present we have not a few, they are the army and the air force have been doing a wonderful job the world over, and I believe that in a very short time now that we shall have proven to us all, in a big way, that the Reserve Army.

Reserve Army Needs Men To Train for Emergencies

Registration Booths Are Open for Those Ineligible for Active Service Forces—Will Receive Uniform and Equipment—Training Will Not Interfere with Civilian Duties—Citizens' Committee to Assist in Getting Acton Platoon to Strength.

To bring the Acton Platoon of the Reserve Army Learning Seats up to full strength a campaign for recruits opens this week here. Registration booths are at F. L. Wright's office, 1, W. Agar's coal office and The Press Office. Here registration forms and literature explaining the purpose of the Reserve Army are available. Forms are also available at Mrs. Armstrong on Monday evening after 8 p.m.

What the Reserve Army Is

At the outbreak of the war Canada had a very small regular army. The rest of the army of Canada was the Non-Permanent Active Militia, or what is known today as the Reserve Army. At the outbreak of the war the units of the N.P.A.M. were mobilized and when required to make the divisions of the Active Army. As each unit was mobilized it threw off a counterpart of Home Defence Unit. The Reserve Army, prior to the war, any man of any age or medical category who was moderately physically fit could join it. Today, however, there can be no enlistment upon the field of manpower for the Active Army. In consequence the Reserve Army is "appointed" to the following categories to form the Reserve Army by Home Defence.

Young men, 17 and 18 years of age at medical categories A, B or C; all men, 17 to 50 years of age in categories C, single men, 16 to 50 years of age in categories A, B or C, married men, 31 to 50 years of age in categories A, B or C. The Reserve Army as will be noted by the categories of these eligible for enlistment is for home defence only. The classes in it are not eligible for Active service under the present.

Approve of Plan to Prevent Littering and Nuisance at Y.M.C.A. Public Lavatories—Auditors Present Report and Copies Being Printed—Pigeons Are Making Fire Hazard and Blame Is in Sale—Boys to Appear in Police Court

Councillors W. J. Oakes, C. Kirkness, J. F. Davidson, were present on Tuesday evening when Acton council met and receive J. McDonald presented. Mr. D. H. Lindsay was present and requested that consideration be given in a reduced tax on the old chipping mill property he had purchased. It was no longer in use and the place had been dismantled. It was decided by Council to hold a Court of Revision at the next meeting, when the matter would be considered. Mr. A. Cole discussed with council the claim for damages suffered by Mrs. Cole. The insurance company contended that the claim had been filed two days late and Mr. Cole wanted to know why he was responsible for the claim being filed two days late as he felt he had filed it in proper time. Council pointed out the matter could not be dealt with, only through the insurance company, and was out of their hands. Accounts were passed for payment as follows:

Acton Free Press printing	$ 12.00
W. D. Hall's supplies	45.45
A. T. Brown's supplies	2.00
James S. Gray, auditors' fees	327.10
A. Clifford's work on streets	9.30
E. Harrop, postage	1.33
	$397.22

An adjustment of the business tax of Dr. J. A. McNeven was made to coincide with time he had discontinued his practice in Acton.

A letter from the Chinese War Relief Fund thanked council for permission to hold a big day. A letter from Department of Public Welfare was read stating there were no funds for hospitalization for the blind or Old Age Pensioners. This was in reply to a letter from council. Copies of the Auditors' Report were received from Ivan S. Gray and a letter read explanatory of the report. Attention was drawn to the improvement shown in tax financing and the collection of dog and poll taxes. Report was expressed at the delay in presenting the report and the auditors stated they would be pleased to attend council in May if desired.

Arrangements were made to have the usual number of copies printed and copies were taken by council for study. It was felt unnecessary to have the auditors attend council. The annual report of the Medical Officer of Health was presented. This report presented by Dr. Culbertson showed that in 1941 there were 25 births and 22 deaths in Acton. There were 43 cases of communicable diseases during the year and not one death from these causes. The most serious epidemic during the year was the 21 cases of German Measles reported. The stark of immunization at the school is being continued with 33 immunized against diphtheria, 41 against scarlet fever, 49 against smallpox and 21 against whooping cough. There are still 30 wells in use in Acton for a water supply. Two wells were closed during the year and three showed contamination on being inspected. The report was very satisfactory and also showed the general health conditions in Acton during the past year to have been very satisfactory. (Continued on Page Five)
