Obituary

BORN
GIBBONS—At Guelph General Hospital on Friday June 19th, to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gibbons (nee Theodora Lovell), the gift of a daughter—Carol Cecile.

MARRIED
AWREY-HUNTLEY—In Orton United Church on Saturday afternoon, June 20th, 1942, at 4 o'clock, by Rev. A. L. Atton, Mary Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Huntley, to John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Awrey.

DIED
MOORE—Slipped away happily, at her home, Moorecroft, Acton, on Monday, June 22nd, 1942, Harriet Isabelle Speight, widow of the late H. Speight, and mother of Edward J. Moore, in her eighty-eighth year.

IN MEMORIAM
GRAFF—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who passed away July 2nd, 1940.
 Only a memory of bygone days
 And a sigh for a face unseen,
 But a constant feeling that God alone
 Knows just what should have been.
 Ever remembered by JOHN GRAFF and FAMILY.

What and that

- There'll be a splendid crop of hay if it dries out.
- Strawberries have been at their best for the past week.
- Every day brings its shower—whether it's needed or not.
- Public Schools close to-morrow for the long summer vacation.
- Next week is Army Week—An opportunity to tribute to the boys in Khaki.
- Tin cans and leather shoes have no market for salvage. To help the collectors do not include them in your salvage.
- The curfew commences in Acton on Monday. Children under sixteen must be home before nine o'clock in the evening.
- A concise explanation of the National Selective Service Control of labor will be found on page seven of this issue.
- Results of the midsummer examinations of Acton Continuation School will appear in next week's issue of The Free Press.
- Saturday's collection of salvage was one of the biggest. If you can take your salvage direct to headquarters on Elgin Street.
- The revised list of ladies' work for Acton Fair is published in another column in this issue in advance of issuing the regular lists.
- If you haven't yet made application for your sugar ration card don't delay another day—no card, no sugar after next Wednesday.
- Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Williams received a cablegram yesterday telling of the safe arrival overseas of their son Pte. George Williams.
- It's been a long time since Acton has had an activity on Dominion Day. But the big event here next Wednesday evening promises quite a diversion.
- Well the ones who don't make the big money don't have the worry of apportioning it anyway. The new budget arrangements so none will have to worry over keeping it.

During July and August the room at the Town Hall for giving yarn for the Acton and District War Service League will be open only on Saturday evenings from 8:00 until 9:00 o'clock. Any one desiring yarn at any other time should communicate with Mrs. W. R. Braeken, Mrs. J. E. Gamble, Miss M. Z. Bennett or Mrs. R. Spillvoegel.

BRIDE AND GROOM HONORED BY EVENING AT GREENOCK LITERARY

On Thursday June 18th Greenock Literary Society spent a social evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Altken who were recently married.
 A fine program was presented consisting of the following numbers: a trio by Merle McCutcheon, Clarence Reid and Ernest West; a solo by Mary Reid; a group of slides of scenes in South America given by Mr. Howard Norton who has recently returned from there; a mouth-organ selection by Jesse Wardlaw; a duet by Merle McCutcheon and Ernest West.
 After Miss Wilma West read an address to the bride and groom they were presented with a mantle clock. Then Evelyn and Calvin made suitable replies of appreciation. Refreshments were served and some games were played bringing the evening to a close.

NOW GROWING OIL

LONDON (CP)—Moscow Radio heard here said that Spanish Krambe, a Moroccan plant with seeds containing independent, high grade oil, is being cultivated near Baku. Two crops a year with a yield of nearly a ton of seed an acre are expected.

MRS. WM. ALLAN

Following a lengthy period of failing health Mrs. William Allan passed away on June 15th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Cleave, Acton. She was in her seventy-second year.
 Born in Erin township on the second line on the farm now owned by Mr. Chas. McKeown, Mrs. Allan has spent her entire life in this community. The farm home where she has spent her married life was just one lot from her birthplace. Mrs. Allan was before marriage Minnie Masales, a daughter of the late Jacob and Anne Masales. Forty-eight years ago she married William Allan who with their family of seven daughters and four sons remain to revere the memory of a beloved wife and mother. Two brothers, Norman Masales of Toronto and Howard Masales of Acton; eighteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The family reposing are Mrs. F. Cleave, Acton; Mrs. C. Beswick, Hamilton; Mrs. D. McLean, Mrs. E. Perryman, Mrs. K. McKinnon and Mrs. F. Holmes of Acton; Mrs. Wm. Prior, Toronto; Rolland of Guelph; Wesley and Thomas, Acton and Beft at home. Besides her home and family interests Mrs. Allan was a worker in the Ladies' Aid of Knox Church and an untiring worker for the Red Cross.
 The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon with a private service at the home followed by a service in Knox Church, Acton, with the service in charge of her minister, Rev. Forbes Thomson, assisted by Rev. A. W. Fosbury and Rev. J. E. Gamble of Port Rowan. Interment was made in Fairview Cemetery, Acton. Pall bearers were five grandsons, Lloyd McLean, Allan and Ellwood Perryman, Bert and Ellwood Allan and a nephew, Pte. Arthur Gamble.

Among the floral tributes which also bore testimony of esteem and sympathy were those from the family, the grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gamble and Buddy, Detroit; Beardmore Employees' Acton; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Masales; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fielding; Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Reid and Bernice, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Murray; United Church Ladies; United Church Sunday School; Glass Making, Girls, Toronto; Misses Margaret and Ethel Watts, Burlington; Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson, Toronto; Federal Wire & Cable, Co., Guelph; Knox Ladies' Aid; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Masales; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Masales; Miss Margaret Garvin; R. W. Lowrie and Betty; A. W. Ralph; C. K. Brown; D. Brown; Wesley Allan's Neighbors.
 Flower bearers were eight granddaughters, Mrs. Wm. Dick, Helen McLean, Lena, Betty and Georgina Perryman, Marjorie and Eleanor Allan and Audrey McKimmon.

MRS. H. P. MOORE

To have lived in one community for eighty-eight years, and in one home for more than half of that time is, in these days of change, a notable achievement. During the last five years, while she has been held close by at home by invalidism, Mrs. H. P. Moore, widow of one of Acton's leading citizens, has not been well known. But previous to that she was active in almost every good work in the village for the past sixty or so years.

In the earlier days of The Free Press, when the former editor was struggling to make this paper worthily representative of the town, Mrs. Moore gave aid in various ways, frequently folding sheets and sewing covers on pamphlets. For years, also, she used some of her spare time in clipping selected bits of verse and stories to be used in the paper. From her girlhood she was an active worker in the Methodist, and then the United Church, for years teaching a class in the Sunday School, serving as President of the Ladies' Aid and of the Woman's Missionary Society. The family home, too, was the guest house for visiting ministers, and for those newly-arriving on the charge. And many a minister has occasion to remember her warm hospitality. For some years, just subsequent to her own school days, Hattie Speight, as she was then, predated as teacher, under the late Principal Ross, in the Acton Public School. During the last great war she was president of the local branch of the Red Cross and worked most actively in the preparation of clothing and other comforts for the Acton representatives in service. Mrs. Moore was exceedingly fond of flowers, and was blessed with some of the art of "The Green Thumb," since her flowers always seemed to flourish markedly. She had a large part in the planning of the gardens at Moorecroft, and, indeed, worked actively in them so long as she was able to get about. Some five years ago, a little past the four-score mark, that old-age disease arterio-sclerosis began to make itself felt, and made further activity of this kind impossible, though she has supervised the work around the home place until shortly before her death. About three years ago it became impossible for her to leave her room, and since then she has endured a patient invalidism, under almost constant pain, latterly relieved constantly by opiates. A very sturdy old heart kept the life processes going much longer than is usual in such cases, but a week ago this organ showed signs of leaon, and since that time she slipped downward gradually, finally slipping away peacefully on Monday evening last.

Mrs. Moore had one son, E. J., who left literary work in the United States two years ago and came home to give her the care needed in later years of illness. For a score of years, Miss Emma Robinson has been a most faithful worker in the home, latterly serving as housekeeper and nurse, and giving the invalid particularly tender care. One brother, W. H. Speight, Toronto, is now the last member of one of the pioneer Acton families.

The funeral service at the home on Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Walter A. Fosbury, B.A., B.D., assisted by E. M. Morrow of Preston, was simple, as Mrs. Moore herself would have had it. She was carried away to be laid beside her husband in Fairview Cemetery by six of the family friends, Herb. Brown, Thos. Watson, A. T. Brown, John Lambert, Chas. Mason and G. A. Dills.

FREDERICK SHELBOURNE

Limehouse lost another of its older citizens on Tuesday last week when Frederick Shelbourne passed away in Christie Street Hospital, following a few weeks' painful illness.
 The late Mr. Shelbourne was born in Halifax, N.S., sixty-nine years ago, the son of a Crimean War Veteran. He was a weaver by trade, employed at Cornwall, Ontario, for many years. During the Great War he enlisted in 1915 with the Second Pioneer Battalion and saw service in France.
 Six children survive him by his first marriage, John, Gladys, (now Mrs. Ewing), William, Bernard, Helen and Cecil. He also leaves to mourn his death his second wife, formerly Mary Ann Ieston, whom he married almost nine years ago. For the past eight years they have resided in Limehouse, where they were very popular.

Lieut.-Colonel Sydney Lambert conducted the funeral services on Friday, June 19th, from Johnson's Funeral Home, Toronto, to the Veterans' Plot in Prospect Cemetery, with military honors. The pall-bearers included Fred Garnham, Leonard Brown, Arthur Benton, Norman Brown, Wilfred Garnham and William Brown.
 A number of beautiful floral tributes adorned his casket. These were from his widows, Mr. and Mrs. Locke and Helen; Son Bill and Family; Son Bernard and Family; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brown, Norman Brown and Miss Jackson; 2nd Pioneer Battalion; Christie Street Hospital; Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Lambert and Family; Mr. and Mrs. Cloyse and Family and Mr. Wm. Brown, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Cousins; Eva and Duke Foster; granddaughter Gladys and family; two wreaths from Assembling Room, Research Enterprise; and neighbors from Limehouse.

HONORED BY KING FOR LONG AND MERITORIOUS SERVICE

An overseas paper from England gives the news that Mr. Walter George Webster, Guildford, late Staff-Sergeant Farrier, Royal Horse Artillery has had conferred on him by the King a reward for long and highly meritorious service and an annuity of £10 per annum. Mr. Webster has served in India and the South African War and in the last war was an instructor. He holds medals for South Africa, two bars, long service and meritorious service. Mrs. John Chapman, Knox Avenue is a daughter of Mr. Webster and his grandfather John Chapman, Jr., Acton, started his military service when eighteen years of age and is now with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Halton's Member Gives Views On Conscription.

"plodding wearily along an unlighted road, in the pious hope that we may stumble into the open light of victory." They coming to the industrial production in Canada, how will H. R. MacMillan, the friend of the leader of the opposition, and the forty odd thousand men engaged, in the ship-building program, take a statement of that kind in regard to Canada's war effort? And what about Ralph Bell and the hundred thousand odd Canadians who this year will be engaged in building aircraft for victory? How will they take that sort of description of Canada's war effort? Will they think it is fair criticism? I could go across the entire picture of Canada's war effort and challenge the leader of the opposition to name one person engaged in that effort who would dream of making such statements.

In the light of these comments I want to read again just what the hon. leader of the opposition did state, at page 3534 of Hansard:
 "I shall insist that we continue with interminable detours to victory." That is what we have had for thirty-two months.
 Is that an honest statement? Shall we insist that we plod wearily along a winding and unlighted road, in the pious hope that somehow, sometime, somewhere, we may grope, stumble and flounder into the open light of victory?"

Then the leader of the opposition goes on to say that what we need today in Canada is courageous national leadership. I now ask him a pointed question. What sort of national leadership has he been giving us? Has he done anything to improve Canada's war morale? Has he done anything to inspire in the hearts of Canadians pride in the war effort which this country is making?

Coming now to his stand on the other question, that of conscription for overseas service, I should like to quote several extracts from the speech delivered by the hon. gentleman last Wednesday. At page 3531 of Hansard the hon. gentleman said:
 "We cannot have total-war effort without unlimited selective national service."
 And again:
 "As in the past, my position today is that a full, all-out war effort on the part of Canada is possible only if all the material resources and manpower of the nation are fully mobilized, without restrictions of any kind. Keep in mind those words, 'as in the past.' And again I quote: 'I shall insist that we continue with interminable detours to victory.' That is what we have had for thirty-two months."

I think a fair summary of the questions I have just read, Mr. Spenger, would be this. The leader of the opposition tells the house, "We cannot have a total war effort without conscription for overseas service."

be a fair summary of those statements:
 Mr. Honnigh: Not very.
 Mr. Cleaver: Well, I expected to hear from my hon. friend; I have been disappointed that he has been quiet for so long. Now let us look at the record and see whether it substantiates the statement of the hon. gentleman. Before doing so, however, I should like to say with all the vehemence at my command that I sincerely believe that a majority of the people of Canada still feel that this country will make a better war effort and will raise better armed forces under the voluntary system than under conscription; and that conscription should be resorted to only when all else has failed. Now let us look at the record of the leader of the opposition and see whether he has been in favor of conscription during all these thirty-two months of alleged "detouring." I say at once that the record conclusively proves that he is either a new convert or that he did not have the courage of his convictions and did not voice them. Just a few months ago the leader of the opposition spoke at the head of the lakes, and is reported in the Port Arthur News-Chronicle of August 5 as follows:
 Honorable R. B. Hanson, national Conservative leader, told a luncheon meeting of like head and district supporters at the Royal Edward Hotel yesterday he was not sure that public opinion is ready for a declaration of all-out national service.
 He was not sure. It will be noted that at that meeting he was speaking to his own supporters. Did this great national leader tell his own supporters that this country could not have an all-out war effort without conscription for overseas service?

"CAPTAIN OF THE CLOUDS" FEATURE HERE NEXT WEEK
 Four Technicolor cameras flew with the Royal Canadian Air Force, James Cagney and action-director Michael Curtiz in Warner Bros. epic of the air, "Captains of the Clouds," featured next Monday and Tuesday at the Gregory Theatre, Acton.
 Under the direction of Natalie Kalmus, with Winton C. Koch assisting director of Photography Sol Polito behind the lenses, they recorded in brilliant red and blues and greens, yellows and scarlets, the vast, sparkling lake country of Ontario, the swift flight of fighter planes, the impressive scenes of Canada's Royal Air Force troops in review.
 Most spectacular shots of the trip were dog fight scenes between four planes high over Jumping Caribou Lake, near North Bay, the Quintuple jet country and scenes of Hudson bombers in combat with a Messerschmitt 110 over the Atlantic.

 Outstanding color work will be revealed in "Captains of the Clouds" as the ships fledgling pilots use in Canada, are a bright yellow. In July the grass was as green as fresh paint. Blue skies were hung in billows in cumulus white clouds. Lakes were blue and green.
 Officers and men of the flying force appeared in many full dress reviews, wearing the powder blue of the R. C. A. F. Squadron Leader O. Cathcart-Jones of the R.C.A.F. acted as technical advisor.

Join the FARM COMMANDOS
AND HELP HARVEST FOOD FOR VICTORY

SPEND a day or two each week on the farm during harvesting. Join the thousands of Farm Commandos who are prepared to "close up shop" or lay down their tools for a time, if necessary, to "raid" the harvest fields and help ensure the safe harvest of millions of dollars worth of precious food.

Service Club, Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce or Church Executive and get your local Brigade started at once.

The need for a great emergency reserve of Farm Commandos is urgent. The "stake" is tremendous. Ontario farmers must have every possible man-hour of labour during harvesting to prevent irreplaceable loss of foods to the Allied War Effort and to Canada herself.

Your help is needed—NOW. Volunteer in The Farm Commando Brigade and be ready to help if harvest emergencies arise.
