Westbrook, Greensides Ave., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marlow, Greenwood Ave. Rev. W. A. MacTaggart officiated. Standards of white gladioli and palms decorated the scene where Mrs. Murray Holmes supplied the wedding music, and Murray Holmes sang. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

A cluster of red roses caught the shoulder-length veil modelled coachman fashion. Miss Phyllis Westbrook, sister of the bride, and Miss Joyce Marlow, sister of the groom, were the attendants. The former was frocked in rose-fuchsia taffeta, while the latter wore a similar dress of Alice blue. Both had floral headresses of yellow roses and black velvet ribbons and bouquets to match completed their costumes.

Old Rags Help The Bombers

Salvaged Rubbish Becomes Maps, Charts and Army Blankets

Britain's old rags, going into the factories at the rate of hundreds of tons a day, are coming out in the form of Army blankets, surgical dressings, Air Force maps, Navy charts. Even old rope and string reappears as camouflage netting.

One place alone is converting old clothes, sacking, carpets and rags to the tune of 250 tons a week. A cutting machine tears two tons of them up an hour. The shreds are shot into a huge water tank where they are beaten to pulp at the rate of 50 cut an hour. This muddy mass, pressed and dried, becomes felt for padding the seats of tanks and transport lorries, for packing aircraft for shipment, and for protecting armored cars from vibration.

And old rags are also being turned into the thousands of the wipers which munition workers need for taking the grease from shells before they are varnished, for keeping aero engines in order, and for varnishing aeroplane propellers.

If the rags be of wool they become uniforms, blankets, cloth for "utility" suits and dresses.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDonald, Orton, wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Elva M. M., to John Howard Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, Hillsburg. The marriage is to take place September 16th.

Leisure Women To Disappear From Old Land

All Will be Directed Into Industry in Plan to Absorb Every Item of Possible Help for War Effort

BY ALAN RANDALL Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON, (CP)

—Once the Labor Ministry's woman-power program is complete Britain will have no more middle-aged "ladies of leisure." Women of 41 to 45 who have been living in hotels and boarding houses in country districts will be asked to register soon and then will be directed into industry.

Unless they are married and living with their husbands or have young children to look after, labor department officials say these women will be regarded as "mobile."

However, in cases where these women are living with their husbands they will, as far as possible, be given work in their own locality. If there is no war factory near at hand the women will be drafted to serve in a shop, council office, nursery or other useful places where she can release a "mobile" woman for work elsewhere.

V. A. D.'s Come-Down
Women of Voluntary Aid Detachments are not so keen about their absorption into the Auxiliary Territorial Services. In the First Great War the V.A.D.'s were graded as officers, though not actually commissioned. Now they are to be graded as cooks, orderlies and telephone operators.

Five women have taken on a new job for the London Transport. They replaced men as acetylene welders at a trolley bus repair depot. All are married. London Transport now has 10,612 women working in place of men who have been called to the services.

Informative Advertising

Mrs. Consumer, who has been telling retailers for some time now that she wants specific, honest information about the things she buys, is getting what she asked for. Merchants are finding it is good business to publish informative advertisements and to tag their goods with labels, giving the facts about them.

This trend was reported by John W. Wingate, Professor of Merchandising at New York University School of Retailing, when he came here recently for the meeting of the American Marketing Association.

Professor Wingate cited numerous cases proving the value of facts in advertising, among them the following:

"About the same date, two New York stores recently advertised upholstered chairs at about the same price. The larger store gave very few specifications in its advertisements and had a poor response. The smaller store inserted complete facts and in two days sold 660 chairs, with mail orders still pouring in."

"Of course there are still those who insist that customers do not want merchandising details and that the emotional appeal is all-compelling," said Prof. Wingate. "But it is so difficult necessary to eliminate glamor in order to present such facts."

Another interesting trend is the movement toward more informative labelling. Labels properly written can tell all a clerk ought to know but often doesn't, he pointed out.

It behooves all merchandisers who deal directly with the public to keep abreast of new developments in sales technique.

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE IN CASE OF WAR DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

OWNERS OF PROPERTY ARE URGED TO INSURE AGAINST LOSS BY ENEMY ACTION

The Government of Canada, by Act of Parliament, has set up a Plan of War Risk Insurance against damage to property caused by enemy action—by countermeasures taken against the enemy—by explosions of war munitions handled by third parties.

In terms of general information, it may be stated that the Plan provides a certain limited FREE COMPENSATION for damage to owner-occupied homes and to chattels, but the main feature of the Plan is that owners of most types of property can protect their property by PURCHASE of GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE at very moderate rates.

This type of War Risk Insurance is not being sold today by private insurance companies, because of the risk involved. Consequently, the Government has established a national scheme to make it possible for each citizen in Canada to purchase the sense of security that comes from knowing that if his property does suffer war damage (and the war has come much closer to Canada in the last twelve months) he can call on the resources of Canada to help him make good his property loss.

HOW TO OBTAIN GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE

The Fire Insurance Agents and Companies of Canada have volunteered to the Government the services of their extensive facilities and personnel, on a non-profit basis, thus avoiding the setting up of the large organization that otherwise would be needed to handle details of this nation-wide Government War Risk Insurance scheme.

YOUR FIRE INSURANCE AGENT OR COMPANY WILL GLADLY SUPPLY COMPLETE DETAILS OF THIS GOVERNMENT INSURANCE PLAN.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT IS PUBLISHED so that the public may have notice of the Government War Risk Insurance Scheme. The information given above is not intended to be a complete résumé of the Scheme. Full information regarding conditions, exclusions, etc., is available elsewhere.

TO HOME OWNERS HOUSEHOLDERS and OTHERS
Limited free compensation is provided under the Act for War Damage by enemy action to owner-occupied homes up to $3,000. Damage to Householder's Chattels, up to $800— for those of his wife, up to $400— for each child under 16, up to $100— for others, non householders, up to $200.

No policies are needed in this classification but insurance additional to the above amounts may be purchased.

Ask any Fire Insurance Agent or Company for complete details.
