LOUISDON, (C.P.)—The British House of Lords has followed the Courts of Law in the matter of admitting ladies women to the witness' gallery.

"By God, I am not contented for gold nor care I who hath food upon my coat; it yameth me not if men say parliament was; such outward things shall not in my desires; but if it be a sin to couch herunder I am the most offending soul alive."

King Henry V, Part I, Act 4, Scene 3.

At Agincourt the arms of England won a victory that lives inscribed for evermore on the national scroll of honour. Today Shakespeare's words re-echo in our ears as we Canadians prepare to offer our wealth, our goods, our blood, in a cause more honourable than Henry's; more honourable than any that history has yet recorded. Do we, too, covet honour more than cost, more than gold, and outward things? Let it not be said that even the least one among us has failed to back the attack.
