GOOD ADVICE TO CANADIANS, TOO

Some sound advice is contained in "ten points" compiled by "The Argonaut," an influential San Francisco publication, for the benefit of the people of the United States during the war crisis. They apply equally as well to the citizens of Canada. Here are the timely thoughts in the form of ten brief paragraphs:
1. You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
2. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
3. You cannot help the small man by tearing down the big man.
4. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich.
5. You cannot lift the wage-earner by pulling down the wage-payer.
6. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income.
7. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred.
8. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.
9. You cannot build character and courage by taking away a man's initiative and independence.
10. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

THIS WEEK

BY JOHN C. SCOTT (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

(TORONTO) (CP)—Ontario's three speech which opened the first session of the 21st legislature this week was the longest in years—5,000 words—and it dealt with, among other things, post-war planning and employment, education, labor relations, forestry development and agriculture.
The speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews, forecast government legislation dealing with all these problems.
It forecast inauguration of religious instruction in public and secondary schools, a 48-hour limit on the work week with assurance of one week annual vacations with pay for commercial and industrial workers, and establishment of a new provincial department of planning and development.
Other highlights:
A post-war four year highway building program providing 27,840,000 man days of employment;
Expansion of mining industry for post-war employment;
Establishment of an Ontario Forest Resources Commission to supervise crown forests;
Adoption of one permit in place of three for purchase of liquor, beer and wine;
Expansion of post-war trade with Britain and other countries through the opening of Ontario House in London;
Development of fish and game reserves;
Limiting the cost of hydro-electric power to municipalities in southern Ontario to $30 a horsepower;
Expansion of public health services;
Amendment of the Active Service Election Act which provided for proxy voting for Ontario members of the armed forces stationed outside the province.
