Canuck Airmen In Attacks on Five U-Boats

Coastal Command Aircraft Meet With Success Against Submarines During Individual Attacks

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN COASTAL COMMAND (CP) attacks against five German submarines were carried out in less than a week by Coastal Command Liberator, Sunderland and Halifax aircraft which had members of the R.C.A.F. in their crews.

U-boat No. 2 was hunted down during a patrol by a Sunderland in the crew of which F.O. F. G. Acres of Pentlcton, B.C. was flying as flight engineer.

U-boat No. 3 and 4 were both sighted and attacked by an R.A.F. Liberator crew with which W.O. Harold Clayton Kuhn, Dundas, Ont. was flying as a wireless operator air gunner.

U-boat No. 5 was hunted down by a Halifax bomber crew led by Lt. G. L. Powell, Belleville, New Jersey, who used to fly with the R.C.A.F. before his recent transfer to the U. S. Army Air Corp.

AUSTRALIA'S EMUS TROUBLE FARMERS

PERTH, Australia (CP) — That three-letter bird, the emu, is popular with cross-word puzzle fans, but the Western Australian farmers use other types of cross words when they see acres and acres of their crops beaten down and unfit for harvesting.

In dry seasons since the war began, emus have drifted down from the north and stayed to breed instead of moving on when the rains came. They have cost the farmers many thousands of pounds.

The farmers have joined the Sunday blitzkrieg. They obtained special allowances of rationed shot-gun cartridges and special rations of petrol. Their method is to use three lorries, circle the paddocks and drive the birds to a central point.

The method is exciting and dangerous because the birds are fast. The best bag was 170.

JESUS THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD

Golden Text.—I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in the darkness, but shall have the light of life. Jno. 8: 12. Lesson Text.—Jno. 9: 1-7, 13, 34-41. Read Jno. 9: 1-41.

This blind man is suggestive illustration of the unwarred sinner: blind (1 Cor. 2: 14), he never had seen; he was beyond human help (v. 32); his case was hopeless, humanly speaking (doubtless he himself had given up all hope of ever seeing); he was without human sympathy, suggested and despised (vs. 2, 34); he was poor, a beggar. But all his need was only an opportunity for God's abounding grace in Christ. Jesus not only passed by, "He saw." He over sees us in our need and distress (Ezr. 7: 23; 5: 5). Contrast the feeling of Jesus' disciples as they looked at the man with that of Jesus Himself. Their feeling was one of curiosity and contempt. His of deepest compassion (2, 4, 6). Are we likeliest to the Master or the disciples?

That is a wonderful "must" in verse 4. "We must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day." Indeed we must. Night is coming fast. No man can work then. Us and at the work now. "The night cometh" are solemn words, the night of death, when we sleep, not work, not unconscious but shut out of activity and shut up with Christ in blessed communion (Phil. 1: 23), but beyond the possibility of finishing any work we have left undone here. Note the works we must do: not our own, but "the works of him that sent me." It is plain from comparing vs. 2 and 4 that Jesus considered delivering men from evil far more important than speculating about the origin of evil. The world's night is when Jesus has gone (v. 5) and the darkest night for the individual soul is when Jesus leaves it. Jesus helps the man before he asks. His need was a prayer. If we are to follow Jesus, we ought not to wait until misery comes to us, we should go to it. "Go wash" was a test of faith (2 Kl. 5: 10-14; Mark 3: 5; Luke 17: 14). "Siloam" means "sent," and was a type of Jesus Himself (v. 4; Jno. 10: 36; Rom. 8: 3; Gal. 4: 4). If we wish sight—for our blind eyes—we should go to Him and bathe (Jno. 8: 12). The man gave the best evidence of faith prompt obedience. The result, "he came seeing."

Christ's work always arouses discussion and causes division. The discussion gave an opportunity for testimony. The man showed his manliness by saying, "I am he" ("he that sat and begged"). His frank testimony for Jesus cost him excommunication (v. 34), but it brought him a deeper, fuller knowledge of the Lord (vs. 35-38). He gave a model statement of the case, short, right to the point and giving the exact facts. He spoke of his deliverer as "the man called Jesus." Later in the day he said, "He is a prophet" as "the Son of God" (35-38). Those who heard wanted to see Jesus (v. 12). Such is the power of testimony. He was then brought to the Pharisees, the recognized enemies of Jesus (v. 22; ch. 11: 46, 47, 57; 12: 42). But the man did not dodge the issue even then. His testimony created division even among the Pharisees (Ac. 14: 3, 4). "How can a man that is a sinner do such signs?" That is an unanswerable question for all deniers of the Deity of Christ, for if He is not divine, He is the chief of blasphemers.

III. Worshiping. 35-41. When the rulers cast this man out they cast him right into the arms of Jesus. It is well to be cast out if separation from human fellowship brings the fellowship of Jesus. Jesus leads the man on to deeper faith. He had believed in Jesus far enough to obey his bidding and to go to Siloam and thus be healed. He had believed in Jesus as a good man and a prophet from God (vs. 17, 30-33), but now he is to be brought into the great question, "Doest thou believe on the Son of God?" If you do, happy are you (Jno. 20: 31; 1 Jno. 5: 1-4). This man did not as yet, but he will shortly—"who is he, Lord, that I may believe on him?" Then Jesus made Himself known, and the man cried, "Lord, I believe." He proved his belief by worshipping Him.
