THIS WEEK

TORONTO (CP)—The "manifesto" of the Liberal Party in Ontario was pronounced Monday night by Mitchell F. Hepburn, party leader in this province, in an address at Windsor. Highlight of the speech was Mr. Hepburn's statement that the Liberals if elected, would establish a minimum weekly wage of $25 for men in commerce and industry.

"Mr. Hepburn said his party would 'keep money in the people's pocket so that they may buy the products of our own farms and factories.' Floors would be placed under farm prices and wages. Expanded help was planned for those unable to work. A broad program of public works would be carried out and every conceivable assistance would be given in the marketing of Ontario products.

"We believe Liberalism is the only path by which this better way of life can be achieved," he said. "Neither Toryism, backtracking toward the 1930's, nor C.C.F. socialism, eager to plunge into the unknown, can attain the goal."

The manifesto included a Liberal pledge for a "modern" labor code, a reorganized labor department; a full-time labor relations board; equal pay for equal work for women; vacations with pay and shorter hours.

The Liberals would introduce universal health insurance and would increase old age pensions as well as lower the age requirement to 65 for men and 60 for women. Ninety per cent of the school rates now paid by municipalities would be assumed by the province. Scholarships would be increased along with teachers' salaries and superannuation cheques. Dental and public health services in the schools would be increased. Technical training facilities would be expanded.

In connection with education reforms mentioned in his address, Mr. Hepburn said a new Youth Department would be created under a separate minister. Voting ages in the province would be reduced from 21 to 18.

A delegation of North American Indians from Canadian and United States tribes is being sent to the San Francisco World Security Conference to plead for recognition of territorial rights given them in the treaty of Ghent following the war in 1812. Interviewed at Brantford, Ont., A. Paul, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, said Indians feel they cannot find a court in the British Empire which will listen to their case. The Indian delegation would approach the committee set up to deal with minority groups' problems at the San Francisco meeting.

"Frankly we Indians resent the discriminatory law of Canada which is depriving us of our rights as a nation," Mr. Paul said.

During the week-end American bombers again attacked Tokyo concentrating their loads of explosives on the Hitachi Aircraft Engine plant.

Russians in Berlin

Back in Europe the encirclement of Berlin by the Russians was almost complete by Tuesday. Soviet tanks and mobile artillery had worked through the edge of Potsdam on Berlin's western outskirts. The Russians were in control of one-third of the Nazi capital, Moscow said, but the Germans themselves announced that nearly half of the city was the scene of fighting.

To the west the American 3rd Army had advanced 18 miles to the Alpine region where the Nazis may choose to stage their final battle. At latest reports Tuesday, the 3rd Army was within 110 miles of Hitler's Berchtesgaden hideout. The American 7th was closing in on Munich only 50 miles away and the French were tightening their grip on Germans trapped in the famed Black Forest.

American 1st Army forces east of Leipzig were only 22 miles from Soviet columns operating along the Elbe at Muehlberg and junction of the two armies was expected hourly. To the north the British 2nd Army had intensified its siege of Bremen and was narrowing its lines around Hamburg.

The 1st Canadian Army was driving ahead against bitter opposition and was reported Tuesday only 25 miles from Rotterdam.

In Italy, British 8th and American 5th Army troops were deploying along the southern banks of the Po River Tuesday, but their exact movements were hidden by censorship.
