Canadian Farmers First to get DDT For Insect Control

Several proprietary barn sprays rontaining the new insecticide popularly known as DDT have been registered recently for sale in Canada under the Pest Control Products Act, at-Act administered by the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, under which the quality and advertising of insecticides and other pesticides is regulated. Canadian farmers are among the first civilians in the world to have the opportunity of buying a DDT insecticide for use in insect control,

Until recently DDT was restricted almost entirely to military use in controlling Bee, mosquitoes, flies and other disease carrying insects in combat areas. Production of DDT in Canada not required for such purpose has made this new development possible. Priority was given to the use of DDT in the form of a barn spray ent time.
