

THE CLOCK OF LIFE

The clock of life is wound but once, And no man has the power To tell just when the hand will stop.

Now is the only time you own: Live, love, toil with a will Plan no faith in the morrow, for The clock may then be still.

Wear to-day a cheerful face In everything you do, The sunshine that you radiate Will shine right back at you.

Speak to-day a word of hope To someone in distress, When you lift another's load You make your burdens less.

Do to-day a gracious deed, And do it with a smile, It's little daily acts like these That make your life worth while.

Twenty Years Ago

From the issue of the Free Press of Thursday, April 14th, 1926.

The garages are getting busy again. Mr. Smith, formerly of Milton, who purchased Mr. W. Wardlaw's farm on Main Street, has moved to his new home.

Acton Citizens' Band furnished a very entertaining program in the town hall on Wednesday evening. Herbert Dyer of Rockwood received serious injuries at the crossing at Rockwood Station when his car was hit by the east bound flyer.

Knox Young People's Society was favored with a visit from I. M. Montgomery, the author of "Anne of Green Gables" and many other books. Halton is honored in having this popular writer as a resident. She is the wife of the new Presbyterian minister at Norval, Rev. Ewen McDonald.

Streamlining In Personal Finances

Low-Cost Personal Loans Repayable in Instalments

For every useful purpose emergency or opportunity, low-cost money is available at the Bank of Montreal to people with steady incomes.

Mr. W. H. Clayton, the Bank's Manager, is daily helping people to streamline their personal finances by making personal loans at the unusually low rate of 27 cents a month for a $100 loan, repayable in twelve monthly instalments, which is equal to 6 per cent. interest per annum.

You can borrow less or more, for shorter or longer periods, at the cost is proportionately the same. There are no handling charges, no deductions, no extras.

Aim to Stimulate Farm Production

Finance Minister Halsey Says Butcher and Pork Rises Necessary

OTTAWA (CP)—Recent increases permitted by the Prices Board in the consumer prices of butter and pork products are aimed directly at stimulating production on Canadian farms.

Finance Minister Halsey made this clear in a statement to the Commons last week in a general statement on price control in which he reiterated the government's intention to hold the line on prices, while allowing occasional increases to stimulate production and thus raise the level of employment.

The recent four-cent-a-pound increase in butter, said Mr. Halsey, was necessary because an additional incentive was needed if even a restricted consumer ration was to be maintained.

There was a similar factor behind the increase of one to four cents a pound, depending on the cut, for pork products. The United Kingdom, realizing that Canadian hog production was declining, seriously, agreed to raise the contract price immediately and the domestic price consequently was adjusted to the new rate.

The increase of four cents a quart in the retail price of molasses, however, was caused by a reduction in the government subsidy. The elimination of subsidies on imported wool and cotton were behind increases in mattresses, pillows and studio couches.

The wartime accumulation of cost increases, particularly wage increases, was behind recent increases in prices for lumber, pulp and paper products and articles containing steel. However, the lumber increase will not be passed on to the consumer but will remain at the producer's rate.

Meanwhile, the Prices Board in a recent survey found there had been practically no changes in retail prices of some 300 goods and services appended from the price ceiling Feb. 1 in an experimental move. Board observers said there had been as many price declines as increases.

The Sunday School Lesson

SUNDAY, APRIL 14th

OUR RESPONSE TO CHRIST'S CALL

Golden Text: He forsook all, and rose up and followed him. Luke 5: 28.

Lesson Text.—Mk. 1: 16-20; 5: 18-20, 10: 46, 52; Luke 5: 27-28.

Exposition I.—Becoming Fishers of Men, Mk. 1: 16-20.

Simon and Andrew were attending to their own business when Jesus called them into His work, and God most frequently calls men to higher work when they are going faithfully about the humbler duties to which He has called them (Ex. 3: 1; 4: 5; 1 Ki 19: 19-21; Matt. 9: 9). Jesus called them into a work of the same character that they were already doing; heretofore they had been fishing for fish, now they were to fish for men. He gave the commandment "Come ye after me," and the promise "I will make you to become fishers of men."

For the past five months this gang of typical American kids has drawn crowds to see their play in Boston, New York, Detroit, Seattle, Vancouver, San Francisco and Los Angeles. They have taken school assemblies and caught the imagination of the kids. They have seen the sights of a dozen great cities, met governors, mayors and leading citizens of all kinds, stayed in homes and heard all that is going on.

Teen Agers Tackle Nation

Cities, Schools, Homes Respond to Kids' Revolution

(By Hager Hicks)

Have you ever seen a play that moved you so much you forgot your date? After seeing "Drugstore Revolution" one kid walked two blocks, then stopped dead in his tracks. "Holy smoke! I left my girl back in the theatre!"

What is "Drugstore Revolution?" It is a play written by a gang of teenagers who are out to capture the 28 million kids of America with a big idea. They have revolted against the drift and disunity in their gangs and the country, produced this play out of their own experience and set out to tackle the nation.

For the past five months this gang of typical American kids has drawn crowds to see their play in Boston, New York, Detroit, Seattle, Vancouver, San Francisco and Los Angeles. They have taken school assemblies and caught the imagination of the kids. They have seen the sights of a dozen great cities, met governors, mayors and leading citizens of all kinds, stayed in homes and heard all that is going on.

To read about the state of the nation is one thing, but to feel it in your bones by travelling with these two dozen kids and meeting teenage America is another. Your eye can quickly pass over a page of statistics showing juveniles riding the rising 'S' curve, but you will never forget the red-shirted, swaying shape of a 14-year-old coming down a mid-western highway, dead drunk at nine in the morning. And you will long remember kids talking about their "real" mother or their "first" father and the hunger in their eyes as they hear of united, happy homes.

Right across the country these kids have talked with teen-agers who have been in every kind of mess, have seen them change and start off on a new road.

Yet it isn't about these that they feel most concerned. There is a mass of kids who appear in no crime statistics, but who are just as surely affecting the future of the country. They are drifting with the tide and the tide is flowing fast.

The tragedy is that all this is so needless. Drum-majorities, bobby-sovers, the all-stars and the ordinary boys, kids everywhere are hungry for an idea big enough to live for. It is the fastest-moving gangs that come quickest onto the stage after seeing "Drugstore Revolution," to find out what the cost has got. They are typical of the 28 million kids of America who have the energy and impulse to swing this country in the right way, if they get a lead.

Who are these kids travelling on the road? They come from all parts of the country and all kinds of homes. They are some of thousands from many lands who were training last summer at the Moral Re-armament World Assembly at Mackinac.

Their aim is not to start a new youth movement but to see that the youth of the country, together with their families, spear-head a revolution that will make America think straight and live great.

Youths Save $500 To Give To Town

Teen-Town Community of 250 Has Constitutions and Elections

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Oakville has a mayor, solicitor, treasurer, clerk and town council, none of them more than 19 years of age.

They're the governing body of "Teen-Town," a community of 250 citizens which also boasts a bi-weekly newspaper, "Teen-Town Tales." It operates a centre at downtown Victoria Hall.

names have survived the storms of centuries, and also became an heir of God and a joint-heir with Jesus Christ. There was no hesitation on Matthew's part; he arose at once, forsook all and followed Christ.

Forecasts Better Indian Conditions

Music Teacher to Redmen Known As Chief White Eagle

CHILLIWACK, B. C. (CP)—The future of the Canadian Indian is brighter as a result of a conference Indian leaders and federal government officials held some time ago. W. G. Drinkwater, widely known for his work among the redmen, said in an address here.

Known to the local tribes as Chief White Eagle, Mr. Drinkwater was critical of the treatment of the Canadian Indian population. "The schooling Indian children receive is no good at all," he said. "They receive three hours schooling and six hours of gardening a day and when they leave school to mingle in the outside world they are scared stiff."

The speaker, who spent many years teaching music to the Indians, said some Indian agents are good and others bad. "Their word is law and there is no talking back."

"An Indian may fight for his country, but may not enter a beer parlor," he said. "He gets beer at bootleg places."

WISHBONES DECK WEDDING FROCK

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The life-long dream of a Sydney girl to wear a wedding frock trimmed with wishbones came true recently when Theresa Smith married John W. Scott. When she was 10, Theresa attended a wedding at which the bride's frock was trimmed with the hem with wishbones. From then on the collected wishbones after every family poultry dinner for her own wedding frock. Alas! the wishbones might sing precious stockings, she wore them stitched in a butterfly design on a separate girdle.

DEATHS FROM TUBERCULOSIS, CANCER AND PNEUMONIA

The alarming increase in Ontario deaths from cancer over the past 11 years is dramatically illustrated in the above chart, which is being circulated by the Ontario Cancer Foundation in connection with its $2,000,000 appeal for funds. What has been accomplished by control of disease is shown by the steady downward trend in pneumonia and tuberculosis.
