And here is the conclusion of two other little stories, the beginning of which I told you a few weeks ago. Shortly after Christmas, if you remember, I sent a good, warm coat away to a friend of mine in England, because I knew it was urgently needed and that she had no coupons with which to get one. It wasn't a case of money in England money is loss importance these days than coupons. Well, the other day I received a letter of thanks, and helleve me, that letter was all I wanted just to know the cont, and a few other wearables that I sent along with it, had reached their destination, and time to give a little extra warmth and comfort to the wearer in this worst of all winters that is adding so much to the hardships of our friends in

> And now for the conclusion of my second story. Because of some awful tea we bought I wrote a letter about it to the ten company's head office. Remember? Well, that letter was very courteously received, as I hoped it would be. It agreed that the tex was definitely off flavor, although the company was at a loss to know why. Stocks of the ten were holng rucalled from the store where ours had been purchased and to compeaante for our-loss, they sent us two half-pound packets of ten inside two resture because we hadn't asked for anything at all. It looked as if the company was really anxious to please the buying public. Apropos of that I read the other day that the seller's market is definitely over; and it will he a buyer's market from now on.

That sounds like good news but I still think it depends on the general public. As long as we fall over ourselves to get what we want, regardless of price and quality, merchandise isn't, likely to improve very much. I wish someone would tell me why ban-3. A Business of My Own

-Plat's the theme of a little booklet for 'veterans which has just been Justed by the Bank of Montreal. 'n is called "What's the score on these votorans' loans?" and is about the new Voterana' Business and Profess. lonal Louns Act. In it the bank answers, in the straightforward words of one of their managers, a series of questions put by a veteran who wants to know "the score" for himself and for his friends. Copies are, we understand freely available at the local office of the bank.

There has been a certain amount of doubt and misspprohension as to what the Veterans' Loans Act would enable hanks to do in the way, of making loans to veterans who have started or who wish to start, a husiness of their own. An unfortunate delay in the supplying of the government's printed forms and details of the regulations did not help matters.

Soon after VJ-day this same bank | brought but a valuable little book for veterans called "Cletting off on the right foot." The sequel just published might: well have been called "Standing on your own feet." At any rate it quite lives up to its predecessor and will, we think, make worthwhile rending for those many veterans whose antition is "a business of my own."

Don't guess, be sure you are right and then go ahead.
