

Peach Kings take Series when they Win 4-1 Friday

A "suggestion" baited from the Georgetown Herald which appeals to us strongly. It says in part that the writer gives the spirit of rivalry which is lost with no further meets of Georgetown and Acton Hockey Clubs. Further on it adds if a "grudge match" could be played in the Salt arena between the two venerable rivals with a special train and all that. All this came about from a statement of Father Morgan's who was singing Acton's praises to the papermaker town thus way, "If Acton had played as well against Georgetown as they did, against Preston, they could have trimmed Georgetown." One question Mr. McGillivray before we negotiate further in these columns. If this is to be a "grudge match," we presume Georgetown will ice a squad truly representative of the Papertown if not of what use is it for the local squad to extol our hockey virtues to a Toronto team? Bring any squad who are bona-fide residents and I'm afraid we'd wipe the ice clean. That's the only way it could be termed a "grudge game."

Harold Townsley is to represent Acton's Junior "C" team in a Thursday hockey school scheduled to take place in Maple Leaf Gardens next month. The management of the gardens are sponsoring an all-star game between two teams from Eastern and Western Ontario and Townsley was judged the most valuable and promising player on the Acton squad, so will represent this burg there. A speedy left winger also at home on the pivot position, Townsley will fit in perfectly with the Laflin idea of keeping an eye out for future talent in the minor loops. Each Junior C outfit has been asked to send a player to try out for the all-star team and this includes an expense free trip to Toronto for three days. Good luck Harold.

Since our southern neighbors are already bushing a literary baseball around and seeing as Acton is forced from the 1947 hockey picture it might be appropriate for us to enter into the spirit of things and look ahead for a 1947 baseball team. Last year's O.B.A. entries were both shadowed out in the earlier stages of the summer so this annum we're looking for great things from the base runners. Perhaps we overstep when we offer a suggestion to the basemen management. But here we go anyway. As far as Intermediates go Acton is fairly well fixed and so after the Juveniles. In between these classes is another classification—Junior. A lot of local lads who show obvious talent and are not yet ready for the senior entry, but are too young for juvenile competition, lack the form of the horseshoe batting at 16. Surely there are enough players emerging from the juveniles who would appreciate further practice. What say you officials?

As the Acton team skated off the ice at Grimsby, I heard a fan remark, "There goes a fine team." Perhaps the adjective line doesn't describe the '47 Tanners aptly enough. Here is a team years older than average, with the exception of a few, who walked to the Group 5 title with very little trouble and then entered, the first round of the playdowns an underdog to all but local adherents. Here is a team who walked over last year's champions all in their stride with no perceivable conceit. Here is a team who went down fighting. In the second round of the O.H.A. playdowns who were beaten by the pick of the Hamilton circuits by only two goals on the round. Here is a team who Acton is justifiably proud of—yes you may take a bow Tanners for the grand season of hockey.

Georgetown eliminated the non-note Niagara Falls team on Tuesday night when they shaved in eight goals to Niagara's five winning the goal to count round by 16-11. They do have an eye on the O.H.A. championship and according to reports are sweeping the other "A" teams off the ice. So, even though Acton is finished for this year we'll still lend a yell to the Papermakers for further victories.

Grimsby Arena was packed to the rafters for Final Game, and many Acton fans followed the Tanners—Acton gave all they had, but Team Representing Grimsby proved too much—Final Season Closed by Tanners who stuck to Resident Players.

In a game which was plenty rugged throughout, Acton took a farewell bow to the fans at the Grimsby arena on Friday last, losing the tilt by three goals and the total goal series on the round by two goals, which the Tanners nonetheless scored, but seems both of the disputed goals were ruled counters by a hefty referee.

The only thing left is to hang up the sticks until another season rolls around.

Gear-topped official from Hamilton handled this second meet of the Peach Kings versus Tanners and he was consistent enough in his penalty record which number all of thirteen. The two disputed goals that were scored by the Tanners were both in this was understood by everyone, including the referee, fans, goal judge, etc., but according to "Red" Dunn's interpretation of the rules one was off-sides and the other crossed the crease by other means than a stick. We're not trying to say that Grimsby didn't deserve the win, because they certainly did. Only we think the score should have read 4-2 instead of the recorded 4-1.

Keep on the ice, men—it couldn't make up for the lack of space so necessary for the intricate passing plays usually executed by the Tanners. The fruit belt arena has the required length, but in width it resembles a country road back in the days. Every time a likely play would break into bud, it was nipped by the boards before ought could come of it. Nevertheless the Peach Kings thrived in this atmosphere, tending around like so many bees, intent only on the goals. It would be almost impossible to count the number of times Grimsby picked the ball at Evans in the local end. Every time a disc fluttered upon the hickory, whether in their end or over on the opposite half of the red line, a Peach King would drive it in the direction of Evans' bastion. Both sides would zoom in from the left and right dashers to help the puck around again before it accidentally found the shieldish of a defender or was plucked offside.

As much as they carried the play, Grimsby scored the majority of their goals on breaks while the Tanner defense were caught helpless in the second end of the arena. Blanchard whipped the first puck past "Dooey" Tollsman assisting in setting up the play and the goal. This was the only goal scored during the first period and it wasn't until 9:28 in the second stanza that Hutchinson, the speedy starboard powerlifter notched the second goal of the game for Grimsby. Acton wasn't long in residing on the efforts of Elio Marzo, who tallied the one and only goal when officially recognized for Acton. He flipped him a pass he deflected through the Peach King defense. With everyone grouped around the Grimsby net, the red light flickered again and the tying goal was shrugged off by "Red" Dunn with expressive shoulders.

The Tanners seemed determined to clinch the tying point, referee or no referee, and while so engaged Bill slipped through at 18:20 having only Evans to beat, which he did on a lucky roll of the puck. Entering the third period—two goals down, Acton were held down by the tackles of the Peach Kings, who shot content with skating, grabbed the fore-lines by their respective arms and held on until they were either hacked off or bore their quarry to ice. Presiding littledom looked upon the Grimsby antics with disfavor—the only trouble was they considered evading methods just as injurious as the pursuers. So, naturally two men were sent to the cooler instead of the one, Acton being as well represented in the sun-bin as Grimsby.

Only the final clash of noise, signifying the game's end, saved the Peach Kings from going out. For during the last five minutes Norm Morton, Sonny Townsley and linesmen had so many shots on McMillan, a very lucky Grimsby twine keeper, that it more than made up for their lack of response in the first and second stanzas. Acton missed more open nets and corners than a circle has sides. However, the fans from the fruit districts ceased chewing their fingernails with the final bell for a puck bulged the twine. The usual congrat, etc., followed this and the Tanners paraded off, tired and bruised from a hectic series. It was a tough series to loose but Acton fans have every reason to be proud of their 1947 entry and the showing they've made with an all home team and no imports from city leagues.

A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

Will it ever become possible to adopt a universal language which shall be learned and spoken in all countries? To accomplish such a plan it would probably be necessary to have one language taught in schools in all leading countries. It would not be necessary for any country to give up its own language and literature. It would become necessary or desirable for an important part of the people of each country to learn the universal language. It is a noble idea, and the present effort to unite all nations in a harmonious co-operation to prevent war would be greatly aided if such a universal language existed which was generally spoken in all countries.
