Where Are the Police?

Bank holdups and robberies of safety deposit boxes have been alarmingly frequent during the past year. Notable is the fact that the gangsters seem to pull off these holdups with very little interference. Are our police forces giving us the kind and quality of protection we pay for? When lawlessness, in any form, succeeds, it becomes increasingly difficult and expensive to check more and more lawlessness. Gangsterism readily skips from one form to another.

Banks are overhauling their vaults, installing safety devices and otherwise trying to meet the present emergency. The suggestion has been made that municipalities, perhaps with provincial aid, arrange special guards for banks. It is argued that heading off a crime wave will be cheaper now than later on.

Whatever the solution, the reply is that the situation seems to have got beyond the police. This continent has had enough awful examples of rampant lawlessness to suggest the need for some very sober attention to this matter here, right now.—Financial Post.

EDITORIAL

Going West
 The end of this month—to be exact, the 24th, 25th and 26th—the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association will meet in annual convention in Victoria, B.C. For a number of years, the editor has been hoping for this opportunity of visiting Western Canada and the coast. We have been to Canada's eastern provinces and coast, but this is the first time that a western trip has seemed possible.

In our years of association with the newspapers in Acton and Milton, this will be the longest period that we have had away from our work. A capable and experienced staff will be in charge and it is more than probable that readers will not notice the difference the week or two we are absent. We haven't a doubt but what an improvement may be noted by many during this time. That is one reason that we thought it best to tell readers of our intended absence.

We hope to learn by association with other editors at the western convention. We have no thought that in such a brief period we can gain any conception of western Canada or learn much of western ways. And so, readers, when the editor is not available after September 19th, you will realize that we are on a busman's holiday and taking in all that is possible of a great subject in a very brief period of time.

Respect for Law
 Many folks find it difficult to understand the application of the law in connection with bingos, raffles, lotteries, etc. Recently a memorandum from the Attorney-General gave the ruling that an occasional bingo could be run by a charitable or religious organization if the proceeds are to be used for the benefit of any charitable or religious object.

Many folks who visited the C.N.E. midway wondered if the monster bingo there was occasional when it ran day and night for over two weeks and what charitable or religious organization was benefitting from its operation. We noted also that a city service club was advertising a monster bingo for the Maple Leaf Gardens and we'll wager the prizes offered were going to be worth more than $50,000 stipulated for the occasional bingo.

We are not arguing for or against bingos and lucky draws in this article. Whether we think they are foolish and a waste of time and money is not a question. What we do think is that there can be no respect for any law in the Province of Ontario when there is such loose and flagrant violation of the law. A little more spinal fortitude from the Department of the Attorney-General of Ontario and a few less explanations would set a fine example for youthful guidance that would be helpful to so-called juvenile delinquency and the raising of a youthful crop of bank robbers. There must be respect for all laws.

When Free Trade is Throttled
 Price competition in the sale of all kinds of dental supplies in Canada has been virtually eliminated, according to a report of an investigation under the Combines Investigation Act which was made last week by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Justice. The report of F. A. McGregor, Combines Investigation Commission, finds that the fourteen members of the Canadian Dental Trade Association have operated against the public interest for several years under a system which fixes and maintains prices, prevents outside firms from obtaining supplies and generally suppresses competition in the sale of material and equipment used by Canadian dentists.

The Canadian association is reported to act as a regional group of the American Dental Trade Association and to have been supported in its policies by those manufacturers in the United States and Great Britain who supply their goods only to association members in Canada. The Canadian members in turn promote the sale of products on which uniform prices are jointly maintained.

Eighty-seven per cent. of all dental supplies sold in Canada in 1945 were supplied by the organized dealers. Four Toronto firms account for three-quarters of the total Canadian trade.

A copy of the report of the commissioner investigating reached our desk the other day. It's a book of approximately 100 pages and is available to anyone

Prophetic Words Worth Repeating
 Prophetic words spoken during war days, by Winston Churchill, are worth republishing in these critical times:

"Come, then, let us go forward with our united strength."

"It would be a great mistake for us to ingeminate and emphasize our woes. I cannot share that sense of detachment which enables some people to feel they are rendering a public service by rubbing in the most dark and anxious part of our situation."

"Testing, trying, adverse, painful times lie ahead of us. We must all strive to do our duty to the utmost of our strength... this House of Commons, which has especial responsibilities—will have the opportunity once again of proving to the world that the firmness of spirit, senses of proportion, steadfastness of purpose which have gained it renown in former days, will now once again carry great peoples and a greater cause to a victorious deliverance."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The new series of Canada Saving Bonds will be issued at 2 3/4 per cent. and limit of the amount for any one purchaser is $1000.

The period of daylight saving will soon be ending and then we'll get a realization that summer is gone and the long evenings of fall are here.

The warm weather continuing into September leaves no cause for complaint since one is reminded that we'll have many months of fuel burning soon.

This is the season for the Fall Fairs and there'll be many in this district for the next few weeks that will get a good following and provide a splendid outing.

Brampton will install parking metres and the mayor has signed a contract. Motorists through this busy town will wonder if there are to be double rows of metres to allow for the double parking that seems so usual on Brampton's main thoroughfare.

The detour on No. 25 Highway is still on. Some of these days we should see some real changes in this section when the barriers are removed. It does appear that at last the road between Milton and Acton is to become a proper highway, making complete the communication between north and south Halton.

The C.N.E. is over for another year with new records to add to its laurels. To win such acclaim and secure an attendance of well over two million in two weeks this great event has to be constantly getting better—and down through the years that is the story of the Ex. The 1947 event, in spite of handicaps was a great show.

J. Ollier writing in the Shelbourne Free Press and Economist says: "What we see in the Toronto papers goes to show how greatly the world has progressed and what sissies our forefathers were in comparison to some of the moderns coming from overseas to 'try out' Canada. We read of young fellows who came from the Old Land, by boat in a few days or by plane in a few hours, who want to go back because jobs at big pay are hard to get and housing is difficult to obtain. They are the strong, fearless type whose motto is 'Pike's Peak or bust.' It just goes to show what sissies our forefathers were. They came across the ocean in six or eight of even twelve weeks, the time depending on the wind and weather. They journeyed inland by slow stages. They went into the bush and hewed out homes for themselves and their families. For the sake of the future they hoped for, for themselves and those to follow them, they endured hardships and privations and everything. Words cannot express what Canada owes to them. Hats off to them, sissies though they were!"
