. HOME CARE STANDARDS

It is afgreat help in the development of a communityy, if people have a_high_standard_as_to_the_way_their homes should be kept. If they have a strong feeling that their dwelling places should look neat and in good order, they are usually willing and able to devote considerable effort to maintain that appearance, or to spend money to get that result in so far Sireas they are able. Every home that is kept up to the high standard is an encouragement to the rest of the people to develop high standards for bely of us had had this privilege and their own dwellings.

A town where those high standards both the exhibits and the layout of OF PURNITURE, HOUSEHOLD EFgenerally prevail grows more attractive every year. The people who pass through or visit in such a community are impressed by its excellent appearance, and many may they jexhibits in the arena. What struck would like to live there.

Coming through Acton four of un paid a visit to your Fall Fair a week ago Saturday. It was the first time we were all agreeably surprised at your grounds. Most of our party are hobbylsta of sorts and we spent the best part of half an hour examining some of the us most of all was the display of model ships and yachts and I assure you none of us had ever seen such " a splendld showing at any exhibitionbar none. The gentleman in charge, a Mr. Wright, I think, gave us quite a description of Acton's model building activities. I am arranging to be advised when the model steamers make their appearance on the Guelph Reformatory pond next spring so that

Your Fair committee is to be congratulated all round. Yours very truly.

GIVE THE YOUNG A CHANCE

Mr. D. M. Nalsmith, now 88 years of age, who graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College in 1878, in a letter to the Mount Porest Confeders and pince, the home of the proprietor, wrote tenders for his father, a railroad contractor, involving $500,000 in Present day contracts may be too complicated for fifteen-year-old boys, but there is a great deal of to-day's work which could be done by young men and women, at which they never ment. This is a very cosy home with get a chance until middle age.

One of the reasons young people many old people sitting on the lid of opportunity.

COMMENTS ON THE BABY

As people stop to look at the babies their friends are pushing around the walks, there are various discussions as to whom the youngster looks like. Some will say he takes after Ma, but some may think they see the lineaments of Pop's family in his youthful style. There is general admiration of the youngsters, and people will say that he or she is about the best ever. The Canadian people love to go, and they have their going shoes on a good part of the time. The baby gets his first taste of going as he is pushed around in his carriage, and the sense of motion and seeing new things makes him or ner very happy.

FALLING LEAVES

The leaves have been falling fast from deciduous trees in most parts of the country. Nature lovers are very sorry to see them drop. They are a crown of beauty all through the summer months with their charming green or whatever shade of color they possers. Their glossy surfaces gleam in the sunlight. Their thick shade has been a wonderful comfort on hot days. They end their senson with a blaze of glory on many trees.

Their shade softens the bright light of the sun and subduce its glare and is thus restful to tired eyes. The leaves rugtle in the wind and seem like an orchestra of many volced instruments. The motion of the dancing leaves is a sort of heavenly ballet. Now the leaves are yoing and people hate to see them drop.
