Ayr and Acton Play to 4-4 Tie In the Playoffs

ly asleep at the switch early in the final chapter. It had an invigorating effect on the visitors and they pressed hard for their equalizing goal. Eventually their chippy play brought dividends. L. Hawes bulged the twine with a screened shot through a maze of legs.

Ayr fans, who follow their team in numbers (Ayr has a population of 812), considering their per capita ratio, predicted that their pride and joy would capture the round after their clubs' bright show in the third. Unless the locals play the hockey they are capable of, we'll concede that, too. But if they are fighting—your scribe takes Acton to task to cop the laurels.

Line-up:

In arranging your kitchen, place the range away from the sink. If the range and sink are side by side, water is likely to splash on the range and the work surface at the sink is reduced.

AC-TEEN TOPICS

It is a fine thing when people engaged in mechanical work are keen to understand it thoroughly, and comprehend every part of it. If they are working on some machine, for instance, it adds to their power if they completely understand that machine, and can put it in shape if it gets out of order.

"That understanding is obtained by constant study of the thing one is doing. If the machine on which such a person is working gets out of order, he may not at first be able to repair it. If he will carefully watch the processes by which the defect is corrected, he may be able next time to correct the difficulty himself. Mechanical ingenuity is an extremely useful gift and the people who have it are valuable.

The crowds for the last few weeks have been very encouraging and everyone is pleased with the progress the Penguin Club is making. There were fourteen in the dramatic group last week and almost half of them were boys. Mrs. Canham and Mr. Parker are conducting this group.

The ping pong tables were kept busy last Friday as usual and several of the ardent fans are developing into very good ping pong players.

The Penguin Room where you can relax with a coke is quite a popular place. Bill Masters takes good care of it and to get away from the fast moving activities for a rest or an argument, this is a good place.

The lunch, although most people think of it as an inevitable, will be maintained only if the important job of cleaning up after is done co-operatively.

Thanks to Mr. Canham for acting as chaperone last Friday. The co-operation of the Y's Men's Club is appreciated.

The Council have been trying to get new ideas for novelty dances to add to the variety of the evening. If you have an idea speak to W. Duval.

With the dramatic group getting off to a good start we will be expecting some short skits. They are to present skits now and again and they will no doubt be worth seeing.

Plans are made far in advance for the Penguin Club and there is a vague hint of a "Penguin Prom". This would be a semi-formal, formal or dress optional dance to be presented at the close of the current season. Nothing definite has been arranged but if you like the idea, talk it over with your friends and mention your ideas to the council.

Georgetown Won By 6-4 Before Packed Arena

on Storey's rebound to clinch the game for Georgetown in the latter part of the third period. It came as the aftermath of a string of penalties for various offenses. Before the final bell sounded, Ilo Marzo and Ferri broke out into a rash which climaxed an otherwise dull performance.

"Frick" Woods received a penalty, one of the first we have seen meted to a net minder in Int. circles, in the second period. He bounded out to retrieve a puck and instead of shooting it away smothered it. Another peculiar incident marked the contest. "Dude" Lindsay, mixing it with a visiting cuffian, raised his stick over his head. A hand issued from the seating sections and snatched the old boys' weapon while he gazed in open astonishment. Egad, and the culprit escaped—back to Georgetown.

DAYS LONGER COLD STRONGER

The old saying had it that "as the days begin to lengthen, the cold begins to strengthen." It is a remarkable feature of our climate that for about a month after the sun reaches its most distant point in the winter, and after it has been coming north for about a month, the weather continues to grow colder.

It seems to take about the whole month of February for the earth to recover the warmth which it lost following Christmas and get back to the average temperature prevailing in the shortest days, which come just before Christmas. So Jack Frost rules our earth over most of this country quite well through January and February and allows but little sign of life to show itself.

IDEALS OF WORKMANSHIP

It is a fine thing when people engaged in mechanical work are keen to understand it thoroughly, and comprehend every part of it. If they are working on some machine, for instance, it adds to their power if they completely understand that machine, and can put it in shape if it gets out of order.

"That understanding is obtained by constant study of the thing one is doing. If the machine on which such a person is working gets out of order, he may not at first be able to repair it. If he will carefully watch the processes by which the defect is corrected, he may be able next time to correct the difficulty himself. Mechanical ingenuity is an extremely useful gift and the people who have it are valuable.

OUTLETS FOR YOUTH

A good chance for playing games is one of the best activities for boys and girls. If they can have the opportunity to play on playgrounds, backyards, and vacant lots, they obtain highly valuable physical exercise and normal outlet for their energy. They have practice in getting along with their mates and in co-operation.

In many country towns rural sports, like fishing as one instance, provide an agreeable outlet for youthful desires. Part time work on a job is likely to give valuable training. Youth organizations provide splendid activities for girls and boys. In these associations they have a chance to grow, and the opportunity to make use of its powers.

Cub Pack News

The Acton Wolf Cub Pack, with leaders, Akela and Baghera celebrated the second last day of Boy Scout-Girl Guide week, by striking out on a two hour hike Saturday afternoon. Bob Coon, working with John Cressy, Martin Marks and Bob Lansborough won the fire lighting contest, with Bill Skilling and Bob Souther assisted by Ron Sinclair, crackling close behind.

When the Wolf Cubs returned to the Y at ten minutes after four, they were served soup, crackers, hot chocolate and cookies by the Scout Mothers, Mrs. R. Spielvogel, Mrs. Al. Kirkness, Mrs. E. Coon, and Mrs. R. Anderson.

Jerry White, on behalf of the Acton Pack and their leaders formally thanked the busy Scout mothers. His motion was seconded by Bill Coon, and heartily affirmed. Grand Howl fashion by 20 Wolf Cubs in full voice.

COLDS COME HIGH

Two and a half days a year, two and a half days of production, are lost by the average worker on this continent because of the common cold, says The Financial Post. This is a minimum and direct figure. There is no estimate of the loss due to decreased efficiency in the earlier stages of the cold; in the loss through serious complications later.

The Western Pennsylvania Safety Council estimates that 14 per cent. of all employees are absent with a cold during November and December, 16 per cent. in January and 18 per cent. in February. In Canada we like to think that our climate is healthier than elsewhere but it is doubtful whether we could turn in a much better record.

Unfortunately medical science so far has devised no quick and easy way for ridding the world of this costly and dangerous scourge. It is one of the penalties we pay for deserting the primitive and isolated life of our ancestors. But the goal is so big that research will not rest until it has been won. In the meantime the rest of us can heed our doctor's warning and be on guard.

FIGHTING AMONG BOYS

The fighting instinct still survives among many of the smaller boys. The youngster is told that he has to learn to stand up for his rights, and not let too many things be put over on him. If the boy picks on him, he may find it necessary to use his fists. A little show of force is often very effective in enabling such a youth to get fair play.

Probably there are not so many fights among the boys as there used to be. They got the idea of co-operation in their school activities and their games, all of which promotes the spirit of fair play. Probably they are learning that personal fighting is out of fashion.

Asphalt, which is insoluble and unaffected by water, is one of the most weatherproof substances in the construction industry. Thus it plays its most prominent part in protecting materials exposed to weather and climate—roads and the roofs of houses and buildings.
