THREE ACT COMEDY TO BE FEATURED IN ACTON TOWN HALL

Those who like local plays, of which there has been a dearth in Acton this season, will welcome the presentation of "While the Sun Shines", a three act comedy presented in Acton on April 16th. A synopsis of the play shows it to be one of those involved events with a lot of mistakes and complications that make an evening of hilarious fun.

The presentation is by the Georgetown Dramatics Club under the auspices of Acton Y's Men's Club. It promises to provide a fine evening's entertainment.

The plot is typically farcical, dealing with an impetuous and irresponsible duke whose daughter is scheduled to marry a wealthy earl. The earl is a sailor in the navy, and the night before his wedding picks up an American USO aerobat and puts him up. The girl, a WAC gets mistaken for a date the earl has set up for the American and falls for him. It's hard to conceive of anything more difficult to unravel but "While the Sun Shines" is like that.
