USE SPARINGLY

There is a story about a little boy who cried "wolf" "wolf" so often that when wolf really did come along to eat him, nobody paid any attention. The moral of that was simply: "don't give false alarms". Department of Highways safety officials feel the same way about drivers who use their horns all the time. Horns are warning signals. Use them only when they will help someone to ayold danger. Good drivers use them courteously, and courtesy of all kinds is essential to safe driv-

CONSCRIPTION COSTLY

Does Canada need universal military training, or would it prove "a deceptive hoax-economic lunacy?" The Financial Post estimates that it would cost $1,000 millions in the first year, to inaugurate such a system-nearly 50; more than total estimated receipts from personal income tax this year. On the other hand, a selective draft system such as planned in the United States, would only train 20,000 to 25,000 men yearly.
