Hello Homemakers! Now's the time to make the most of what money we have left in the monthly food budget. Another summer's harvest perfumes the air but there are many good fruits that can still be served alone or mixed to accent the flavor and color by contrast. There isn't much, to say about the apples, grapes, peaches and melons as a cool delicious fruit cup except to chill them to the marrow, sweeten ever so slightly with a thin, simple syrup. A fruit cocktail should not be too bland, if you want the dish to be stylish, add a scoop of lime sherbert or plain ice cream or cubed Jello.

To help you make the most of September's fruits we publish a few simple recipes.

Grape Juice
Remove grapes from stems, measure and wash. For each quart of grapes, add 1 quart of water. Cook until soft. Strain through fine cheesecloth in sieve. For each quart juice add 1 cup sugar. Boil and remove scum. Bottle in sterilized jars while hot. Seal tightly. Keep in cool place.

Jiffy Grape Juice
1 1/2 cups blue grapes
1/4 cup granulated sugar
Place grapes and sugar in a sterilized quart jar. Fill up with boiling water. Seal and let stand 6 weeks before using. Strain when ready to use.

Favorite Conserve
1 cup minced pears
1 cup minced peaches
1 cup canned, crushed, well-drained pineapple
1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries
1 cup sultan raisins
1 cup shredded blanched almonds.
2 tbsps. lemon juice
5 cups fine granulated sugar
1/2 cup liquid pectin

Prepare fruits, measure accurately and add sugar. Add nuts. Stir well together. Bring to full rolling boil over hot fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in pectin. Stir and skim alternately for 5 minutes to prevent floating fruit. Pour into sterilized jars and cool before sealing with hot paraffin. Makes 6 to 7 8-ounce glasses.

NOTE: This may be made in the winter with canned fruit.

Plum Conserve
8 cups prepared Damsen plums
6 cups granulated sugar
grated rind of 1/4 oranges juice of one orange
1 cup seeded raisins
nutmeats, if desired

Wash, half and stone the plums, for measuring. Add sugar and cook gently uncovered, stirring often, until a few drops will thicken on a cold plate. Add remaining ingredients and cook 10 minutes. Let stand a few moments, skim, then stir. Fill hot sterilized jars and seal with melted wax.

Fruit Compote
2 cups sugar
6 cups water
3 peaches
3 pears
12 plums
12 apricots

A few drops red food coloring. Add sugar to water in large kettle and bring to a boil. Add skinned peach halves and simmer about 10 minutes until tender; remove with slotted spoon. Add unpeeled pear halves to syrup and simmer about 10 minutes until tender; remove. Add whole unpeeled plums and simmer about 10 minutes until tender; remove. Add whole unpeeled apricots and simmer about 6 minutes until tender. Arrange fruits in bowl. Add red food coloring to syrup to give a lovely clear pink. Pour over fruits in bowl while warm. Cool at room temperature, then refrigerate until chilled. Serves 6.

YOUNG MAN, DON'T GO WEST

If you're thinking of going West, young man, better take heed of Ottawa warning and think again, says The Financial Post. According to Deputy Minister of Labor McNamara, there are four job-seekers for every job on the Pacific coast.

Blame for the current unemployment in British Columbia is laid to the exodus which has been going on from the Prairies and Eastern Canada since the war. Last week's warning was especially directed to residents of the Prairies.

The latest report of the Unemployment Insurance Commission shows that on August 12 there were 17,183 jobless and only 4,337 jobs. By comparison, jobs and jobless just about balance in Ontario and Prairies.

Rain at last! Yes, after seven weeks with hardly a sprinkle we have actually been blessed with a real rain. We began to be afraid, doubting Thomases that we were, that although rain was all around us it was going to pass us by. You see, that four-inch rain that drenched Toronto Saturday night didn't come our way at all. It was Sunday night before our turn came, and believe me, it was like music in our ears to wake up and hear that steady downpour hitting the roof, the windows and the front doorsteps. Some of it came in the house too, but that was neither here nor there. It also filled the cisterns to overflowing, so now, for a month anyway, we shall have lots of nice soft water.

Of course the rain is too late to help the pastures much but it will certainly solve the fall wheat problem for a good many farmers. It is still quite hot but I imagine a day or two will clear away the uncomfortable humidity and then we may have some nice fall weather, which will add to the enjoyment of those who are interested in attending local Fall Fairs.

Yes, and next week we return to good old standard time so that in many ways we are getting back to a regular routine following the usual summer upheaval. And speaking of standard time, Partner amused me the other day by saying, "You know, I wouldn't mind daylight saving time at all if we had it in the winter instead of the summer. Seems to me we go back to standard time just when fast time would be some advantage to us!" Maybe Partner forgot that the idea of fast time was not primarily for workers but for those wishing more daylight for their leisure hours.

And from fast and slow time problems we jump to how to save on hydro power. One solution is very simple but it will never be adopted. We could go back to a self-imposed curfew. We could try going to bed at 10 o'clock. Many of those in the sixty-ish class what they save in electric light the young folk burn up in half the time. Imagine suggesting to youngsters of this day and age that they be home by midnight! Why, for them at 12 o'clock the night is just beginning. In my far distant youth it was a late night if we were out to midnight. And yet I really believe we had more fun because we were not satisfied with pleasure at twenty. There was always something new and different to look forward to; a show was an event a dance something planned for several weeks ahead. A Sunday School concert was often lots of fun—especially the walk home afterwards with flickering gaslight from the street lamps casting a shadowy glow. Neither night lights nor bright lights were necessary to enjoyment in those—dare I say it—those good old days.

No, I am afraid curtailment of night life will not be involved to any great extent in plans to save our precious hydro power. Instead we must have week-end shifts in industry; shut off the heaters, turn off the radio, put out the lights, save on the hot-plates, stoves, heaters and ironing—save in every way possible just so long as it does not interfere with anyone's pleasure. And while the housewife feels almost a criminal if she should dare to have a second piece of toast she knows that in the towns and cities night life goes on as much as usual, with maybe a light dimmed here and there as a special concession to hydro conservation.

Now I have laid myself wide open to be labelled as an old crank, but isn't there some method in my madness, or at least some reason for it, when the need to save power is impressed upon us by radio and press and yet from towns and cities there is all kinds of evidence that hydro is being used in so many ways exclusively for pleasure?

And now here's a laugh against myself. I had the kettle on to make a cup of tea. A few minutes ago, thinking the water should be boiling, I went out to the kitchen. The kettle was on all right but I had forgotten to turn on the heat. Now who dares to say that I don't practice what I preach! Wasn't I saving the hydro?

HERRING-OIL HAS NEW USE

An experimental plant for manufacturing margarine from herring-oil has been established in Lowestoft, England. It is expected that the production of the new plant will reduce margarine imports by $6 million annually.
