During the next few years many things happened. My but y brother died; my second brother through the influence of friends went to education by winning one scholar ship after another. My suter went out and got a job as an office boy. He got four shillings a week two of supporting He has gone a long way since those office-boy days. As for ning up more doctor bills for my

I remember one time when I was very ill mother brought her sewing machine upstairs to the room where I had spent' riany weeks in time. She was making, at the time, girl about my age. I thought it was a lovely dress and I asked her if I could have one just like it when I got better. She promised me that I should. And then I saw that mother was crying—a most unusual thing for her to do. I felt so guilty because I thought she was crying wondering how she was going to afford to buy me a dress. It wasn't that at all-mother didn't expect I would ever wear a little red dress, or any dress for that matter, as the doctor had said_I couldn't get better. Maybe that is where I develop-REAL ESTATE-If not previous- ed an unexpected stubborn streak, because I did get better - and mother made me a little red dress.

Mother did her best to keep us all in the straight and narow path. When I was in my teens ten o'clock was the latest I could be out, and then only if she knew where I was going and with whom. One time it was eleven o'clock and we found mother pacing the terrace outside our house. Mother was never really cross but she often got very annoyed talk to her enough, I always had my nose in a book and I was fright-

It was a happy time for us when i we were all self-supporting and; mother could give up her dressmaking. We wanted her to live with one or the other of us-but no. mother said there was going to be a home for her children to come to as long as she was living. And there was: mother died as she had lived-in her own little home. And so, there is sorrow in my heart this day as I remember my mother-only great love and gratitude to a kindly fate that gave me that most priceless gift-a good and courageous mother."

Your banker works

AS a depositor or borrower, you value privacy in money matters. Your banker protects that privacy. Your banking transactions are not open to the eyes and care of your competitor, your neighbor, your community.

In other words, the manager of your branch bank and his whole staff are working for you.

Contrast this Cumulian way with conditions in lands where freedom is denied—where every bank is a political tool, every banker a public official working for the State! State manapoly of banking, proposed by Socialists here, would open the transfer of the second sections to making the second sections to the second second
