PRICE TRENDS

Price firmness in foods, grains and livestock, with eagerness spreading in industrial commodity groups has marked the week. Strength in wheat has carried into other grains, but may turn out to be seasonal, with falling off again when new crop starts moving, particularly if it's as big as anticipated.

Do You Know?

From a book written by Juliet Lovell, we take the following letter:

"Navy Relief Fund, Los Angeles.

Gentlemen: Enclosed find my cheque for $2.00. You'll pardon me for not signing it but I want to remain anonymous.

A Friend."

Do you know that Dr. Sirrs is accepting contributions to aid in purchasing something with which to thank the boys of our Junior Hockey Team?

Don't be like the chap who wrote the above letter. Thank you.

BURLINGTON

John A. Dryden passed away at his home, Tansley, last Wednesday morning in his 84th year. The deceased was born at Tansley and had resided in the district all his life, and on the present farm for over 60 years.

At a meeting of the Burlington Hydro Commission held on Saturday afternoon, Alex Sisson was appointed secretary-treasurer of the Commission. There were twenty-seven applications for the position. Mr. Sisson has been an employee of the Commission for the past several months.

Bronte is badly in need of a water system to serve its rapidly growing population. Water in wells is being polluted by septic tanks and a number of people have been warned not to drink their well water by Dr. Mather, Halton's medical officer of health. On the advice of Dr. E. A. Herry, head of the sanitation division of the Ontario Department of Health, a joint meeting of the Bronte village commission and the Trafalgar Township council will be held to discuss the situation. —Gazette

AC-TEEN TOPICS

The title of the most interesting event of the week might easily be claimed by the gigantic Calvacade Cabaret. Although the event was not for teen-agers exclusively, it was presented in their interest.

Just a little description that might be of interest to those not there. We will start from our approach to the door. We open the door to a flood of red and white, deposit our reservation with the door man and check our coats with the efficient check room staff. Passing on we receive a hospitable greeting from the host who then escorts us to our reserved table. As we take our place at a table for four we gaze at the menu, which at reasonable rates, provides us with refreshments at any time during the evening. Deciding to begin the evening with a coke we beckon to the waiter, standing close at hand, and inform him of our decision. The "garcou" quickly returns with our order and we enjoy our beverage to the soft mellow strains of music. The evening passes as we enjoy the splendid floor, the rich music and the accommodating hosts and waiters.

The master of ceremonies introduces the exceptionally fine talent as we sit at our table in complete comfort. Rod Rodick, master musician, and expert at mystification is the first item to be presented and he completely baffles us with his sleight-of-hand feats of magic. Next item on the program is a versatile accordionist, Frank Marcevollo, who, with his skill, presented several numbers to the delight of all.

Two Paul Jones Dances during the evening are very popular and provide some real entertainment as the circles formed and partners are chosen.

The soft mellow strains of the home waltz concluded our very enjoyable evening as we danced the night to a close.

Another Calvacade Cabaret may be necessary to erase the debt still encumbering the rugby team. Although the dance was not extravagantly financially successful, it definitely was a success.

Congratulations to the two cheer leaders who took over the duties of the other irresponsibles who felt it was too much to ask of them to work their half hour. You did a wonderful job girls.

The walls of the Penguin Club were we understand packed almost four deep with boys while a few girls present were dividing their time between this large group of males.

In looking over a paper from Oakville we find they have accumulated the grand sum of $288 and are faced with the problem of its disbursement. The club is asking suggestions from its members in the hope that it will be put to use to the advantage of the club and the community. Although we have no definite figures on the financial situation of the local club, we have no doubt that with the success the club has received this last year they have at their disposal several times more than the Oakville Club. Of course we all realize that the organization is a non-profit club and with an accumulation of so much money something should be done in the interest of the club and the community. We feel that the executive have something big coming along and we hope to see everyone out should the event materialize.

Many times we have gone out on a limb before regarding the Penguin Club and usually have received some very disgusted comments. As yet we have not been discouraged. We still maintain that a teen-ager is young, full of life, desirous of something new and interested in having a good time in a civilized way. Once again we think the organization known as the Penguin Club should be more of a club. Webster defines this word as "unity for a common end." Let's make it that. We also feel that teen-agers are interested in novelty dances when given a chance to get used to them. We have received expressions of this nature from both boys and girls and feel they deserve a little recognition. The Schottische when first introduced received very little participation but now it is very much looked forward to at each dance. Then too perhaps a little more interest in the workings of the club by the teen-agers themselves might be advantageous. Nuf sed.

SAFEGUARDING WILD LIFE IN BRITAIN

The first government sponsored body for the study and conservation of wild life in Britain started work recently. A Biological Service with responsibility for protecting the flora and fauna throughout the British Isles was recently announced by Mr. Herbert Morrison in the House of Commons. This is the first step towards carrying out the recommendations of the special Committee on Conservation of Wild Life which reported to the Government last year.

Halton Producers Hold Discussion On Bootleg Milk

Toronto Milk Producers Association Kenneth Betzner, of Waterloo, admitted milk had been obtained from an outside source, but had been inspected by Department of Health officials before it was passed on to the consumer. He also said considerable amount had been returned when found it was not up to the standard.

Defending Mr. Wilmott, the speaker said the secretary was never told what to do by the distributors, and the directors at all times endeavoured to get the producer's viewpoint on important problems. He said of the six cent increase the farmer received five cents, arguing that Mr. Jolly's statements were doing the producers a lot of harm.

Explaining he had received a 10 per cent reduction in his quota after the increase in price, a farmer in the audience asked the speaker the reason. He stated the decrease would mean he would receive less money, in spite of the increase.

Mr. Heltzer said Easter holidays were coming along, and with school closing, and many people in the city going to summer homes over week-ends it would mean less consumption of fluid milk. He said that always occurred in the summer months when production was higher.

During the discussion period, J. E. Houck, secretary of the Toronto Milk Distributors Association said, under the new agreement producers would receive the $4.07 regardless, whether the distributor sold it or not.

A. R. Service, sponsor of the resolution, declared in support, "we must not let our organization become divided into two camps, nor must we have a self-appointed person become a dictator in our organization." Most of the audience supported the resolution, others leaving before the vote was taken.

A. J. Woodley, Halton director opened the meeting. Paul Fisher was chosen chairman.

Canadian battle dress will be moth and water-proof.
