Two things are necessary to maintain soil fertility, organic matter and plant food, and they should be partners. Organic matter can be maintained by good farm practices of rotating crops, use of manures, both green and animal, and ploughing down crop residue. The presence of organic matter increases soil bacteria and fishworms which are beneficial to productive soil. Machengie News

We are pleased to see the English Church players are putting on a repeat performance of their fine play, "The Minister's Aunt", at the Town Hall on Saturday night.

The rumblings of John L Lewis can be heard again. We have just received notice that the cost of coal is down .50 per too bringing the price to $20.75 for nut and stove sizes. We expect that this is the lowest price that fuel may be purchased during this next year. John L. is making some pretty strong demands for his mine workers and no doubt after a two monthbattle it will be settled in his favour. We will be pleased to accept your order for next winter's coal
