Cases in Court In Milton When Eight Are Charged

Charged with stealing gasoline from Gordon Trimble, Milton six young Burlington men were remanded a week for their hearing, when they appeared before Magistrate Kenneth M. Langdon in the County Magistrate's court here yesterday. Crown Attorney L. D. Dingle asked for a remand. He suggested to the Court they be kept in custody as "it might do them some good."

Setting bail at $25 cash each, the Court thought there were too many of them to be kept in custody. "If there were only two or three it would be a different matter," His Lordship observed.

The six charged are: John Plank, 20, Orville and Oliver Hill 17-year-old twins; William Ireland, 20, William Harley, 18, Allan Hill, 19.

Pleading guilty to causing a disturbance on Main Street, Milton, on October 11th, Albert Gibson, 22, was fined $15 and costs of $8.50 or in default 15 days. Const. Sam Hall was the complainant. The young man was allowed to pay $8.50 after his pay at the end of the week, while the balance was ordered to be paid at the end of the month.

Charges of reckless driving and driving while intoxicated against Albert Harris were remanded a week on request of Mr. Dingle.

THE SMALL-MACLEAN WEDDING AT KNOX PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. D. Crawford Smith officiated at a pretty wedding in Knox Presbyterian Church, Guelph recently, when Jessie MacGregor MacLean, daughter of Mrs. D. J. MacLean of Badenock, was united in marriage to William Gordon Small, son of Mrs. William Small, Kilbride.

The bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. James D. MacLean. She was gowned in white chiffon velvet with cowl neck and moulded bodice coming to a point in front. They covered buttons extended down the back from the neckline to below the waist, and the long sleeves ended in lily points over the hands. She wore a Juliet headdress embroidered with pearls and carried a bouquet of red roses. She wore the groom's gift, a strand of pearls and matching earrings.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Clark which was decorated with pink and white gladioli for the occasion. Bouquets of pink and white asters were arranged charmingly on the bride's table, centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Receiving with the bridal party, the mother of the bride was gowned in black sheer with corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a black crepe dress. Her corsage was also pink roses.

Later, the young couple left on a wedding trip to northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit and navy accessories with corsage of yellow roses. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Small will make their home in Kilbride.

Guests were present from Montreal, Cornwall, Rockwood, Tanley, Kilbride, Moffat and Puslinch.

Cub Pack News

There was bustle and wolf howls in the jungle on Tuesday night, Alesia, the old Wolf, Bagheera, the Black Panther, Baloo the Bear and Kaa, the Python at the entrance of the cave, greeted 35 Wolf Cubs. Make no mistake, the Old Wolf heaved a sigh of relief, at the sight of staunch reinforcements in the persons of the three assistant leaders. Actually, a standard Wolf Cub pack is allowed 24 lads. However, it is too early in the season to begin worrying about the extra 15 Cubs.

It is a beautiful, new hall, with fascinating floor, that gives spring to the hooves of feet. (And there aren't many heavy feet among Acton Wolf Cubs.) All folk leaders agree, it was a splendid beginning. New Cubs, fourteen in number, added their voices to the Grand Howl. The Wolf Cub pack welcomes the following New Cubs, who will be invested as Tenderfeet, within the next few weeks: Willard Halliday, Bert Halliday, Donald Luxton, Bob Jones, Freddie Graham, Jimmie Lindsay, Peter McLean, George Serby, Bruce McPherson, Bruce Andrews, Douglas McPherson, Ronnie Clow, Bobby Heatley and Robbie Brown.

To parents, a word about uniforms for New Cubs—There is no need to rush into buying jerseys and caps for the new Wolf Cubs.

LABOR IS NOT CONFUSED

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

There is a constant effort to persuade the worker that he is the victim of free enterprise rather than a partner in it. He is being asked to believe that a system that is predicated on the right of every man to use his abilities where and how he will, somehow infringes the worker's right to the same freedom. He is being told that if the men of outstanding ability were not permitted to use these abilities to make money, somehow there would be more money for everyone. He is being asked to assume that if members of government with no such qualities and no specific training were to replace or direct these men who have such qualities, then in some strange way the direction would become more competent and productive and more beneficial to all. He is asked to believe that the humbling of bureaucrats and the shared benefits of inefficient operation will prove less burdensome than the profits, the profits that assure more and better goods at lower cost sold to an ever increasing market, so providing increased employment at steadily improving wage scales. He is asked to believe, in the face of a world of contrary evidence, that government that does not have to make a profit will operate more conscientiously and effectively than the business that must.

Fortunately the worker is becoming less and less confused by such arguments, as he recognizes his essential partnership in industry and business and recognizes the essential truth of the stirring words of the late and great Samuel Gompers, the first president of the A.F. of L., that "the greatest wrong an employer can perpetrate on his employees is to fail to make a profit."

Listen to the words of the reigning president of the A.F. of L., William Green, who has fought for the workers' interests as long and as vigorously as any living man. "As a spokesman for a labour organization of six and a half million members," he said in a recent statement, "I want to make it emphatically clear here and now that the A.F. of L. stands foursquare in support of free and private enterprise. We believe that private industry have made tremendous contributions to the development of our country and will take advantage of the glowing opportunities for even greater growth in the future. For these services to the people we concede that the owners and managers of private property are entitled to a fair profit. . . . We of the A.F. of L. will oppose any attempt to abridge, restrict or interfere with the functions of free enterprise."

During the election campaign, every tree and post in Welland county, Ontario, had a large picture of Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labour.

Mr. Mitchell won by a handsome majority.

A few days later, every picture of Mr. Mitchell was removed, apparently by the Minister himself. Tact, it might be called. Portraits of defeated candidates still decorate the countryside.

There are approximately 400 plants engaged in the manufacture of woollens, worsteds and knit goods in 150 municipalities across Canada.

Progress Made On New Halton Home For Aged

Members felt it was the responsibility of the individual to obtain accommodation for his family, and nothing could be done by the municipality until the situation arose. Others thought it was a situation for each individual municipality to consider, as each case merited different action.

While council as a whole decided no action could be taken, some members felt it was a matter to be considered by their own municipal councils.

Deputy Reeve Goodlett announced the assessment department was making excellent progress, and that Acton, Milton and Nelson were using the new system for their 1950 assessments.

A communication received from the Campbellville Women's Institute was left for the Road Committee's consideration. They were seeking to have a hard surfaced road constructed at the earliest moment. They pointed out that Campbellville was the business and social centre of Nassagaweya Township, was not serviced by permanent roads.

"I might say here that Nassagaweya has the best township roads in the county," observed W. S. Biggar, chairman of the Roads committee.

The almost perennial topic of payment of hospital accounts for indigent patients was discussed when Howard Litchfield, Oakville questioned payment of a certain account. However members felt it was the responsibility of the municipality to make the necessary investigations after the patient is admitted. Other members felt doctors should obtain permission of the municipality before admission to hospital is granted.

Council shelved a request regarding a fencing subsidy when they felt it was a request beyond their jurisdiction. A request was made by a Nassagaweya resident that a subsidy be made on a rail fence instead of the required wire fence. They said posts for the fence would not be practical in the ground situated in boggy land.

Members approved of a resolution sponsored by Oxford county, who were asking extended rural mail delivery to all rural residents.

The Clerk was instructed to write to Milton Council thanking them for their assistance and co-operation in offering to the county, sewer, water and fire protection services should the County Home for the Aged be erected at the outskirts of the town.

Reeve Armstrong read a lengthy report regarding his attendance at the Welfare Conference held in Toronto last month. He told members that Halton County was being "looked up to" by other municipalities for their foresightedness of the present plan for caring for their aged people.

Accounts approved to be paid included: County Bldgs., $1,158.30; Assessment, $2.80; Printing, $63.84; County Roads, $21,520.48; Agriculture and Reformation, $10.00; Hospital Accounts, $752.75; Finance, $2,079.54. Council adjourned to meet on November 8th at 1:30 p.m.

PEONIES MOVE BEST IN SEPTEMBER

September is the best month to divide and transplant peonies, but they should not be moved more often than once in five years, unless there is special reason for doing so. Choose a fine day for digging up the plants and take care not to damage the roots which in a large plant may go down a foot or more. The leaves of the plant should be cut off before starting to dig and the loose earth removed from the roots which should be exposed to the air for a few hours. Wash off all the soil with water.

Examine the root carefully to see where it can be divided with as little damage to the tuber as possible. A very large clump can be divided by forcing a digging fork down into the centre, but smaller ones can be forced apart by hand. Each division must consist of a tuber with two or three eyes, but divisions with six or seven eyes are better for the average gardener.

Before planting the ground should be well dug and if possible some well rotted manure added and well mixed in. The root should be placed so that there is about two inches of soil above the crown. Too deep planting is frequently the cause of peonies not blooming. A mulch should be put on the first year after the ground has frozen, but when the plants are well established no mulch is necessary. The leaves should be cut back each fall and burned in order to destroy any disease germs which may be present.

The Masonic order is meeting in Germany again.
