Even prior to the Federal government's Santa Claus-like hint, there were ample indications that all levels of government were outlining elaborate expenditures with a hopeful eye on Ottawa Toronto wanted assistance with its subway and other groups wanted subsidies for this and that The Federal Government was encouraging the publie to tempt it to make the Trans-Canada Highway a feasible and comfortable road at a cost of $200 million, and Toronto was making public a civic improvement plan to cost an ultimate $180 million. These things were symptomatic of what is happening everywhere. It seems that there are too many itching pennies in official hands and they, and we, are losing a sense of a wise and protective economy

After having scrimped and saved and paid exorbitant taxes for years to protect our future, we don't youngest son of Mr and Mrs. John want to start on a reckless spending spree now, however admirable he cause of our spending. We still have a cold war that despite its present moderating temperature, might easily flame again into disaster. We are still living on a wartime scale and someday we will be getting back to normal, and the ransition isn't likely to be too pleasant. So we are not greatly taken with the suggestion that the "go ahead" sign is out with the blessing of all ranks of officialdom. There is danger that all of us will acquire a delusion of prosperity and that is the particular danger of The late Mr Sockett was of a officials who have to spend money hat they have not had to earn Under such circumstances it is hard to remember that governments can be no more prosperous than citizens; that if we, as citizens can't afford too much in these high priced days, neither can our municipality or our province or our country. Ours is the only purse that can be drawn upon to meet the obligations that off cialdom assumes Let's not be too free with the "go ahead" signal Let's always remember that everything has to be paid for, not by distant and impersonal officials and governments
