CUT DOWN HIGH FARM FIRE LOSSES

Before 1950 comes to an end, fire will destroy some $10,000,000 worth of Canadian farm property, statisticians predict. Scores of families will be left homeless. A large number of adults and children will never see the dawn of 1961. Their charred bodies will be found among the smouldering ruins of what had been happy homes. A rural fire is infinitely more terrifying than one in an urban centre where a modern fire brigade is only as far away as the corner fire alarm box. When a farm building catches fire the best that can usually be mustered is a bucket brigade of neighbouring farmers who are willing but often helpless. It is vital, therefore, that every farmer institute his own fire protection program. To check the quick spreading of flames, curtains and other fabric materials in the home can be treated with certain flame proofing chemicals. Fire retardent paints are now on the market. Inexpensive fire extinguishers can be hung in easily accessible places about the house and barn.

Outbreaks of fire can be prevented if a few simple rules are followed. C-I-L Agricultural News points out. Keep basements, attics and outbuildings free of rubbish. Store gasoline and other inflammable do not brow on bushes liquids at a safe distance from main buildings. Provide a safe place to dispose of hot ashes from stove or: furnace. Watch the careless smoker and the child with matches. Be ing a stove fire.
