BANK BORROWINGS UP

Business borrowings at the chartered banks showed an increase of 28 millions in February the first February gain in three years, reports The Financial Post

The increase was attributed in some quarters to borrowing by general trade and industry in preparation for spring operations. In other quarters, activity in oil fields was mentioned as a factor tending to expand the demand for bank credit both directly and indirectly

Among Our Blessings

Charles F Kettering, the American inventor might be described as a man with an open mind. His habit of actually thinking of the things that are going on around him, of what are not going on, has made him a sort of prophet of first principles How the Kettering mind thinks through to the fundamentals of the matter was indicated by a statement made by the inventor a few weeks ago as he prepared to pay his income tax: One of the things we have to be thankful for is that we don't get as much government as we pay for

It is difficult for most of us to realize just how much government we do get, and harder still to realize how much we purchase through our government may be obscure, and one are obvious Government builds roads and schools for us Government hires the policeman, the fireman, the weatherman Government pays the cost of elections and supplies the halls where our elected governors meet To all these matters, of course government is our servant We provide the cash government provides the services However government is not dissociated by the motives that control our private endeavours to satisfy the customer to operate with maximum efficiency to make profit cut costs and put a little money to for another day

Because so much of the money for government is cash we never see, the inclination might be to think that someone else is paying the freight The truth is of course that any Canadian who earns a dollar or spends a dollar is contributing to the cost of government We pay income taxes, real estate taxes, excise taxes, amusement taxes, sales taxes We pay taxes to federal government provincial government municipal government In 1950, to these various taxing authorities, Canadians will pay a total tribute of about three billion dollars For or three billion dollars we will get the roads, the schools the fireman, the policeman the weatherman we will use of a host of controls, entrances and the red tape we all occasionally tangle with

As Kettering has said, it may well be that One of the things we have to be thankful for is that we don't get as much government as we pay for

SCENE OF UTTER DESOLATION GREETS MINISTER'S TRIP WEST

The following impressions of the southern Manitoba flood area are given by Rev Dr A J Wilson, editor of the United Church Observer Dr Wilson was sent to Winnipeg by his paper to bring assurance of help and support and to get a first-hand information as to the situation

I have read the Winnipeg papers and I still feel that the flood scene can only be painted in the words of those who have suffered all the anxiety and loss Yesterday I was in Portage la Prairie and Rev Dr W G Martin Rev R C H Bell and Rev George Bowes of Brandon joined me Mr Jack Sharpe, provincial president A J Hall, provincial treasurer and Stocks of the Department of Indian Affairs in the house of Indian Affairs in Ottawa and I circulated only a few minutes

I was not sure why we were there I could see which Dr P H T Thorlakson and I waited the two water logged for a view from the air I was not prepared mentally or not emotionally I am not ashamed to confess to tears as I looked down from 3000 ft on a scene of utter desolation

The hospitals where medical and nursing staff ministered to thousands of people stood like islands in the flood and all sections of the modern unbelievably Schools stood in safety surrounded by playgrounds under three feet of water, the towers of the little children no longer heard The university from whose halls go out each year the cream of the graduates prepared to study and found to be some two inches under water The most successful and those not modern swimming pool surrounded by water

It was there we learned that as [illegible] as most Hundreds of these whole streets of them under water. Homes that were the pride of the little man, artisan salesman, professional man merchant, not only [illegible] seeking citizens Most of them owned their own homes They sold and were steadily paying off the mortgages

In imagination we could see the [illegible] already [illegible] increasingly with the years and we had seen the shacks this year [illegible] The drive way to and [illegible] was We [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
