Easter Bonnets

Saturday in Toronto we walted for a few minutes as the throngs went passing by in one of the large department atores. Right across the aisle was the men's hat department. We have always had a notion that "selecting the Easter bonnet was a matter for only the ladies to ponder over. All the songs written, are about Easter bonnets and all the fashion notes seem to emphasize that the women hold high the new spring bonnet.

It may seem in the best Easter theme to write about women's spring hats but on Saturday we saw plenty of evidence that men put in some time and thought on the purchase of their Easter bonnet. The clerks were all busy and we never before realized how particular and vain men were in the purchase of headwear. Some of them tried on most every color-and shape in the hat racks. The triple mirrors were used to get the right effect from every angle. Combing of the hair after each try-on was important with one man. Many of them left this counter to go elsewhere before making the decision on an Easter

We wouldn't be surprised any time to see floral and feather creations for the men before next spring. Certainly it's time we quit making light of the feminine shopping for Easter bon-

Holiday from Controls

It's so easy these days to ask governments to make up shortages, give subsidies or make up differences. Where it will end no one knows. For instance we had the federal gasoline tax dropped by government in Ottawa only to-betaken up by the Ontario government. Shortly, we are likely-to witness rent controls being dropped by Ottawa and taken up by Toronto.

We see governments dabbling in wheat, bacon, railways and other lines, and making up deficits out of more taxes. What has been done as war measures, become permanent resolutions. The government interference in housing has not helped provide more homes. Builders have simply let the responsibility go. Unknown to most Canadians is the fact that they paid a cash subsidy of about $11,000,000 last year to give their sugar business to commonwealth countries.

The trouble seems to be that we don't see the cost of subsidies in the articles we buy. But in spite of the subsidies prices have risen in nearly every instance. Latest tax suggested is a retail tax by the various provinces which will also be hidden.

One clear conclusion can be drawn from the conspicuously unfortunate wheat deal with Britain, points out the Calgary Herald. "This deal was achieved by two governments which had invaded the precincts of private trade and insisted that they knew better than private citizens how trade should be conducted: The result is plain for all to see; we hope the farmers and the farm organizations will perceive the moral."

Let's have a holiday from government wartime controls and a holiday from wars that appear now to be a necessary threat to bolster retention of control.

City Inconveniences

Some way or other the city conveniences are losing any glamour they may have had and the city inconveniences are becoming more prominent. Sometimes we wonder if our advancement and great organizations have made life more vulnerable to attack from many sides.

Take, for instance, the city milk strike. Such a thing is not likely in the smaller towns where the dairy owners are the drivers and have full control of their own industry. Back in the days fifty years ago the only milk strike was when the family cow "went dry" and then you got your supply from the neighbour and you supplied him when his dairy was temporarily closed.

In these days of thoughtlessness of our neighbour we may have a curtailment of any service. In fact, in the cities it seems the folks just emerge from one strike to meet up with another inconvenience. Maybe it's the garbage that's threatened or the car fares raised. But the concentration of people just doesn't appear to be working for the peace of mind of city dwellers. Perhaps we should view with alarm any growth of our own communities which will require such a complex and extensive organization as that in the cities where each group considers its problems only in the light of its own interests and without regard to a neighbour.

We don't say it can't happen here, but we do sey that Board and regulations of city minded folks are not giving a good example. The sooner we get away from government control of products the better it will be for all. The Milk Board has proved its uselessness in the city and towns would be better off if freed from its regulations. Dissolution of so many government agencies would release a lot of manpower for practical

Unnecessary Delay

Continued dissatisfaction is evident at the unnecessary delay in completing the county assessment. This was evident again last week in the appeal of Esquesing Township against its levy for high school purposes and what the township appeal brought out is an underlying sentiment throughout the county.

-Some relief was given the townships lastyear in high school levy, but according to a ruling given by the Municipal Board in a similar case it is pointed out that the only basis for High School District levies is on the equalized assessment figures of the county.

We believe Esquesing and Nassagaweya are justified in their complaint on the levy, but the only way in which it can be settled is by completion of the county assessment. Certainly Acton and Milton are not retarding this work as their new_assessment has been in use for two years. There is no excuse for other municipalities delaying the work further and provoking the contentious question. To be big municipalities have to show their greatness in many ways besides population figures. If the work cannot be completed throughout the county by those presently in charge, it's certainly time for a change.

Effort, Not Magic

No one will dispute the fact that industries in small towns give a measure of stability to the community. They provide employment for boys and girls who have received their education in the district; they support families who, in turn, pay taxes and support local business enterprise.

Our town has already several industries Kirkwood, Sr., Erin and sister of courtesy, at their regular meeting which have been so successful in helping develop the community and provide employment that it is apparent that more are needed here.,

People of this community, however, cannot sit back and expect industries to spring up of their own accord as if by magic. Nor can they expect governments or outside firms to do what must be done if more industries are to be located in our town.

We must be prepared to help ourselves to industries. It should not be left to Chambers of Commerce or Councils alone. It's the job of every

A good example of community effort in developing local industry is the achievement of Altona, a small town in Manitoba. There, through co-operative effort, has been established a vegetable oil refinery which last year produced oil and other products valued at well over a million dollars. The oil is used in margarine and shortening and in a cooking and salad oil which is now being marketed nationally. It is produced from sunflower seeds grown by the farmers in an extensive surrounding district.

This industry puts a good deal of cash into the pockets of the farmers of the community; it maintains a large payroll. It was established be cause a few farmers and business men had Electrician Malitz will appreciate ports The Financial Post. There has been much talk of the need for new industries but, as Mark Twain said about the visit neighbouring friends. weather, "no one does anything about it".

If we are to have new industries, there is no use waiting for outsiders to come in and establish them for us. If that is what we want, we may have a long, long wait.

Women seem to be thrilled at the prospect of being given the privilege of serving on juries. Seems to us like a mean trick. Most man don't consider it any privilege to be called for jury duty. As usual, there's a way out for the women. The service on juries for them is not compulsory.

There will be many new car models for next year, unless something drastic happens to upset the apple cart, The Financial, Post hears. Most of the leading makers are planning changes some of which promise to be more extensive than anything seen since the beginning of the postwar models.
