Most Water Skill In Shark Category

Reports are received that the five day a week camping program operated by the "Y" is proving very successful. All the 12 boys who attended the first session were eager to return last Monday for the second and last week of the boys camp period.

With excellent weather prevailing most of the time, swimming is one of the most popular activities, at least three times each day. All campers are classified into one of five classifications, these being: Fryer, Pollywog, Minnow, Shark and Swordfish. The first four are distance swimming tests while the last calls for a wide variety of water skills.

Those obtaining their shark award so far are Bob Armstrong, Harry McFadden, Gary McFadden, George Smethurst and Gary Dawkins, while the last two are well on their way to earning their swordfish badge.

Handicrafts are another popular activity with plaster moulding, leather and woodcraft being taught. Leather thonging and moccasin making are on the agenda for latter this week.

Every evening a large campfire is built and a program of fun and fellowship featured. Two watermelon feeds and a corn popping night have been special features with the watermelons donated by Fred Wright. An afternoon and an overnight hike have been other special events.

Open fire cooking is the method employed and with very little advice from the camp staff, appetizing full course meals are prepared.

A raft is a popular spot for swimmers and their constant supervisors.

Program, food and grounds committees comprised of three or four campers are each sharing jobs and making plans.

While skies have been clear during the day, evening rains have interrupted the planned camp fires with their program of songs, skits, stories, etc.

On Monday morning a larger girls camp is expected to get underway which will terminate on July 27.
