Leno Marzo's team earned the right to meet Gord Cunningham's league leaders in the final round of the junior section of the town league by edging Ray Mason's club 4-3 in a thriller on Tuesday night.

First game of the series ended in a tie. In the other game, Cunningham's crew whitewashed a battling Marzo's team 3-0 to win the round by two goals in the total point series. The Marzo club came from behind to tie the score up and score the winning goal with only four minutes to play. Although they couldn't finish the schedule any better than last, Leno's team now hope to tumble the league leading Cunningham team and wrap up the crown.

Ernie Mark's team won the first game 3-2 but was outscored on the round 5-3.

Injury Climaxes Fights, Penalties In a game sparked with penalties and freekickered with a fight and five stitches, Baxter Labmen outscored Norval 6-2 in the regular weekly session of hockey in Georgetown arena. After a lot of discussion and controversy about refereeing, the pair judging Monday's game, Beaumont of Georgetown and Masters of Acton, outdid themselves in spotting and handed out numerous penalties. In a second period clash, a Norval player took it on himself to comb Ab Robinson's hair necessitating five stitches. Robinson left the ice for attention and the Norvalite was given a penalty. Scoring schedule reads: Don Timmins from Stewart; Masters from Anderson and Zajar; Stewart from Somerville; Robinson from Adamson; Somerville from Timmins and Somerville from Stewart and Robinson.

Acton: High School News By Carolyn Oakes The school party was held in the gym on Friday night. With the unexpected snowfall, we could have had a sleighing party, but as it was, these plans were called off. It was impossible to rent the arena for a skating party Friday night, so it ended up by being a dancing party. Card tables were set up downstairs and the early arrivals soon claimed tables to start euchre games. At ten o'clock, a few who had been dancing upstairs, begged the card players to join them. The group soon moved upstairs to get some real lively square dances started. Mr. Heron called off and everyone was sure kept on their toes. Mr. Robbins took part and before long, became the star square dancer in his set. Russell Arbie then played some round dancing records while the gang cooled down. Soon the dancing was broken up with the call that lunch was being served downstairs. Frances Oakes and Elaine Hufnagel helped Audrey Wilkinson to prepare a lunch of hot chocolate and doughnuts. After lunch Mr. Hansen and his wife joined in the square dancing when a Virginia Reel was played. Mr. Heron didn't have to call off for this so he got into the lively dance with his lady friend. On Saturday morning, when a few students returned to clean up, there was no lunch left for them to clean up but there were lots of dirty dishes. Don Dawkins was disappointed when none of the boys he had asked for help turned up on Saturday morning. Last Wednesday, the rugby team, lost to Port Credit by a score of 28-15. The team seems to think they could do better in their own gym. This Tuesday night the Grade 13 class are going to see the play "Pygmalion" put on by the Kitchener Little Theatre. There are two carloads going. This is a George B Shaw play which is on the Grade 13 English Literature course.

Acton: Slickers Downed By Baxter Labs 8-3 Acton's Baxter Laboratories' hockey team put their town pressure on a team of city slickers, the East End Capitols from Toronto in a game played last Friday evening in Acton Arena. Final score was 8-3 for the locals. The Capitols were, according to report, the best team played by the Baxter aggregation yet this year. Only disappointing aspect of the game was the turn-out in the arena, which was quite small. Without the shouting and applause and peanut eating and smoke of many hockey games, both teams nevertheless racked up good performances.

POUNDRING THE SPORTS BEAT with A. Vengeance

Contrary to what anyone may have told you, Boaster Night is definitely being held tonight (Thursday). Out of respect to the king, whose funeral is on Friday, the committee decided to move the night a day ahead. Arrangements for the new date are complete and the night is going ahead as scheduled with the feature attraction of the hockey game between the 1030-Int-champions and old stars from further back in Acton's hockey past.

The whole shebang is due to start at 7:30 with the minor teams, playing brief games first. Ice prospects are good and if a crowd shows up it should be quite an evening. All proceeds of the event go to further Minor Sport in Acton. Admission price is only 35¢ and all the school kids get in free. Advance ticket sale has been good so you'd better get there early to ensure yourself a seat.

Down in Georgetown, they're all talking about the antics of Clayton "Dude" Lindsay who is lined up on defense for the Raiders. "Dude" is such an attraction that rumours are abroad he is thinking of asking for a part of the gate receipts since his august presence is "just drawn" them in. Wednesday night Clayton fired the first of five goals as the Raiders spanked Bridgeport 5-2 right in Waterloo. And "Dude" is just getting warmed up!

Milton Co-ops still aren't doing too well in their group. They lost their third straight game last night as they, bowled to Burlington 8-7. Oakville defeated them earlier in the week and the lowly Woodbridge club took their measure last week. Injuries are plaguing the Co-ops and making it difficult to get any sort of combination play going. Harold Townsley is a consistent sniper for the Milton team. He usually manages to pot a goal or two a game.

AUTO - biographies of ACTON PEOPLE AND ACTON PLACES THROUGH MANY YEARS Let me mention a few of the buildings that have been on this busy Mill St. and what now graces these sites. There was Acton's first bakery that stood near where the Beardmore apartments are on the corner of Park Ave. It was conducted by William Hannah, who afterwards occupied the building on the Acton property (now owned by Tony Sweeney) opposite Modern Plumbing and Heating Store. The Salvation Army barracks followed on the Park Ave. bakery site, built by Hugh Ryder in the palmy days of that worthy body and when he was an active member. Some years later Henry Grindell bought the property for a machine shop. It was destroyed by fire and he then erected the present brick shop in use as a blacksmith and machine shop until its recent conversion to modern apartments. It was here one of the first gasoline engines to be operated in Acton was put into use, replacing the steam engine to operate the machine shop. (To be Continued) '37 Chrysler, $250.00.
