Cut Flower Can Be Kept Longer

Here are some tips from Dr. A. P. Chan, Chief of the greenhouses at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, on how to prolong the life of cut flowers.

When buying flowers ask for some flower preservative. This can be supplied by most good florists. Used according to directions it will increase the life of the flowers. It does this by slowing down the bacterial growth in the water which clogs up the stems and prevents the flowers from getting sufficient moisture. And as it also prevents slime from forming, frequent changes of water are unnecessary—just add more.

Cut the stems of flowers at a slant to provide a wide, fresh entrance for the water to penetrate. If the flowers have a big woody stem, smash the end of the stem up for about two inches to allow for a freer intake of water. If flowers are wilted or show signs of wilting soon after arrival, they can be revived by cutting the stem ends and immersing the flowers right up to, but not covering the blooms, and placing them in a cool dark location for six to twelve hours.

Cut flowers are susceptible to drafts and excessive heat and will last longer if these conditions can be avoided. Close to windows and immediately above hot water pipes or hot air registers are not suitable places for flowers. Actually the average living or dining-room is generally too warm and it is always advisable to move flowers at night to the coolest place in the house. Forty degrees is ideal, but even ten degrees lower than ordinary room temperature would be beneficial.

Mac MacDonald Dies In 82nd Year

Resident of Acton for over forty years, Malcolm (Mac) MacDonald passed away suddenly at his home R.R. 2 Guelph, on No. 7 Highway, on Tuesday March 18th. He was in his 82nd year.

He was the last surviving member of a family of six. Eight years ago he retired to his present home on No. 7 Highway between Rockwood and Guelph.

He was a fine gardener and a lover of flowers and his garden in Acton and elsewhere was always a delight to him and many friends who shared it with him.

He is survived by his wife who was, before marriage Jennie McGibbon and one daughter, Mrs. Alex Puzey, of Guelph. Mr. MacDonald was a member of the Presbyterian Church and the funeral service in Acton on Tuesday afternoon was conducted by Rev. Mr. Williamson. Many friends attended the service and many floral tributes also conveyed respect and esteem for the deceased. Pallbearers were Messrs. Alvin, Frank and Wilfred MacDonald, Sam Paul, Wm. Beavers and Dan McGibbon.
