BUBBLE BATH FOAM SETTLES ON TANKS AFTER MONDAY'S WASH

RECENTLY COMPLETED AND NOW IN OPERATION is the Acton Sewage Disposal. Plant seen here at the third line site. The picture was taken on Tuesday morning just after wash day and the tanks were covered with what we hastily defined as soap from the Monday wash day. We can't be sure it is, but if you look closely, you'll probably agree with us. At any rate the foam was in true bubble bath style. | system is the finest in the province of Ontario.

Citizens have been urged to connect to the sewage system as quickly as possible since it will operate more efficiently with a heavier flow of sewage. To date more than 300 permits have been issued for the connection to the system but all these Installations have not necessarily been made. It is reported Acton's sewerage

Citizens, Council, Board Near Settlement On Lot H

Council met, with representatives of the Planning Board, E. E. Barr, T. Seynuck, K. M. Langdon and E. Sneyd, Monday evening on the "mysterious" Lot II located on Mill St. cast between Mr. Barr's property and his westerly neighbor. It was thought that Lot II was originally laid out for the continuation of George St. and steps had been taken to ultimately open the lot as a street but were unsuccessful. All parties were agreeable to having it as a street and at the conclusion of the meeting, after much negotiating, a resolution was passed that "providing T. Seynuck, E. E. Barr, K. M. Langdon and E.
