County Executive Named by Teachers

Public school teachers from town and district attended the annual convention of the Halton County Teachers' Institute held at Buffalo, N.Y. on Monday, October 27.

Through the courtesy of the superintendent and inspectors and of the staff of the Buffalo schools, the teachers of Halton were permitted to visit schools of the city during the morning. The afternoon was spent in the Buffalo Museum-Hall of Science.

Following a noon hour dinner served in the cafeteria of the Museum, the teachers assembled in the auditorium for a short business meeting. W. L. Fulford, president of Halton Teachers' Institute, extended a welcome to all the teachers, especially the new teachers in the county. Miss Lillian A. Wilcox, deputy superintendent of education for the city of Buffalo, extended a welcome to the Halton teachers and brought greetings from the Buffalo Board of Education, inspectors and teachers of the city.

Assistant Inspector R. F. Bornhold of Milton thanked Miss Wilcox for the warm welcome and extended thanks to the Buffalo Board of Education for their hospitality. Dr. Fred Hall, director of the museum, gave a general outline address before the assembly was divided into groups for a tour of the museum. Guides in the various rooms gave interesting and instructive talks to these smaller groups.

Through the friendliness and courtesy of the American teachers and through the careful planning and untiring efforts of Inspector L. L. Skuce, the teachers enjoyed a successful convention.

WOOD-ANDERSON MARRIAGE SOLEMNIZED AT ST. MATTHEW'S, HAMILTON

Six attendants preceded Lorraine May Anderson down the aisle of St. Matthew's Anglican Church in Hamilton when, on October 25th, she was married to Arthur Frederick Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wood of Hamilton. Rev. T. J. Hooton of Hamilton conducted the marriage; the church was decorated for the occasion with baskets of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson of Guelph, and formerly of Acton, chose a formal gown of white satin and imported lace with a Cathedral train. A cornet of seed pearls held her veil of tulle illusion and lace, which fell the length of her train.

She carried a cascade of cream roses with white satin ribbons. Mrs. Ken Allen of Georgetown was matron of honor, wearing a pale green floor length gown of French lace and net over taffeta. She wore a lace and taffeta hat and net gloves, and carried a cascade of yellow roses.

The two senior bridesmaids were Mrs. D. Duckett of Hamilton, a sister of the bride and Mrs. J. Shields of Hamilton, a sister of the groom. Mrs. Duckett wore pale pink nylon net over taffeta and carried a cascade of pink roses with pink net; Mrs. Shields wore a similar dress of pale blue with a cascade of coral roses and blue net. Both wore matching flower head-dresses and net gloves.

Wearing pale yellow nylon net over nylon taffeta with floral head-dresses, net gloves, and bouquets of pink roses were the junior bridesmaids, Miss Faye Hill and Miss Dawn Toohey of Hamilton.

Niece of the bride, Miss Trudy Speer of Acton, was flower girl, wearing a floor length gown of pale green nylon net over taffeta. She wore a white flower head-dress and carried a small nosegay of yellow roses and tiny mums.

Groomsman was Jack Wood of Hamilton, brother of the groom, and ushers were Don Duckett and Jack Shields of Hamilton.

At the organ was Miss Linda Stewart of Hamilton, formerly of Acton; the soloist, Miss Helen Lewinski of Stoney Creek, sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The Winona Legion Hall was decorated with pink and white streamers for the reception, with bouquets of white mums and red snapdragons. The bride's table was centred with pink, white and silver three-tiered wedding cake.

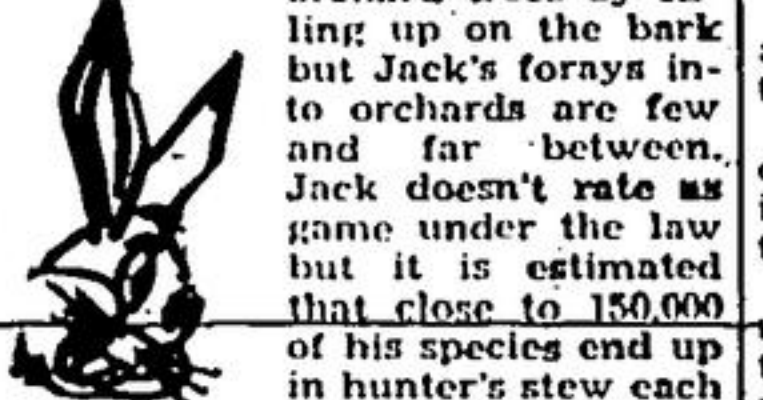

Mrs. Anderson received the guests there wearing navy blue sheer with grey accessories; she was assisted by Mrs. Wood, who had chosen powder blue with black accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses.

Guests attended the wedding from Georgetown, Stoney Creek, Bracebridge, London, Guelph, Orillia, Hamilton and Acton.

Leaving with her husband on their wedding trip to Buffalo, New York, the bride chose a gray suit with navy accessories. Tiny red rose buds formed her corsage. The couple lived in Hamilton.

POUNDING THE SPORTS BEAT
with A. Vengeance

JOHN RABBIT is a big, likeable fellow who isn't likely to do anybody harm unless the winter snowfall is unusually heavy and he's unable to get at the grass and other vegetation he usually lives on. In those circumstances he may damage orchard trees by filling up on the bark.

Jack doesn't rate as game under the law but it is estimated that close to 100,000 of his species end up in hunter's stew each year. You see, the jack rabbit is not really a rabbit at all. Proper name for him is the European hare.

They are much larger, more agile and differ in many ways from the cottontail, the true rabbit of Southern Ontario. True rabbits build nests and the young are naked, blind and helpless for the first nine days after birth. Baby "jacks", however, are completely furred and have eyes open at birth. Ma has no nest but deposits her babies in a furrow or scooped out depression, that is unless she just doesn't give a darn, and then she just scatters them here and there.

Back in 1911 there were no jack rabbits in Ontario. Today, there are millions on a range extending from Essex county in the west to Kingston on the east. They extend up as far as the lower end of the Laurentian shield above Lake Simcoe.

A couple of Danish immigrants who missed their week-end sport of chasing John rabbits for the first time, Jacks with the idea of breeding a good supply for weekly hunts. But John didn't like the cages in which he was cooped on a farm near Brantford. He escaped along with seven females and another male. Being a prolific breeder, the jacks soon made up in quantity what they lacked in quality.

In fact, if reports by hunters are true, it wouldn't be at all surprising if John doesn't turn up in a can as "Chicken a la King." Buyers follow hunting parties and beseege them with offers for carcasses claiming they want them for mink feed but mink ranchers can get other meat much cheaper. No doubt the buyers have a much more lucrative market.

When Milton came to Acton for our final rugby game Monday, hope that our team could win was practically nil. However, they played a wonderful game and deserve a lot of credit for their effort. The final score was 26-17.

The team party is being planned and, according to latest reports, will be held Saturday night at the Y.

Given Permission To Use New School

Fred Gordon and Marjory Warne, representing the Acton high school's student council, were present at the regular meeting of the public school board Tuesday evening to request permission to use the general purpose room, kitchen and washrooms for two evenings in January.

The board was pleased to comply, stipulating that there be no smoking, no decorations and full adult supervision. There was no charge, but a consideration for caretaking. Chairman F. G. Onkes presided at the meeting with a full board of trustees present.

The property committee was requested to correct the blackboards in the room in which Mrs. Little teaches.

Until Tom Gordon can make the necessary chair-trucks for storing the general purpose room chairs, it was arranged that the chairs be stored in the annex.

Resolutions for supplies and books were approved. Principal G. McKenzie reported that the parents' night would be held on November 24.

The secretary was instructed to pay the town of Acton $6,356.80, legislative grant received on the first debenture; payment of principal and interest. The receipt of the balance of the grant, $502.88, was reported, and also of $80 non-resident fees; and $36 non-resident fees of nine Dublin area pupils.

The board congratulated trustee J. H. Creighton on his excellent craftsmanship on the four signs he made for the new school.

Financial statement of $1341.00 was presented and payment authorized. The secretary was directed to assess the North Halton High School District Board $245.31 October plant operation.
