

WEARS LACE DUSTER OVER STRAPLESS GOWN

White gladioli and mums were placed in the chancel of Westminster United Church, Orangeville, for the marriage of Marion Elizabeth Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Lea Wilson of Orangeville, and Wesley Donald Storey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Storey of R.R. 4, Acton.

Rev. Ronald Arkwright officiated for the four o'clock ceremony on September 26.

R. T. Fines, Orangeville, the bride's uncle, gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was in white nylon net over taffeta with a strapless lace top. Over this she wore a floor-length duster coat of Queen Anne lace, which featured a mandarin collar and long sleeves. A cap of embroidered lace and seed pearls held her veil of silk illusion, which was edged with lace. Her cascade bouquet was of red roses.

Strapless gowns of nylon net over taffeta with lace boleros were worn by the attendants. The maid of honor, Miss Shirley Roberts, Orangeville, wore yellow with a semi-cascade of bronze mums. Miss Helen Snider of Orangeville as bridesmaid wore blue with pink mums; bridesmaid Miss Joyce Hooley of Orangeville carried yellow mums against mauve. All wore matching flower headresses.

Groomsman was Harry Cannons of Brampton, brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Bruce Storey Acton and Murray Hunter, Orangeville.

Wedding music was played by Miss Edith White. The Lord's Prayer and "Because" were sung by Mrs. Arnold Patterson.

The church parlors were the setting for the reception which followed, when the bride's mother received wearing a gown of blue crepe with lace, navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted, wearing powder blue corded taffeta with navy accessories and pink roses.

Guests were present from Barrie, Toronto, Brampton, Acton, Bellefountain, Guelph and Grand Valley as well as Orangeville.

Leaving, the bride chose to wear a grey suit with navy accessories. Over this was a full-length violet coat. Her corsage was of red carnations.

TEDDER-RYAN NUPTIALS IN TORONTO CHURCH

The wedding took place in St. Barnabas' Anglican Church, Toronto. Rev. Roland Hill officiating, of Sylvia May Ryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ryan, formerly of Acton, and John Albert Tedder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Tedder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a strapless gown of white satin and lace with a long-sleeved flower-embroidered jacket. Her fingertip veil was held by a tiara. She carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Margaret Prior was maid of honor in a strapless gown of mauve satin with matching bolero jacket and shoulder-length veil. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

George D. Draper was best man. Ushers were Franklin Prior and William Langford.

Receiving, the bride's mother wore a light blue flowered lace dress, while the groom's mother assisted in a pink lace gown. Both wore navy accessories and corsages of white carnations.

Friends, if you ever intend visiting, for the first time, someone who lives in a new sub-division, let me advise you to find out the exact location of the house, otherwise you may find yourself on the same sort of wild goose-chase some friends and I experienced a few weeks ago when I was in Ottawa.

The postal address of the person I wanted to call on was Quarries P.O.—no street, no house name or number—so I naturally concluded that once Quarries was located the rest would be easy. I couldn't have made a bigger mistake. We found Quarries without any trouble—east of Ottawa. We also found new sub-divisions—plenty of them. We wandered up one road and down the next.

We stopped to inquire from at least a dozen persons, "did anyone know where Mrs. F. lived?" Nobody did. I remembered the description of the house in her last letter—"a nice little five-roomed bungalow about two years old." But that description suited scores and scores of other houses that we passed. And the roads, streets, or whatever they call them—one was exactly like another, all the same length and width, with front lawns and cement walks leading to almost identical bungalows or cottages, the only noticeable difference being in the color of the roof and possibly the front door.

No doubt the inside of the houses showed a little more individuality but from the outside any person might be excused if he didn't recognize his own dwelling and walked into the wrong house by mistake. In fact, I know a man who did just that and was quite surprised when a woman who wasn't his wife came forward to greet him. Just to keep the record straight, I might add this man was a total abstainer!

Well, to cut a long story short, we never did find Mrs. F., and then, as luck would have it, Mrs. F. called here one day last week—and I was in Toronto. I might add she didn't have any trouble in locating us—you don't often find two farm houses that look exactly alike. Even if the architecture is similar, the setting of one house is generally completely different from another—even though farm folk have not as yet taken to painting their front doors either pink or yellow. But of course that time may come when you never can tell. Especially if one had paint that needed using up—the cost of paint being quite a consideration in these old houses. For instance, our dining room is 18 feet square, one bedroom and the living room 18 x 20. Buying paper and paint for rooms that size really runs into money.

Well, our bride and groom have returned from their honeymoon to Vancouver Island and have set up housekeeping in Oakville—far enough away to be completely on their own but near enough so that we can see them quite frequently. They were in for supper tonight so now, with a married daughter and a married son, we really feel we have a family.

Family... wait until I tell you of our other family! We have imported two little kittens. I was supposed to bring one home for Daughter but when I saw the two together, I hadn't the heart to part them so I brought them both home with me. Tippy and Honey just love them but Michie-White uses all the swear words in his cat vocabulary and the kittens reply in kind. Tonight we really had quite a picnic. Two dogs, two cats and two kittens all in the house at the same time and all wanting to be fed. I looked after the dogs first and put their dishes out in the woodshed. Then I shut off the kittens in the sunroom and fed the cats in the kitchen. When they were through I put them outside and let the kittens in. Truly there is never a dull moment around this house.

We also have new stock at the barn—our first heifer calf arrived last week and we bought sixty laying pullets—after selling our moulting hens. The pullets are hybrids, Rock and Hampshire crossed. Nice, quiet, contented little biddies—or so we thought until we found five of them running around in the lane. The main window frames in the porch have wire screening but another window higher up as unprotected. The pullets found it and spread their wings in search of liberty. Partner called me for help just as I was getting dinner. We managed to run the pullets into the cow-stable and eventually caught them—but believe me, it took longer to do than it does to write it. Potatoes for dinner that day were over-cooked and unsalted.

We wonder... is the lack of interest on the part of farmers themselves responsible for many of their problems remaining unsolved? Recently Partner was out to a meeting in regard to the marketing of certain dairy products. There was the president and secretary and three other farmers, including Partner! A banquet was suggested to bring the men out and increase their interest. Interest in the problems to be discussed or interest in being fed? Again we wonder.

NO MODEL
Two friends were discussing their automobile troubles. "What model is your car?" asked one. "It isn't a model," retorted the other. "It's a horrible example!"
