Farm Co-operation Debated in Ontario

498 forums throughout Ontario discussed the topic "Partners All" on Monday evening. November 9. In answer to the question, What should co-operation between a farmer and his wife include?" the forums were almost unanimous in their opinion that co-operation should include planning farm business, planning farm expenditures and helping with outside work to a limited degree. 50% of the forums thought co-operation should farm. 25% agreed that a legal will was very important to the farm family. The forums also thought that co-operation between a farmer and his wife might include a in their cheerfully painted flower- bank account for the wife, joint accounts and extra income for the wife from a fixed source.

> "Our forum agreed that women should and do take an interest in farm planning. Large expenditures should be talked over and planned together. The farmer and his wife should plan so they both have the things necessary to greatly enjoyed by all. do their work in the most convenient way. There is nothing like a happy home, where everyone cooperates and plans and works together. We agreed that the wife should help outside when necessary, if she is able and willing, but should have a will." Zorra Brain Trust of Oxford County.
