Acton High School News

By Nell Denton

Mr. Robbins has been ill for the past few days with the flu. Mrs. A. J. Buchanan has been doing an excellent job of filling in for him. We hope his recovery will be speedy.

An excellent film was shown to the student body on Tuesday morning. It dealt with the Grey Cup game of last fall in Toronto—a cheap way of seeing the game! It was a good picture and everything was filmed well, including the cheer leaders.

The examinations are one week off and many of us are going around the school showing the first signs of insanity, which include talking to one's self.

There will be no news from the "Halls of A.H.S." for the next two weeks as yours truly will be doing his part in writing the aforementioned examinations.

PARDON MY PARKA
by Joan Walker

An English newspaperwoman who had never made her own bed, washed her own hair or boiled her own egg, married a Canadian, and, full of bridal optimism, came to live in Val d'Or, Quebec.

You can imagine some of the surprises and shocks waiting in the mthng town, but you have to read Pardon My Parka to realize the fun Joan Walker found in her troubles.

We have heard local ladies mention the book after reading it—serIALIZED, we think—in one of the women's magazines. They were all delighted by the story, although they thought Mrs. Walker was a little hard on Val d'Or and Kirkland Lake. However it's a certain amount of exaggeration that makes the author's experiences as funny as they are.

Now's the chance for the ladies who missed the story to catch up, since Pardon My Parka is one of the newer books in the library. Men will enjoy it, too; we heard one chuckling over the episode where the English bride goes fishing in the northern bush—in shorts and short sleeved blouse. "Mosquitoes never bite me," she assured her husband.

You can guess what the mosquitoes thought.

Mrs. Walker, by the way, writes book reviews for the Globe and Mail, radio programs and short stories these days.

CAMPBELLVILLE
