Established in 1868, Storey Glove Co. Ceases Operations; Will Sell Stock

One of Acton's oldest industries, the Storey Glove Co., estabhere in 1868, has been closed, president R. R. Arnold revealed today.

In explaining the decision to cease operations Mr. Arnold pointed out that the stock would be sold in the company and it would probably take two or three months to wind it up. While there is some possibility that the building might he sold as a glove factory, it is also possible it might be sold for light industry.

Reporting he had been with the firm for 40 years, Mr. Arnold explained it had been a pleasure to be associated with the firm during those years.
