Plowmen From Across Canada Compete In Breslau Where 150,000 are Expected

Expert tractor plowmen from major agricultural areas across Canada will compete in Ontario early next month for Canada's most coveted plowing trophy, the Esso Silver Plow, emblematic of the tractor plowing championship of Canada. The champion and runner-up will travel to Sweden in 1955 to compete for the world plowing championship.

Competition in this class will be the high point of the 41st annual International Plowing Match, to be held for four days beginning October 12 at Breslau, near Kitchener, Ont. This year's match is expected to attract even more plowmen than the 700 who competed in various events last year and arrangements are underway to accommodate more than 150,000 spectators.

The Ontario Plowmen's Association, sponsors of the match, have already received entries from British Columbia and Manitoba; and they expect competition for the Esso Silver Plow, which is provided by Imperial Oil Ltd., to come also from teams representing Ontario, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Quebec. Each province is allowed to enter a two man team.

Crown New Champion
This year's Canadian championship will automatically mean the crowning of a new champion, since 1953 Canadian champion Robert Timbers, 27, of Stouffville, Ont., will be in Killarney, Eire, competing in the 1954 world championship as a team mate of James Eccles, 34, of Brampton, Ont., who won the world championship last year at Cobourg, Ont.

The youngest plowman ever to compete in the Canadian championship will be a Manitoban representative at the Kitchener match. He is 14 year old Gerald Lytle of High Bluff, Man., who became western Canada plowing champion at Portage la Prairie, Man., last June. His team mate will be A. Webbski, British Columbia challenger will be Henry Thomson and Don Hickman of Chilliwack.

Interest is also mounting in the Esso class competition, in which gold medals go to champions in both tractor and horse plowing and silver medals go to reserve champions. As part of their prize, the two gold medalists and team manager will make a trip as guests of Imperial Oil to another part of Canada, at a time to be decided by plowing authorities.

Last year's Esso class winners, Joe Tran of Claremont, Ont., and Harold Nixon of Hagersville, Ont., tractor and horse plowmen respectively travelled to Portage la Prairie, Man., last June, and took part in plowing competition there.
