Hespeler Wedding Of Local Interest

The United church, Hespeler, was decorated with gladioli, Saturday, September 11, for the wedding of Irene Isabelle Holm and Harvey Edward Dennis. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holm, R.R. 1, Hespeler and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Dennis of Campbellville.

Rev. M. G. McFarlane officiated at the ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Bleich and the soloist was Robert Rendall, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and because during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a white floor length gown with slim fitted bodice, yoke and collar of Chantilly lace, with long pointed sleeves of lace. The bouffant skirt featured insertions of lace and tulle over satin. Her fingertip veil was caught to a bridal crown and she carried a bouquet of red roses and fern.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dennis plan to make their home in Milton.

Fountain-Barnaby Nuptials In Guelph

Bouquets of pastel shaded gladioli were placed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Guelph, for the September 11 wedding of Mary Lillian Barnaby and George Edwin Fountain. Rev. K. McMillan officiated at the four o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walter Barnaby of Guelph and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fountain of Everton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white tulle with French lace at the throat and sleeves. Her fingertip veil was held by a headpiece of white flowers. She carried a cascade of red roses.

Her two attendants, Miss Alice Fountain, Everton, sister of the groom, and Miss Catharine Barnaby, Guelph sister of the bride, wore floor length gowns which featured scalloped necklines. Miss Fountain wore rose taffeta and Miss Barnaby green taffeta. Both carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Groomsman was John Swingle, Toronto, cousin of the bride, and ushers were Tom Fountain, Everton, brother of the groom, and Kenneth Bennett, London, cousin of the bride.

Kenneth Harrison, Georgetown, was organist, and accompanied Mrs. Carman Don, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

A reception was held at the home of the bride in Guelph following the ceremony for guests from London, Sudbury, Toronto, Alliston, Oakwood, Hamilton, Baden, Brantford, Everton, Guelph and Moorefield.

Receiving the guests, the mothers of both the bride and groom chose seasonal dark dresses and hats.

Leaving with her husband for a wedding trip to Montreal, the bride wore a rust suit with green hat, purse and gloves. They are residing in Guelph.

McIntyre-Brown Wedding In Knox

In Knox Presbyterian church on Saturday, September 18, Margaret Brown and Lloyd Roy McIntyre were married. The bride is the daughter of Mr. O. R. Brown of Acton and groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McIntyre of R.R. 1, Acton. Rev. R. H. Armstrong performed the late afternoon marriage in a setting of gladioli and fern.

The wedding music was played by Ted Hansen and Miss Yvonne Brunelle sang "O Promise Me and I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white strapless ballroom length gown. The bodice was of nylon lace and the bouffant skirts featured lace insertions. This was topped by a fingertip jacket of lace. A Juliet cap of lace and satin held her fingertip length veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of red roses with ivy.

In contrast, the bride's five attendants wore gowns of flamingo and blue.

Miss Glenice Robertson, Acton, Miss June Drysdale, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary McIntyre, sister of the groom, wore ballroom length gowns of flamingo nylon net with matching mitts and headpieces fashioned of flamingo feathers. They carried white mums.

Two flower girls, cousins of the bride, were Miss Nancy Hudson, Weston, and Miss Audrey Brown, Milton. Both wore short blue gowns of ruffled nylon net and carried baskets of yellow rosebuds and baby mums.

Donald McIntyre, brother of the groom, was best man and ushers were Douglas Thomson, Acton, and Calvin McIntyre, brother of the groom.

The church basement was decorated with pink and white streamers for the reception, which was attended by guests from Weston, Milton, Georgetown, Erin, Campbellville, Braintree, St. Catharines, Moffat, Guelph, Burlington, Acton and Rockwood. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in pink and white, was encircled by white tulle centering the bride's table.

The couple took a wedding trip to Cleveland for travelling. The bride wore a knitted suit of flamingo with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Ramsay-Steffler Wedding In Guelph

Elaine Mary Steffler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Steffler, Guelph, became the bride of Lloyd Alton Ramsay, son of Mrs. Alex Ramsay of R.R. 1, Moffat, and the late Mr. Ramsay, at a ceremony in the rectory of the Church of Our Lady in Guelph.

In a setting of mixed gladioli Dr. J. A. O'Reilly officiated at the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white strapless cocktail length nylon net with tulle and a bodice of marquisette lace and a bouffant gown of nylon tulle over satin. Her fingertip veil of illusion and lace fell from a tiara studded with rhinestones. She carried a spray of red roses and stephanotis.

Three cousins of the groom were attendants. Mrs. Robert Rogers, matron of honor, and Marilyn Woods, bridesmaid, wore identical waltz length gowns of sky blue and blossom pink nylon tulle over taffeta. Over the strapless bodices they wore stole jackets. Tiaras studded with rhinestones and mittens to match completed their ensemble. They carried spray bouquets of pink and yellow carnations and white mums.

Sharon Bradley was flower girl, wearing turquoise taffeta and net and a half-hat of pleated taffeta. She carried a basket of pink roses and baby mums.

George Louth, Campbellford, was his brother's groomsman. Herbert Woods, Acton, and Kenneth Darch, Brampton, were ushers.

Mrs. Frank Gibbons, Rockwood, assisted Mrs. Louth in receiving guests. Mrs. Louth wore a shrimp coloured afternoon dress, navy hat and accessories. Mrs. Gibbons wore winter orchid bengaline and a small hat of gold feathers and rhinestones. They wore corsages of yellow roses.

Mrs. G. Woods, Acton, the groom's grandmother was an honored guest, wearing a taupe colored gown of crepe and french lace black velvet accessories and pink rose corsage.

The reception was held in the Sunday School room at the church in Georgetown. Mr. and Mrs. Louth are living in Georgetown.

Chronicles of Ginger Farm

Written Specially for the Acton Free Press by Gwendoline F. Clarke

It is often said there should be a good dog on every farm. With that we agree. A well-trained dog is invaluable. A good cattle dog is also generally a good house dog too. Our Tippy is just that sort of dog. Remember I told you a few weeks back how she came to the rescue when Partner was dealing with a strange bull. And of course no one could visit the house or the barn without Tippy giving us fair warning. That's fine for the average visitor but when the caller happens to be afraid of dogs and there is no one around, that's a different story.

Last Sunday was the Harvest Festival at our church. After supper I went down to the evening service but Partner went out to milk his cows. (Those cows interfere with so many things we should like to do together.) About seven forty-five visitors arrived. The Man at the Wheel was going on to make another call while his wife and daughter visited with me. I was nearly up to the house when Tippy came on the run from the washhouse, barking furiously.

I hurriedly wedged herself between the screen-door and the inside door, knocking with repeated urgency. But of course there was no one to answer the door except Honey Honey, hearing Tippy barking outside decided she might as well do her share from the inside. So there they were a perfect trio. Tippy, Honey and I, frankly calling to her husband to come and get her. But the Man at the Wheel was afraid of dogs too so all he did was sit there and shout encouragement to his wife over the barking of the dogs to come on back to the car, the dogs wouldn't hurt her! Which was true.

Fortunately Partner heard the commotion and left the barn to investigate the cause. In a little while all was peace and quietness. And thus I found things when I returned home half an hour later. But I am not too sure that my friend agree with the idea that every farm family should keep a good dog.

Naturally we were sorry our friend found themselves in such a predicament but we still feel it was unnecessary. We also think that a person might as well not keep a dog at all as keep one that doesn't bark. Dogs of course have a great instinct regarding human reaction to their watch-dog tactics. A dog knows very well when a person is afraid of him and the more fear the person shows the more the dog barks.

Walk up to a house or barn and take absolutely no notice of any dog that runs out to meet you and the chances are he will just go about his business satisfied that you have no evil designs upon the house or its occupants. For my part the only kind of dog I am afraid of is the kind that slinks along behind me and doesn't bark. That sort of dog needs watching.

Well, we seem to be getting plenty of rain these days, but was there ever a fall that was more beautiful? The few nights of white frost that we got a little while ago really did the trick. And now the current spell of warm weather is prolonging the season of colour and charm. And what is left in the garden is still growing. Last week I was busy potting the geranium clips I had rooted in the garden.

And speaking of geraniums we have one small bed at the back of the house hard as clay, and yet it grows the biggest geraniums I ever saw. I picked two leaves the other day-one measured seven inches across, the other six and a half. One plant had 32 heads in full bloom at one time. And then just as it was at the height of its glory something had to happen to my lovely geranium. One by one the leaves turned brown and died, but they did not drop off.

In a few weeks it was a sad looking plant although it kept on blooming. Yesterday I decided it was no longer a thing of beauty nor could it possibly be a joy forever so I pulled the plant up by the roots. Turning it upside down I examined the woody stalks and found a dozen or more creamy-white insects in and around the roots. Insects like miniature centipedes lots of legs and a pair of prong-like feelers. Without a doubt these insects had been responsible for the slow death of the plant. But what were they and how does one get at the things to stop their work of destruction?

If anyone knows the answer I should be glad of advice as I hope to have a lot of geraniums bedded out next year and it would be awful if they all went the same way.

Our grandson was here yesterday and he must be getting to know his grandpa as he went to sleep in my arms while his mummy and daddy were out picking apples.

Right To Be Different
Don't laugh at the fellow who is an eccentric or screwball because it is the type of person who is apt to come up with an idea that might change the world. A right of democracy is the right to be different so when you see somebody doing something in an odd or startling manner, don't laugh at him watch him.
