Thomas W. Treanor Dies in 75th Year

A resident of Georgetown for over 50 years, Thomas W. Treanor, 74, died suddenly at his home on October 1. After spending his earlier years in Harrison, Michigan, he had been employed by Provincial Paper Ltd., Georgetown, for 30 years, and was a member of the firm's Quarter Century Club. Since retirement, his chief interests were in his garden and various sports, especially hockey and baseball. His wife, Cecilia Langan, predeceased him 14 years ago.

He was a member of Holy Cross Church and is survived by a family of five daughters, Margaret of Toronto; Alice and Eleanor, of Georgetown; Kathleen (Mrs. Neil Gibbons), Acton; and Marion (Mrs. Arnold Atwood), Peterborough. Two brothers, Frank J. Treanor, Lansing, Mich., and Leo J. Treanor, Detroit, also survive.

Requiem mass was sung in Holy Cross Church on Monday morning, October 4, with Rev. Father V. J. Morgan officiating, and interment was in Greenwood cemetery. Pallbearers were Fred Armstrong, Norman Hill, Harvey Armstrong, Frank Asbeck, Joseph Gibbons and Richard Licata.

Chronicles of Ginger Farm
Written Specially for the Acton Free Press by Gwendoline F. Clarke

We have just enjoyed a lovely week-end insofar as weather was concerned—and I expect the same thought was in everyone's mind—how different from the week before when the devastating effect of Hurricane Hazel was making itself felt more and more with every passing hour. There has been so much written and broadcast about the storm you would think there could be nothing left to tell and yet every day more details come to light about places that were not even mentioned at first.

The other day, for instance, I got a letter from my sister, now living on the outskirts of Oshawa. We had not read of any damage being done at Oshawa, nor did Kathleen mention floods, but she did say the power went off at 5:45 p.m. Friday and on Sunday night, up to the time she wrote, it was still off. So in her apartment, for two days anyway, there was no heat, light, radio or means of cooking a meal. Friends in another district had invited Kathleen and son Kiemi to dinner Saturday and Sunday. Afterwards, of course, they had to return to their cold, comfortable apartment.

Another day a young fellow came here who had spent the week-end up near Owen Sound. Driving back he saw three accidents near Orangeville. On one occasion a car overtook him and then careened across the road and turned over in a water-filled ditch. He helped the trapped occupants to safety through the window of the car otherwise they would surely have drowned.

Dee and Art were here Sunday and they did not suffer any inconvenience at all—at least not in regard to the storm. Their trouble had been with Davey who had had a bad cold or slight congestion with a temperature of 102 degrees. However, penicillin saved the day and David is now as good as new. Sometimes I wonder how we mothers ever raised our families before penicillin was discovered.

Bob and Joy came up last Friday as I was unable to get out to do my weekly shopping. The only

Honor Bride-To-Be Prior To Marriage

Miss Margaret Blow, who was married on October 9 to Warren Wood, was entertained at several showers prior to the wedding.

Mrs. A. McIsaac invited friends and neighbors to a miscellaneous shower at her home, and Mrs. W. Dumarch held a linen shower, with tennis club members and friends present. Miss F. Wilkins held a kitchen and pantry shower which Beardmore office friends attended and Miss Helen Holmes was hostess when friends from Acton, Toronto and Hamilton held a cup and saucer shower.

A tea was held by Mrs. F. Blow at her Bower Ave. home for friends and relatives on Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 13.

Saving money... and writing cheques

SAVINGS CURRENT

A bank offers you two types of deposit account, Savings and Current.

If your main purpose is to save, to accumulate funds, it's good to have a Savings account.

If you write cheques frequently, you will like the many advantages of a Current account.

The money you leave in a Savings account earns interest, and your bank book gives you an up-to-date, continuing record of your financial progress. If your funds are active, with frequent deposits and withdrawals, a Current account provides a special service; a monthly statement, together with your cancelled cheques—useful as receipts and a ready reference for budgeting, bookkeeping and other purposes.

Mrs. A. Saunders Hostess To W.A.

Mrs. A. Saunders was hostess to 10 members of Churchill Women's Association on Wednesday afternoon last week. Donations were taken by Mrs. T. Griffin and after roll call and fees were taken a very gratifying report was given on the turkey supper.

Plans were made to hold the W.M. S. Thankoffering the end of the month, and invite several other church groups to take part and to hear the guest speaker, Miss Jean Stewart, who was a missionary in China for several years, and is now working among the Japanese in Hamilton.

The fall bazaar was organized and the ladies are all working on their pillow cases, aprons, etc. A Hallo-wen social is to be held in the Sunday school room.

Mrs. Saunders and Evelyn served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

storm damage in their Oakville home was from rain driving in under the doors and windows.

But on the farm Partner is still fixing fences and filling in gulleys. And there is still the bridge in the lane to repair—or rather the approaches to it. It will probably take quite a few loads of fill to build it up again properly.

Another thing, my recent severe attack of lumbago, from which I am now thankfully recovering, is directly attributable to Hurricane Hazel. Thinking Partner had enough to do outside I was padding around in the flooded cellar trying to get the furnace going. And that finished me for awhile. And now Partner's neuritis, which is always with him, has become much worse.

So, while our troubles are negligible compared with the poor souls in the disaster areas yet they are real enough to have caused us considerable inconvenience and discomfort. And I suppose that applies to quite a number of other farms and farm families.

How helpless can one get without being really sick? Doctors and hospitals perform near-miracles in many apparently hopeless cases involving illness and accidents and yet many cases of chronic arthritis and neuritis still resist every known treatment. Arthritis alone, so statistics say, is responsible for more lost man-hours of work than any other disability. It is also the last word in unpredictability. Partner can carry a full pail of milk with the greatest of ease yet he is almost helpless when it comes to handling his own knife and fork at the dinner table. It doesn't really make sense but there it is.

Science moves along, sometimes slowly, sometimes with startling rapidity. As for instance in the case of weeds. Partner has always been opposed to chemical destruction of weeds. He believes in control but not destruction on the theory that the fibrous roots of weeds are necessary to prevent soil erosion. So we were naturally interested in an article published recently on beetles and weeds.

Experiments have been taking place in California and British Columbia for destroying St. Johnswort by introducing a certain type of insect which feeds only on this particular weed. It has found a cheaper and more effective method of eradication than spraying with chemicals. The insects do not attack any other form of vegetation. It is thought plant life and the insect world are so closely allied that future experiments may lead to the natural eradication of most of our troublesome weeds.

The Parasitic Branch of the Dominion department of Biology is now experimenting with couch grass. Poison ivy, ragweed and wild oats are also on the list. Apparently every plant has its enemy bug. All that has to be done is sort out the plants and bugs and let nature do the rest.
