Many Customers At Circle Bazaar

The annual Christmas bazaar under the auspices of the Friendly Circle of Acton United Church held on Saturday, November 6, proved to be their "biggest and best."

There was a steady flow of eager buyers into the basement of the church during the afternoon.

The sumptuous table of home baking and candy had something to tempt the taste of each buyer from chocolate eclairs to homemade bread and hand dipped chocolates.

Under the convenship of Mrs. Marie Bilton, Mrs. Freida Perkins, Mrs. Edna Nellis and Mrs. Marjorie Loutitt the miscellaneous table was resplendent with Christmas decorations and gifts as well as many practical items from the gay potterias.

The tea tables were a popular spot where Mrs. Laura Lovell and Mrs. Helen Rogvaldson and their assistants served afternoon tea.

The bazaar was convened by Mrs. C. Leatherland assisted by the president, Mrs. C. Cook. Others helping were: knitting table, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Barrett; serving, Mrs. G. Hargrave.

Annexation Hearings Are Over, Case to Argument

Dale's questions on debenture debt, school area and fire area costs, and how loss of levy by annexation would affect tax revenue. He was briefly questioned, in turn, by Mr. Lucas.

No more witnesses were called by the township and as Mr. Dale moved to request inspection of the lands involved by the board representatives, W. J. Moore and E. J. Schoniker, Mr. Lucas rose to recall Mayor E. Tyler.

Short Dispute Arises

Here a short dispute passed between the two counsels on the point of propriety in submission for review of the claim there are 126 acres of vacant land in Acton. The difference chiefly involved Acton assessor G. Musselle an earlier witness and circumstances which preceded his testimony.

Two witnesses were then called by P. McWilliams who was primarily acting for a private group of property owners west of Acton and desirous of annexation.

Mrs. J. Jany described lands formerly in her possession and now in process of sale to a Hamilton firm of subdividers, Fraleigh Construction Co. Following Mrs. Jany, R. Jeffery, a shareholder in the firm, outlined the development intentions for the Jany property and emphasized that to complete the plans for subdivision it was necessary to have the part outside Acton annexed. He further stated the town was agreeable to supplying services and viewed annexation of this area favorably.

Acton High School News

The team-basket competition is still in progress with Footitt leading. Next is Coon. One student brought in 51 baskets, which is very good.

The boys' inter-mural rugby schedule is coming along quite well. Four games have been played; first game was on November 10 when Dawkins and Arbie played, with Arbie winning 10-0.

The boys' intramural volleyball schedule has had only one game, played on Tuesday, November 16 with Coon playing Footitt. Footitt was defeated by a score of 18-15.

Friday's dance was a great success with about 80 attending. The dancing was in the library to records. Doughnuts and soft drinks were sold from the office. Everyone enjoyed the dance.

The electricians have been working putting the finishing touches which included the outside lights. The clocks are also being installed this week so we will have automatic bells as they are contained in the clocks.

On Tuesday, A.H.S. had a visitor, namely Mr. Robbins, our former principal. He was passing through, so dropped in for a few moments.

At this point Mr. Dale conceded this property when it is applied for annexation. The presiding officer, Mr. Moore, injected the board has the pleasure of discretion on consideration of this property out of these hearings.

Acton counsel Lucas stood to recall the town's original annexation application and its bounds. He noted the reasons for the change in the proposal earlier this year, but allowed that the town, in a long-range view, was still receptive to annexation of the lands bounded under the original 1897-acre bid.

The town's favor to this larger area was strengthened, he continued, by the evidence of anxiousness on the part of Mr. McWilliams' clients and the Hamilton subdividers to be brought into the municipality.

Defending the township's stand against neediness or additional annexation of Esquering lands, Mr. Dale reiterated his client would not block any bona fide housing developments but was set against unnecessary acquisition of the township's present properties.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Bruce read an address to Mrs. Matthews who is moving to Windsor and a presentation of a comfort was made by Mrs. Aitken.
